Tokio to Fight for One More Ship.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 14.—An agreement or naval limitation by the principal maritime powers is virtually within sight, according to opinion prevailing among the American delegation tonight at the close of the first day of bedrock negotiations between Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, Andre Tardieu, French premier, and American Secretary of State Stimson. Supporting Mr. Stimson in matching wits with the prime minister of Great Britain and the premier of France were Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and Senator Joseph T. Robinson.

Fate Hangs on Battleship.

While no important commitments were made in behalf of any of the nine nations participating in this conference, the impression current at American headquarters tonight is that Great Britain and France are verging toward an agreement. On the assumption that Mr. MacDonald and Premier Tardieu will eventually compose their differences on the relative strengths of the British and French navies a prediction is hazarded that the fate of the London conference will hang on the one cruiser in dispute between Japan on one side and America and Great Britain on the other.

Whether the United States senate will be likely to ratify a treaty allowing Japan an additional eight inch gun cruiser, capable of crossing the Pacific, may be the determining factor in the final showdown around the conference table.

If America, backed by Great Britain, should turn thumbs down on another big cruiser for Japan it would be up to Tokio to decide whether to wreck the conference or recede gracefully in consideration of other concessions.

Comparative Tonnage Figures.

Under the Stimson proposals the tonnage of auxiliary categories of the American and Japanese navies would be fixed as follows:

Big cruisers—United States, 180,000 tons; Japan, 108,000 tons.

Small cruisers—United States, 147,000 tons; Japan, 88,000 tons.

Destroyers—United States, 150,000 tons; Japan, 90,000 tons.

Submarines—United States, 60,000 tons; Japan, 40,000 tons.

The Stimson proposals therefore allow Japan 60 per cent of the American tonnage in cruisers and destroyers, the same as the capital ship ratio of the Washington treaty, but 66 2-3 per cent of the submarines.

Japan has now made a counter proposal to the American delegation, in alternative form, varying according to whether America is to have its eight-inch big cruisers, as stipulated in the Anglo-American agreement, or exercises its option to come down to the level of the fifteen Great Britain is to be allowed.

Japan's Counter Proposal.

What has happened in effect is that Mr. Stimson proposed a slide rule cruiser arrangement between Great Britain and America. Japan came back with a proposal for a slide rule cruiser" arrangement between America and Japan. The Japanese would have 108,400 tons of eight inch gun cruisers.

According to terms of their counter proposal, they are content to go no higher than that, if we agree to limit ourselves to 150,000 tons, an equivalent to fifteen 10,000 tonners. In that event they would want 105,000 tons of small cruisers, compared to our 177,000 tons. The Japanese now have 81,000 tons of small cruisers.

If, however, America is to have eighteen big cruisers aggregating 180,000 tons, the Japanese say they must have 126,000 tons of this class of ships, which is about 18,000 tons more than they have today in eight big cruisers built, with four being constructed.

After 70 Per Cent Cruiser Ratio.

The additional tonnage of big cruisers Japan wants on the basis of American having eighteen is equivalent to seven more cruisers. That would give Japan fourteen, compared to America's eighteen and Great Britain's fifteen. Compared to 60 per cent of the capital ship tonnage Japan accepted at the Washington conference, it would have 70 per cent of America's big cruiser tonnage and 84 per cent of Great Britain's. The present Japanese big cruiser tonnage is 72 per cent of the British.

In destroyers Japan is asking 90,000 tons, or 70 per cent of the American quota, and in submarines it seeks a parity instead of the two-to-one ratio which Mr. Stimson proposed to allow it.

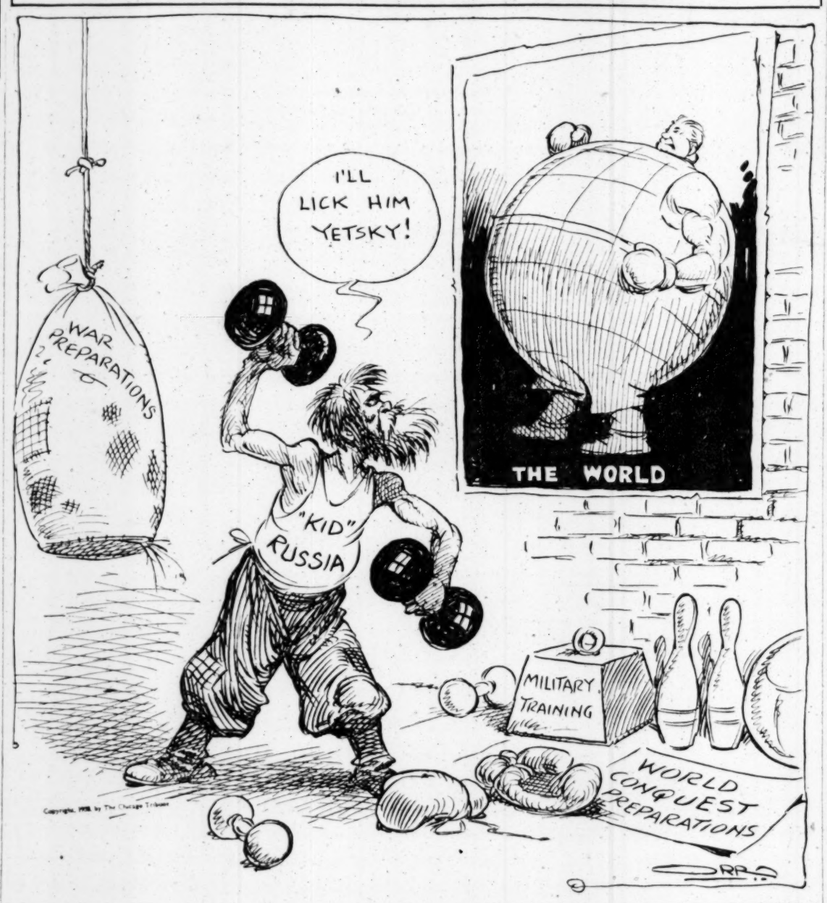
STILL TRAINING FOR TROUBLE



GUNMEN TRAP VICTIM; SHOOT HIM TO DEATH

Tony Lombardo, 25 years old, who served two terms in the Bridewell in 1927 for purse snatching, was killed last night by gunmen after they had lured him into an alley ambush at Austin avenue and Bixby court.

He was found dead at the rear of 1411 Austin avenue with shotgun and pistol wounds in the head and body. A double barreled shotgun, with both barrels discharged, was lying about fifteen feet from the body, where one of the slayers had tossed it. Residents of the neighborhood said they heard several shots and then saw two men run from the alley and go north in Bixby court.

The police were investigating two theories in their search for a motive for the slaying. One was that Lombardo had branched out into the bootlegging racket and incurred the enmity of some one more powerful. Lieut. John Norton expressed the belief that Lombardo might have turned from thievery to extortion and met death at the hands of intended victims.

The police said the dead man was not a relative of the more notorious Tony Lombardo, Sicilian leader, who was shot to death in 1928 at Madison and Dearborn streets.

Now Who Can They Be, These Six Hard Men?

Late last evening a cab turned from the mouth of an alley near Elm street into State street. In the tonneau sat a man holding a bundle that under a covering of green cloth resembled a human form. The cab went south in State street and west in Chicago avenue. The driver proceeded cautiously, but whenever he passed over anything that jostled the man inside the latter would say:

"Be careful! Didn't I tell you to be careful? I don't want to break it!"

Each time the cab driver touched his cap and drove slowly on. He was headed for an address in Milwaukee avenue.

Whoa! Back They Go.

When the cab was half way there the passenger, still clutching the precious bundle, suddenly rapped for the driver, and told him to return to the rear of 10 West Elm street.

"I've forgotten something!" he said.

With infinite care the driver turned and drove back. As they neared the Elm street alley the passenger noticed a big black automobile filled with men following the cab.

When the taxi stopped behind No. 10, the big car rolled up and six men leaped out. They surrounded the cab. They opened the doors from both sides. They turned flashlights on the passenger's face. The driver crouched. He thought, he said later, it was a stickup. The six men all had pistols.

Now Who Can They Be?

"Whatta you got there?" growled the leader.

"My goodness!" said the passenger, "I'm not used to making exhibitions at the point of revolvers."

"We'll make an exhibition of you—uncover the bundle!" rasped the leader.

"My!" exclaimed the passenger. "You must be prohibition agents, you're so careless with your guns."

There was a revolver barrel in the passenger's ribs from both sides now. He paled a little. Then he seized the cover and pulled it from the object in his arms.

Shock for Dangerous Six.

The six men with guns gasped. They were gazing at the marble statue of a woman.

There was a pause.

Then, without a word, the six men pocketed their revolvers, got into their car and backed out of the alley.

The passenger was Oskar J. W. Hansen, sculptor, winner of many art prizes. The statue was his "The Madonna," which won the Shafer prize in the Art institute two years ago. He was taking it to his cast maker in Milwaukee avenue, when he remembered he had forgotten something.

MAHOMET'S FAITH IN KORAN KEEPS HIM OUT OF JAIL

Assistant United States Attorney Eugene A. Tappy forsook study of federal statutes yesterday to delve into the Koran for solution of the case of Mahomet Abed Mageed, a Mohammedan, who became a naturalized citizen several years ago.

In his petition for naturalization, Mahomet swore he was unmarried. A few days ago he applied for a passport to bring his wife and children to this country. Immigration officials noted this apparent variation from Mahomet's petition and had him arrested on charges of perjury.

To Attorney Tappy the legal implications appeared clear. But Mahomet produced the Koran, pointing to the passage that gives a true believer in Islam the right to divorce his wife by saying in her presence, "I don't want you" three times. Mr. Tappy reconsidered, and announced to the immigration officials that he had decided not to prosecute the perjury charge.

WINTER RETURNS, BUT VISIT WILL NOT BE LENGTHY

Winter, after a two weeks' retirement, was playing a return engagement in Chicago last night, with a heavy snowfall and dropping temperatures which may fall as low as 5 degrees above zero today.

After falling to a minimum of 13 degrees yesterday at 7 a. m., the temperature climbed rapidly to the mid-twenties by the middle of the afternoon and then started falling again. A heavy snow, whipped by a fresh northwest wind, swept across the city throughout the evening.

Fair weather is forecast for today and tomorrow, with warmer weather expected tomorrow. The brief cold wave, moving down out of the northwest, had overspread most of the northwestern states last night and will cover the middle west by today, although the reaction toward warmer weather is expected to start in the Dakotas before nightfall.

TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE

PROJECTS TOTAL $33,000,000 TO AID CITY IN 1930

Way Clear to Start This Spring.

Vast Highway Project

Added to the $25,000,000 for the lake front development is more than $8,000,000 to be expended on Cook county's highway program in 1930, making a total of $33,000,000 for public improvements this year. Details of the $22,500,000 three year highway program will be found on page 4.

Public projects costing $25,000,000 which will promote Chicago's prosperity this year, beautify it, and open up a new downtown business district east of Michigan avenue and north of Randolph street, were assured yesterday. The last barrier to the long awaited lake front plan was swept away when the Illinois commerce commission gave its final approval to the lake front ordinance.

Approximately three-fifths of the $25,000,000, or about $15,000,000, is now available for use and can be spent with the opening of the outdoor working season this spring.

Large Projects Approved.

The legal purpose of the commerce commission's order yesterday was to grant to the Illinois Central and Michigan Central railroads the right to build the Randolph street viaduct and the permanent Randolph street suburban station. Actually the ruling gives final approval to all the plans in the lake front ordinance, including the following important projects:

1. The Randolph street viaduct, running east from Michigan avenue to the extension of the outer drive, to be known as Field drive. Replacing the present worn wooden bridge, the viaduct will be 128 feet wide and at the point where it joins Field drive will be about 45 feet above the lake level.

2. The Randolph street suburban station, to be built beneath and to the north of the viaduct. It is to be about 200 feet east and west, and slightly more than 128 feet, or the width of the viaduct, north and south.

$10,000,000 for Drive.

3. Field drive, 140 feet wide, will extend the present outer drive north, meeting the Randolph street viaduct and continuing north to the river. There it will turn east for a distance of about 900 feet, cross the river, and the Illinois-Michigan slip over the outer drive bridge and proceed thence to Lake Shore drive. This project alone represents a $10,000,000 expenditure, according to Manager Eugene S. Taylor of the Chicago Plan Commission.

4. The extension of Wacker drive across Michigan avenue and east along the south bank of the river to Field drive. The extension will be 112 feet wide.

5. The extension of Lake and East South Water streets, 88 and 66 feet wide, respectively, east through Michigan avenue to Field drive.

6. The cutting of several north and south streets paralled to Michigan avenue and Field drive, not to be more than 600 feet apart, and connecting the Wacker drive extension with the Randolph street viaduct. There will thus be created a new region for skyscrapers which must conform in height to their adjacent loop structures.

$15,000,000 for Other Projects.

Improvements other than Field drive will cost between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000 at a very conservative estimate, Mr. Taylor believes, making a grand total of about $25,000,000.

The bonds for Field drive already have been sold, Mr. Taylor believes, and the money is available whenever it is wanted. The city has agreed to stand the expense of the Wacker drive extension and for the Lake and East South Water street developments, while financial responsibility for the construction of the north and south streets through the district has not yet been decided.

Long a vital platform of the Chicago Plan commission, the lake front ordinance has been years in realization. The city council, the railroads, and the south park board have wrangled over each separate improvement proposed by the ordinance, but as finally and formally approved it stands for much that it did originally. The city council ratified it in October.

The ordinance is part of the beautification plan which, when completed, will extend from the Wisconsin line on the north to the Indiana border on the south.

Girl Cashier of Maywood Bank Gives Up

Miss Laverne Lindgren, cashier of the closed People's State bank of Maywood, surrendered to Maywood officials last night on a charge of embezzlement of bank funds. Miss Lindgren, who is 25 years old, was taken into custody at the Carlton hotel in Oak Park, to which her attorney, Malcolm McKerchar, had led Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney's office. Roche took her in his car to Maywood for arraignment before Police Magistrate George F. Lee.

With the arrest of Miss Lindgren Investigator Roche made new revelations linking the girl cashier's name with that of Elmer P. Langguth, 35 year old president of the closed bank, who also is charged with embezzling bank funds and who is at liberty under $100,000 bonds. Auditors examining the banks' books last night said the shortage in funds probably would approach $250,000.

Prosecutor Protects Girl.

When Miss Lindgren was arraigned before Magistrate Lee Assistant State's Attorney Edward D. Markham showed considerable solicitude for her, readily agreeing to an arrangement whereby she waived examination and was held to the grand jury. This saved the pretty cashier from making a statement or pleading guilty or not guilty.

Mr. Markham assisted the girl from the courtroom and held his hat before her face to prevent her being photographed. He frowned on the crowd that gazed curiously at the young woman as she was leaving, she having been permitted to leave for her home after her mother, Mrs. Hilda Lindgren, had posted a $10,000 bond.

Miss Lindgren, when arraigned, was slightly pale, but was cool throughout the brief session. It had been reported that she had been ill in a sanitarium since her disappearance nine days ago, following the discovery of shortages at the bank. She was fashionably dressed in a dark, fur trimmed coat, a tight green turban, a modish gown, and black oxfords. She had donned large, shell rimmed eyeglasses for her court appearance.

Mistake Reveals Operations.

Roche revealed last night how Langguth's operations came to light as a result of a mistake by Miss Lindgren.

"The village of Bellwood had deposited between $40,000 and $50,000 in the Maywood bank which had not been registered on the books," Roche said. "Miss Lindgren withdrew $10,000 from the Bellwood account, registering the withdrawal. The examiners found the withdrawal from an account of which they could find no record, and an investigation uncovered the shortage."

Roche gave a picture of Langguth's rise as a banker as revealed by his investigations.

"When the bank was organized in 1925," Roche said, "Langguth became vice president, and he bought 500 shares of stock in the institution at $130 a share. Before this he had been collector of special assessments for the village of Maywood."

Tells of Blackmail.

The investigator said he had information that Langguth had been blackmailed of $20,000 and that the blackmailer had left Maywood.

Then Roche drew the girl cashier into the picture again. The bank president, he said, bought two automobiles for Miss Lindgren and helped to pay for the $40,000 Lindgren home in Riverside.

"On one occasion Langguth persuaded the bank's directors to agree to pay Miss Lindgren's expenses when she accompanied him and his wife on a trip to Florida," Roche declared.

During two periods the accused banker maintained an apartment in Chicago, according to Roche, in addition to his two country homes.

The investigator said Langguth had used the bank's money to start the West Town Daily News, a newspaper that lost money, and that he had used the bank's funds to organize a cab company, placing two of his banking associates, Robert Lusso and Henry Friend, in charge of the company. This venture also has continued to lose money.

COUPLE AWARDED $1,500 FOR RAID ON HOME FOR LIQUOR

A jury in Superior Judge Harry C. Stuttle's court yesterday returned a verdict of $1,500 against four former officials of Midlothian in an action brought by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ludwig. Their home was searched for liquor May 24, 1928, on a warrant issued by former Justice of the Peace Walter C. Dohl. Although no liquor was found, the Ludwigs were subjected to suspicion of their neighbors, they complained. They brought action against Dohl, former Mayor J. H. Hamilton, and two former policemen, Charles E. Hansen and George Blessing.

U. S. DRY QUIZ TO AIR CHICAGO RUM SCANDALS

More Dry Bullets

Easthampton, L. I., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Two coast guard patrol boats twice fired machine gun shots toward spectators clustered on the beach near here watching a stranded rum runner, according to Deputy Sheriff John P. Jensen of Suffolk county, who completed an investigation of the incidents today.

The first shots were fired on Tuesday afternoon and on the following morning there was more firing. No one was hit, but the bullets whizzed "uncomfortably close," according to eight eyewitnesses who were interviewed by Mr. Jensen.

Some, it was admitted, bore eel spears, clam rakes, and nets with which to salvage some of the wreckage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—A picture of Chicago under prohibition, sketching in its gang feuds, politico-criminal alliances, and non-enforcement scandals for the background, is due to be spread upon the records of the house judiciary committee, which is conducting a hearing on proposals to repeal the 18th amendment.

RALPH M. SHAW. [(C): Moffett Photo]

That Chicago's criminal, law enforcement, and financial problems will be thoroughly aired was indicated today when Representative J. Charles Linthicum [Dem., Md.], leader of the wet bloc in the house, announced he had invited before the committee three prominent Chicagoans who, it is believed, hold the key to the situation.

Two Accept Invitations.

The committee resumes hearings next Wednesday. The witnesses named by Representative Linthicum, of whom two indicated they would accept the invitation to testify, are:

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. Mr. Randolph organized and is chairman of the association's secret committee of six which moved to investigate Chicago crime and its causes following the murder of a contractor on the University of Chicago campus recently.

Silas H. Strawn, member of the law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw. Mr. Strawn is chairman of the citizens' committee organized to rescue Chicago from its present financial crisis.

Ralph M. Shaw, law partner of Mr. Strawn. Mr. Shaw is a resident director of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Blames Prohibition Law.

To Mr. Randolph has been attributed the statement: "Chicago's crime situation is due to the damnable prohibition law."

In Chicago tonight the president of the association of commerce explained that the statement concerning prohibition represented only his personal views and had no bearing on his business leadership. Mr. Randolph's secret committee is to release its first report on Chicago's crime problem next Friday.

Mr. Shaw, who also was interviewed in Chicago tonight, said he was prepared to go to Washington to "explain why I don't believe in the prohibition law." He added that his partner, Mr. Strawn, who could not be reached in Chicago, did not subscribe to his (Mr Shaw's) beliefs on prohibition.

What They Will Talk About.

Although there has been no announcement regarding the phases of Chicago's situation, the witnesses will discuss, it is understood that Mr. Randolph will be asked concerning crime, Mr. Strawn concerning finances, and possibly political graft, and Mr. Shaw will present whatever data the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has accumulated in Chicago.

The wets on the committee are expected to portray the general breakdown of law enforcement engendered by prohibition. They attribute the recent series of gang murders there to the scramble among bootleggers for liquor profits. Added to this is Chicago's financial situation, which the wets attribute indirectly to corruption in office in the wake of prohibition.

The wets are eager, it is said, to get into the record a comprehensive review of enforcement activities in Chicago during the last several years. They may, for example, take up the episode of George E. (Hard 'Boiled) Golding, who spent six months in Chicago during 1928, a stay marked by two shootings, several court rebukes, and investigations, and was climaxed with the charge that one of the squad shot a citizen with a dum-dum bullet.

Records of the Chicago police department which show an increase of 200 and 300 per cent in arrests of drunken drivers since the inauguration of prohibition may be introduced before the committee.

Reports of United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley are available to the committee. For example, there is the yearly report of Mr. Yellowley, issued on Jan. 1, 1930, in which he declared that liquor importation had been reduced to a minimum, industrial alcohol diversion virtually stopped, and the character of the dry personnel elevated to "a very high standard."

Boisterous New Year's Eve.

Wet committee members may cite newspaper accounts of Chicago's boisterous New Year's eve celebration for comparison with Mr. Yellowley's claim of a "material improvement in the enforcement situation this year and each year since passage of the Volstead law."

The scandal of speakeasies near the public schools, which broke in November, 1928, and prompted parent-teacher associations, school authorities, aldermen and police to organize a drive to save boys and girls from acquiring the liquor habit, may be resurrected before the committee.

Then there is the failure of the Chicago prohibition bureau to get evidence on the gang leaders, who have reaped millions from the beer and liquor traffic. The committee may hear why Chicago has witnessed the spectacle of the bureau of internal revenue indicting and prosecuting such underworld characters as Ralph Capone and Terry Druggan for failure to pay taxes on bootleg profits of which, apparently, the prohibition department had no knowledge.

31 Concerns Indicted.

The recent indictment of 31 concerns including the Corn Products Refining company and the Fleischmann Yeast company, together with 157 individuals, may be brought up at the committee hearing.

There is a recollection that of the concerns indicted, 31 were of dubious standing. One, a brewing concern, had suffered revocation of its license four times and was operating under a fifth renewal when the indictments were returned.

The records of the Keeley institute at Dwight, Ill., showing that the institution treated more inebriates in 1929 than in any year since 1907, may be introduced, since the figures of the institute officials have been widely publicized and challenged by dry and religious organs.

The scandal created when Ald. Titus Haffa, political follower of Mayor Thompson, was convicted as one of the leaders of a million dollar rum ring in his Chicago ward, may be heard by the committee. Also the case of Fred Mann's Rainbo Garden, Chicago café, following the padlocking of which Mayor Thompson protested at what he termed the persecution of Chicago prohibition agents.

Seeks to Quiz Liggett.

Meanwhile charges made Wednesday by Walter W. Liggett, magazine writer, before the committee regarding liquor scandals in Kansas brought forth an energetic counter attack from the dry officialdom of that state.

Attorney General W. A. Smith, with the approval of Gov. Clyde Reed, wired a demand that he be allowed to come to Washington and cross-examine Mr. Liggett, whose statements he branded as "false, libelous and untrue."

Representative George S. Graham [Rep., Pa.], chairman of the committee, said he had no objections and would permit Mr. Smith to conduct his grilling when the committee resumes its prohibition hearing next Wednesday if Mr. Liggett is willing to reappear.

Members of the committee also received word today that Gov. Fred W. Green of Michigan, who, Liggett testified, attended a drinking orgy in Detroit last September, will be in the capital tomorrow to attend anniversary services at Arlington cemetery in commemoration of the sinking of the Maine.

Gov. Green was said to have explained by telephone that he considered Liggett's charges unworthy of an answer, although he was willing to appear before the committee if invited.

$45,000 DETROIT PLANE BURNS AT SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—A trimotored, eight passenger plane, valued at $45,000, and owned by C. H. Nahey, airplane maker of Detroit, caught fire and made a forced landing on a frozen marsh seven miles southwest of here late today.

Michael Chiesielski, owner of the swamp on which the ship landed, saw two men alight and stride across the fields, apparently unhurt, to the roadside, where they caught a ride with another farmer, Arthur Jain, who drove them to South Bend.

When deputy sheriffs reached the plane only the engine and the twisted metal frame remained. Jain said the men told him they were flying from St. Louis to Detroit.

BORDER OFFICER TELLS HOW HE SLEW VIRKKULA

Testifies in Own Defense at Murder Trial.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Duluth, Minn., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Emmett J. White, 24 years old, United States customs patrol officer, told today for the first time his story of how he shot and killed Gust Henry Virkkula on the highway, 27 miles south of the Canadian border, on the night of June 8 last.

White was a witness in his own defense in the murder case which is being prosecuted against him by the state of Minnesota before Federal Judge William A. Cant.

White was born in Duluth and received a grammar school education here. He was a sailor on the great lakes, a hospital orderly, a caretaker of horses for the 125th field artillery, a forest service fire guard, and a soldier in the U. S. army at Fort Riley, Kas., before he was inducted into the customs service on May 1 last. He was married on May 2 and was stationed at International Falls, where he, with six other recruits, were instructed by N. A. Linderberg, assistant collector of customs.

Told to Use Force.

"My instructions under the tariff act of 1922 were to use all necessary force to enforce compliance with our orders in stopping cars on the highway," he said. "If the driver failed to stop we were to try to disable the car."

On the evening of June 8, he testified, he went out on patrol duty on highway number 4 with Emil Servine, another patrolman. They had been advised that liquor runners were at work along Rainy river, and took a position on the road where all cars from the north must pass.

They parked in front of the farm of Virgil Suhr near Little Fork. It was White's job that night to hold the riot gun which had been issued to them by the government, and Servine's job to stand in the road in front of approaching cars holding up a big "stop" sign and flashing a light.

Knew Little About Gun.

White said he had shot the gun but once before, and that was at a hawk which he missed. He did not know much about the use or action of this kind of a gun.

"We saw the lights of the Virkkula car two miles away at first," said White, who bore himself well in front of the jury. "The car was a long time coming. I took the gun. We were thinking about going off duty when we had inspected this car.

"The lights came into view again and Servine flashes his light and opens up his 'sign.' The car was slowing down and I thought it was going to stop. It came pretty close to Servine, then burst out and speeded past Servine. He had to jump or get hit. He yelled, 'Hey, stop!' I thought the car was going to run over me and I pointed the gun straight at the driver to warn him and I heard Servine say something about shooting the tires and I shot at the ground as the car went by me. He continued down the road and I fired a second shot. I didn't try to hit it, but that shot is in the car now. I next aimed at the tail light with a third shot and then the car went into the ditch and I heard a scream.

Didn't Seem Possible.

"I ran up to the car and this woman starts telling me I had killed Virkkula. It didn't seem possible to me I had killed a man. It didn't seem real. She was telling me I was a murderer. We took him to the hospital. I didn't know he was dead. His eyes were open and she was holding him.

"When they told her he was dead she was like a wild woman. She wouldn't leave him. The children were crying. I went to the undertaking room and there I realized he was dead.

"I could not see any one in the car when it passed me. My eyes were blinded by the lights and when I shot the car threw gravel in my face and my footing was insecure."

Sharpshooter in Army.

Questioned more in detail by his attorney, George A. Helsey, assistant U. S. attorney at St. Paul, White said the first shot was into ground and the second and third at the tires. He said once that he did not aim at all, and again that he aimed at the tires, shifting from one wheel to another. The car speeded up to 35 miles an hour after it passed Servine. It was brought out in cross-examination by Attorney Oscar J. Larson that White was a sharpshooter and expert rifleman in the army, but the witness insisted he knew little about shotguns.

Servine, who used to be a school teacher and who had been in the service 300 days and had stopped about 2,000 cars, was another defense witness.

"Let Him Have It."

"I was under the impression that the car was going to stop as it came up to the sign," he said. "Suddenly he picked up speed. I shouted 'Stop!' as loud as I could. I was worried about White. He was in the glare of the lights with his gun. It irked me to think that a man would deliberately drive toward an armed officer in an attempt to run over him. I shouted, 'Let him have it—shoot his tires,' and White shot downward.

"I saw the flare again slightly higher, then more shots in a more horizontal angle. The car speeded up for 150 feet and then went into the ditch. I ran to our car to get my revolver, as I thought we were running up against something tough. White ran to the other car and asked, 'Is any one hurt?' We saw the woman and the children. White said, 'Don't cry. He's all right,' and the woman said, 'You have killed him. Why don't you shoot at the tires like you are supposed to?'

"I did not answer her, but put water on the man's face. White said, 'He's all right. He's opening his eyes. If I've killed that man I'll never have another happy minute as long as I live.'"

Servine testified that two pint flasks, both empty, were found in a suitcase in the car.

Negro Arrested After Still Explosion Injures Thirty

New York, Feb. 15.—[Special.]—David Spear, 46, a Negro barber, was arrested late last night at his home in Atlantic avenue in connection with the explosion of a still in Dean street, Brooklyn, on Thursday in which thirty persons were injured. Spear, whose arrest was the result of a "tip" to the police, had cuts and abrasions on his face and body. He denied having operated the still, but was charged with felonious assault, stealing gas from a gas main, and operating the still.

BOMB PLOTTER SENTENCED TO 1 TO 20 YEARS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Nathan Vehon, bombing, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Robert Miller and Harry Peterson, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary; Jerry Nichols, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge William N. Gemmill.

Gaetenna Monna, assault to murder, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Frank Daniels, Alex Schlicter and Joseph Roach, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Peter Schwaba.

George Minor, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Nathan Vehon, 58 years old, 5550 Kenmore avenue, a manufacturer of silk products, yesterday was sentenced to the penitentiary for 1 to 20 years. He was convicted last week of instigating a plot which resulted in the bombing of the home of his former partner, Philip Bloom, 4858 North Hermitage avenue.

Judge William N. Gemmill in the Criminal court refused to grant a new trial and ordered Vehon to the penitentiary. Attorney Edward I. Rothbart of the firm of Rothbart & Lewis, representing Bloom, said that his client had no recommendation to make in behalf of the clemency plea of his former partner.

The discovery that Vehon had instigated the plot came about with the arrest of Harlan Brown, a shipping clerk employed by Vehon. Brown was arrested for stealing from his employer, and he then revealed the plot. Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks prosecuted the case.

OPEN 2 INQUIRIES INTO SHOOTING OF NURSE BY A DRY

Jury and Federal Chiefs Seeking Facts.

Knoxville, Ia., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Two investigations were started today into the shooting last Saturday night of Miss Nellie Church, 25, nurse at the war veterans' hospital here, by federal prohibition agents.

The Marion county grand jury this afternoon called witnesses to testify concerning the affair, in which Miss Church received a slight scalp wound.

From Chicago E. C. Yellowley, district prohibition administrator, sent word to Glenn Brunson, deputy administrator for southern Iowa, ordering a complete investigation. He also said a report of the shooting was being made to headquarters at Washington.

Claim Shot Fired at Ground.

Miss Church, Riza Huff, another nurse, and Willard Woodward and William Patterson of Des Moines, were in the car which bumped into an automobile bearing Roy Moon and Charles Hindley, federal operatives working under Brunson.

The federal men ordered the other car to stop, and, they claim, after it failed to do so, Hindley fired at the ground. The shot glanced through the rear window of the nurse's car and Miss Church's scalp was grazed.

Four witnesses were called before the grand jury this afternoon. They were two nurses and Dr. R. V. Mater, who attended Miss Church after the shooting, and W. D. Casey of the Knoxville Express, to whom the girls first told the story of the affair yesterday.

SUSPENSIONS ADVISED.

In a communication to Prohibition Commissioner Doran in Washington Administrator Yellowley yesterday recommended the suspension of Agents Roy Moon and Charles Hindley of the Iowa district, who shot and wounded a veterans' hospital nurse at Knoxville, Ia., Saturday. Although the shooting occurred five days ago Deputy Administrator Glenn Brunson of Des Moines did not report it to Mr. Yellowley until yesterday.

REALTY OWNERS HOLD THE BAG IN DRY PADLOCKING

Permanent injunctions issued by Federal Judge Lindley yesterday against 21 places charged with violating the dry laws will tie up nearly $500,000 in real estate for a year and will cost property owners who rented their premises approximately $60,000, according to an estimate made by Assistant United States Attorney La Verne Norris, who obtained the padlock orders.

One of the places closed was the Beau Monde club, well known night club operated by Frank Pope, sometimes known as the "millionaire newsboy," at 519 Diversey parkway. Pope's landlord is due to lose $4,500 in rent during the next year, while furnishings and fixtures of the club valued at $50,000 will be tied up by the padlock order, Mr. Norris said.

Police Captains Ordered to Keep Up Crime Drive

No praise was given to the police captains assembled yesterday in Commissioner Russell's office. Instead they heard the stern command.

"Keep it up and do better, for I am watching all of your districts."

Any who thought they were due for a letup in their efforts—[illegible] the arrest of over 2,000 disreput[illegible]s, 40 of whom were carrying pistols and whose cases were quickly brought before the grand jury—were mistaken. Privately the commissioner was pleased with the results of the last week, but he is giving his subordinates no excuse to relax in their campaign.

Crime Cut in Half.

"There has been a very material drop in crime, about 50 per cent, since we started this drive," Russell said after the meeting. "But I told the captains I wanted them to put forth greater efforts. I let them know I am keeping a record of the accomplishments of each one.

"I also ordered the 90 motorcycle policemen to do crime duty as well as traffic duty. The record of the last week must be duplicated every other week."

Commissioner Russell called attention to the attempted robbery in Detroit Thursday night in which one bandit, Ray O'Laughlin, formerly of Chicago, was killed. This was further evidence of the exodus of criminals from Chicago, he declared.

Identification Is Complete.

O'Laughlin was identified through finger prints brought to the Chicago bureau of identification yesterday. From descriptions of O'Laughlin's companions Chicago police believed they were John Sisuly and Louis McKenzie, who escaped from the Cook county jail on Dec. 19, 1929.

The revolver taken from O'Laughlin's body was found to be the one taken from Policeman Richard Burke, who, with Policeman William Hoban, was disarmed during the robbery of a north side saloon on Oct. 15, 1929. O'Laughlin was identified here as the murderer of Ben Pfluger, 5043 South Kenneth avenue, who was slain on June 12, 1929, while with Mrs. Mary Petty in an automobile near 5155 Archer avenue.

O'Laughlin at that time was an underling of George Barker, [illegible] union terrorist, indicted yesterday as a gun carrier, and he was [illegible] automobile of the Midwest G[illegible] Association, which was Barker's racketeer organization.

Mike Quirk Rearrested.

Mike Quirk, arrested with Barker Wednesday evening in a West Madison street hideout, was rearrested yesterday as he left court after obtaining a continuance. He was accused by Policeman Frank Vitek of being the man who shot at the policeman last Sunday morning.

The body of the Negro killed Thursday night by members of Sergt. Frank Reynolds' squad was identified by many persons yesterday as that of a robber. Reynolds and his men came upon the Negro robbing George Goddard, 6243 Kenwood avenue, a cab driver, in front of 4410 South State street. He shot at the detectives and was killed while running away.

Other robbery victims were viewing the body of the man believed to have been Manford Allen Blunt of El Paso, Tex., who was killed when he attempted to rob the Central Cycle Sales store at 711 West Jackson boulevard Thursday night. No one had identified the body last night.

Police Plan Approved.

The reorganization of the police department in accordance with the findings of the citizens' police committee was approved yesterday by the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The citizens' committee, headed by Elmer T. Stevens, plans to ask the city council next week to amend the police ordinances so as to make the reorganization possible.

The outstanding feature of the reorganization is the formation of the police districts into six inspection areas, whose commanders shall be responsible to a chief inspector. Under the new plan only eight department heads will be directly responsible to the police commissioner.

CARBARY LEADS AURORA RAIDS ON 24 SPEAKEASIES

Twenty-four saloons were raided in Aurora last night by C. Edson Smith, assistant prohibition director of the Chicago area, reinforced by a squad in command of George D. Carbary, state's attorney of Kane county.

The Corner Coffee shop, at York and Broadway, in the heart of Aurora, was wrecked after several barrels of beer were found. Paul Wittry, Howard Stang, and Frank Bauman were arrested. Although it has been operating for years, the Corner had never before suffered a raid.

TRAEGER LEARNS FATE TODAY IN CONTEMPT CASE

Attorney Samuel J. Andalman [illegible] serving the second day of a 120 [illegible] sentence for contempt of court [illegible] posed Tuesday by Superior Judge Michael L. McKinley, and his fight for freedom promises to end in a showdown on two fronts today. At 10 a. m. the Appellate court will hear a petition for a writ of supersedeas which, if granted, will result in his immediate release, while at 10 o'clock Sheriff Traeger, Warden Moneypenny and Edwin Nelson, aid to the sheriff, are to be called to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of court by Judge John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court for their failure to release Andalman on a writ of habeas corpus issued by him.

The sheriff declared that under no circumstances will he lock himself in the same tier with the attorney if he is forced to go to his jail.

"Not for a minute," the sheriff said. "Me go in the same cell or even in the 'same tier with the man who would be responsible for my imprisonment, in the event the court imposes a sentence, never."

Andalman was sentenced for [illegible] in intervening petition in a habeas corpus action, which resulted in the release of a man jailed for failure to meet alimony arrears, after the judge had denied leave to file. Sheriff Traeger, placed in a cross-fire of contradictory orders, chose to obey that of Judge McKinley and refused to honor Judge Sullivan's writ.

RAID DISCLOSES JACK WHITE AS NEW UNION BOSS

Helps Barker, Ex-Convict, Rule Coal Drivers.

William J. (Three Fingered Jack) White, gangster, and once under a life sentence for killing a policeman, has become a union business agent.

He is the representative of the Coal Shovelers' union, an organization affiliated with the Chicago Coal Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Helpers' union, 704, of which George Barker, another ex-convict, is the business agent.

The entrance of White into the labor field was disclosed yesterday when the state's attorney's office seized the books and records of the teamsters' union on a subpoena duces tecum issued by Acting Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court. The seizure of the books revealed the coal investigation started some months ago, when it was charged that independent dealers that the union officials were working in collusion with the Chicago Coal Merchants' association.

Coal Dealers Testify.

The coal investigation has been going on intermittently for months, but no definite grand jury action has been taken. It became known yesterday that James Rooney, executive vice president of the merchants' association as well as the members of the board of directors had been before the grand jury. The directors summoned were J. A. Black of the Nichols Coal company; Joseph Bigane of John Bigane and Sons; Barney J. Linethal of the Municipal Coal company; James J. Holland of the Holland company; Harry Halverscheid of the Albany Coal company; Frank J. Donovan of the Rutter Coal company, and Hugh Owens of the Norris-Ward Coal company.

They were questioned, it is reported, about possible relationship of association members with the union officials, particularly George Barker, and his latest associate, White. Assistant state's Attorneys Homer Dodge and Otto Johnson, who are in charge of the inquiry refused to discuss possible seizures.

Seize Auto Load of Books.

Deputy Michael Ahern, who served the subpoena yesterday on the coal teamsters' union headquarters at 639 South Halsted boulevard, needed an automobile to transport the records obtained. These are for the receipts and disbursements of the union for 1928, 1929 and 1930.

White in recent years has been a well known police character. He was arrested of the murder of a suburban policeman, but escaped through a reversal of his case by the Supreme court. He has been accused of various bank robberies as well as the $100,000 International Harvester company pay roll robbery, but he has escaped conviction.

BANDITS ROB VICTIM TWICE IN ONE MONTH

For the second time in four weeks a group of four robbers last night robbed H. O. Bostelmann, 831 Monroe avenue, River Forest, owner of the Carbonated Beverages company, in his office at 2332 Walnut street. Last night the bandits took $100 and several checks. In the first robbery they got $150 and several hundred dollars in checks, which they later returned by mail.

Bostelmann and two employés were holding the place last night when the four men who staged the first robbery drove up in an automobile and forced them back into the building. OUTLAW UNION WINS TILT WITH PARENT GROUP

Engineers' Local Gets Injunction.

Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday issued an injunction to restrain the International Union of Operating Engineers from effecting the discharge of members of the outlawed local No. 569 from their present employment. The decision marks the first victory of the local in a fight against the president and executive board of the international union being waged in thirty cities.

The charter of the local, known as the strongest and wealthiest group of hoisting engineers in the country, was revoked last year after its members refused to vote for an amalgamation with local No. 42. The latter branch included engineers in North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Michigan, and all of Illinois, except Cook county, the province of local 569.

The board of executives sent William E. Maloney to local 569 to effect the amalgamation. The local refused to recognize him, claiming that the by-laws demanded that a supervisor be elected. Its members refused to approve the amalgamation because the consolidation would mean sharing of its funds and increase the supply of engineers in periods when employment was scarce.

The executive board revoked the local's charter and also caused the local to be banned by the Chicago Building Trades council. Local 42 was formed into Local 150 and made the recognized local in Chicago by the union. The latter group was recognized by the building trades council.

The outlawed organization brought action for reinstatement in the Superior court. In its bill the union officials are charged with compelling the admission of locals without qualification and election, amalgamating unions without proper action, suspending members without notice, seizing funds unlawfully, and attempting to dominate all locals. They are said to have threatened to call strikes and to have employed other forms of intimidation to force the discharge of members of Local 569 from present positions. The bill asked for an injunction pending disposal of the suit.

The defendants named are Arthur M. Huddell, president of the international union; Maloney, James A. Cooley, John Porsehl, William P. Walsh, James W. Graham, and William M. Welch, all members of the executive board; Patrick F. Sullivan and John Conroy of the Chicago Building Trades council; Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Edward F. Moore, a former president of the local; John I. Lynch, Edward Banner and J. W. Tracey, business agents, and David Evans, general secretary.

Sees Father Preside

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Miss Paulina Longworth, daughter of Speaker and Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, today celebrated her fifth birthday anniversary by attending for the first time a session of the house, where her father presides.

Representative Tilson [Rep., Conn.] floor leader, called attention of the house to Miss Paulina, who sat in the very front row of the speaker's gallery with two attachés of her father's office and her maid.

When Mr. Tilson announced that the young lady was celebrating her fifth birthday anniversary, members of the house arose and loudly applauded the little girl, who waved her left hand gayly, but was extremely self-possessed toward the members below her.

COLLEGE KICKS WHEN FRESHMAN RIOTER IS JAILED

Lawyer Hired as Warrants Are Issued for Pupils.

Albion, Mich., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Pleading guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct as a result of a riot here last night of students of Albion college, a Methodist institution, Clifford Whitney, 20 year old freshman from Detroit, was sentenced to 10 days in the Calhoun county jail at Marshall and fined $50 and costs.

The warrant for Whitney was issued by Prosecutor William J. Kearney and signed by George Bohm, manager of the Bohm theater, which 300 students egged and stormed with fruit, rocks, and bricks until long after midnight. Warrants also were issued for six others.

Judge to Act as Grand Jury.

In addition Prosecutor Kearney announced that Judge George M. Markle will conduct a one man grand jury investigation of the riot. City and state police and sheriff's officers were serving 48 subpœnas tonight.

"We have a nice new theater in Albion, given to us by Mr. Bohm as a Christmas present," Judge Markle said in pronouncing sentence. "We are proud of that theater, and we are not going to let young hoodlums like you turn our entertainments into a riot."

Whitney was taken to the Marshall jail immediately.

School Officials Call Halt.

Shortly after officers had taken Whitney to the county jail Dean W. W. Whitehouse and Morris F. Cochran, business manager of the college, rushed into the courtroom and demanded that Judge Markle sentence no more students. Markle replied that warrants had been issued for six students, and as fast as they were brought before him they would be sentenced.

He finally agreed, however, to wait for them to engage a lawyer. The college officials returned shortly with Attorney E. H. Bastian. Dean Whitehouse sought a stay of arraignment until Monday and offered to post bonds of $300 if the judge would consent.

Prosecutor Kearney announced tonight that warrants would be served immediately and arraignments made, even if it is necessary to drag the students out of their beds.

Attorney Raps President.

"Albion college calls itself a Christian college," he said, "and yet its president, Dr. John L. Seaton, refuses to reprimand his students for their conduct of last night, and instead jokingly remarked in chapel exercises that 'Now that the excitement is over, let's get down to business.' We are going to prosecute to the fullest extent of the law."

Students said this afternoon that college officials have told them that the school will pay all fines and post bonds, but the only official statement from President Seaton declared: "While the college authorities, of course, do not approve any acts of violence, such as theater rushings, we feel that all this trouble might have been avoided had we had the coöperation of the theater management."

YOUTH GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER IN AUTO DEATH

Vampire Driver Faces Prison Term.

Frank Blazik, 25 years old, 1623 West 23d street, a hit and run motorist, who killed a man Aug. 25, 1928, was found guilty of manslaughter yesterday by a jury before Judge Walter P. Steffen of the Criminal court. He faces a sentence of one to fourteen years in the penitentiary. A motion for a new trial will be argued March 3.

Blazik was the driver of a car that killed Michael J. Twohey, 65 years old, 3039 Archer avenue, at Archer avenue and Broad street. Blazik was accompanied by Julius Justin, 1011 North Western avenue, owner of the car, and Frank Williams, 1619 West 23d street. Blazik and Justin fled after the accident. Williams was arrested. He was exonerated by a coroner's jury. Blazik recently surrendered himself after having been a fugitive for 18 months.

Three Deaths in Day.

Three deaths yesterday raised the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 93, the victims:

August Kraft, 50 years old, formerly of 1509 Wellington avenue. Instantly killed when he was struck by an automobile on Diversey parkway near Ward street with Matt Kruezer, 63 years old, 1952 Paterson avenue. Kruezer was seriously hurt. The driver, John W. Kettler, 4408 Mozart street, head of the Advance Motor Sales company, was held.

Joseph Weiss, 75 years old, 7517 Ridgeland avenue. Died in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries received Feb. 2 when he was struck by an automobile at State and 75th streets. The driver, William Millard, 11159 South Ashland avenue, was exonerated.

Rudolph Bergner, 79 years old, 1713 West 21st street. Died in St. Anthony hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile in front of his home.

Girl Wins $15,000 Damages.

A girl and a woman won verdicts for injuries received in auto accidents from juries in the Superior and Circuit courts. Miss Mary Alice Robertson, 19 years old, 124 South Central avenue, was awarded $15,000 before Superior Judge Caylor for injuries received when the automobile in which she was riding crashed through a railing of the outer drive viaduct at 23d street and plunged to the ground, 25 feet below, killing one of her companions, July 14, 1928. The defendant was the driver of the car, Patrick O'Neill, 21 years old, of the Hayes hotel.

Miss Margaret Suess, 27 years old, of the Allerton club, won a verdict of $20,000 against the Easthom-Melvin-Yeager corporation, 844 Rush street, for injuries received when she was struck by an automobile driven by Paul A. Malvin, secretary of the corporation Nov. 8, 1927, awarded by a jury in Superior Judge Caylor's court.

Coolidge Spurns Pajamas After He Has to Try Them

New Orleans, La., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Somebody made a mistake in packing former President Calvin Coolidge's baggage in Florida. His sleeping garment was left out.

After spending a restless night trying to sleep in pajamas in a New Orleans hotel, the former President called a bellboy and sent him out shopping. The boy returned with a bundle.

Mr. Coolidge opened it and proudly lifted out an old fashioned night shirt.

Protests that she had been compelled to take the blame for a man who had been freed were made last night by Mrs. Marie Fletcher, 25 years old, of 726 South Leavitt street, after she had been sentenced to thirty days in the county jail by Judge Robert E. McMillan in the West Chicago avenue court, for guntoting. The prisoner, a slender blonde, is the mother of three small children and is thought to be the first woman ever sentenced in Cook county on that charge.

Tells Her Story.

Mrs. Fletcher told her story last night to Capt. A. C. Christensen of the West Chicago avenue police. She asserted she had seen the man she was arrested with only once before, at the home of a friend, and that misfortune befell her when he offered her a ride home and she accepted.

"Of course, I've got thirty days to serve, and that's that," she shrugged. "But though nobody seems to believe me, this is what happened. I met a man named Otto Becker at the home of a friend of mine on Jan. 23. The next day I was there again, and it was getting late, so he offered to drive me home.

Story of Shooting.

"I was in his car and he was coming across the street, when a car passed, and three men shot at him. He was wounded in the foot. He got to the car and told me to drive quick to St. Elizabeth's hospital. I did, and he went in there, while I stayed in the car.

"I saw a revolver on the seat beside me, and I picked it up and was putting it into my purse when a squad car drove up and I was caught with the gun."

Mrs. Fletcher was first accused of shooting Becker. When it was found that the pistol had not been discharged, she was defended by an attorney retained by Becker.

BANKER FIGHTS LIQUOR CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Alfred E. Norris, a New York banker, filed a brief in the Supreme court today opposing a review of the decision of federal courts that in placing orders for liquor with a Philadelphia bootlegger he was not guilty of conspiracy to transport in violation of the prohibition laws.

Norris declared that the government was urging the highest court to review the case because it involved a question "of great public interest and importance." He asserted that this was not sufficient ground to give the Supreme court jurisdiction over the controversy and said the decision was not in conflict with decisions in other federal courts, which would have been grounds for a review.

The brief argued that a purchaser does not become a felon and a party to a conspiracy to transport liquor.

ADOPT COUNTY ROAD PROGRAM OF $22,498,000

Outline Construction for 3 Year Period.

BY HAL FOUST.

An advisory commission yesterday approved a program for the expenditure of $22,498,000 in 1930, 1931, and 1932 by the Cook county highway department. The commission, representing the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Chicago Regional Planning association, the Chicago Plan commission and the motor clubs, was assigned to the task by the county board last August and in all likelihood the program will be officially adopted by the board, although committees of the Association of Commerce are still to pass upon it.

Approximately half of the money, which comes from the state gas tax, the county highway tax and other sources, is to be spent for improvement of through routes within Chicago, $8,550,000 for new construction and $415,000 for repairs. Three million dollars is assigned for grade separations, $1,150,000 for the purchase of rights of way for the states's $19,000,000 biennium program for metropolitan area highways, and $9,383,000 for construction outside of Chicago.

What Plan Calls For.

The budget calls for the county to lay thirty-four miles of forty foot pavement in Chicago and fifteen miles outside of Chicago in the next three years. In addition, there is to be twelve miles of widening in the city and thirteen miles outside of the city.

Of twenty foot pavement, eighty miles is to be laid in the city and 101.5 miles outside of the city. Some of this will become four lane pavement by agencies other than the county laying the additional width.

For 1930 the program, which lists projects to cost $8,443,000, calls for eight and nine-tenths miles of forty foot pavement in Chicago and, by coincidence, the same mileage of four lane concrete outside of the city. In addition there are nine miles of widening inside and five and seven-tenths miles outside of the city scheduled for this year.

List 20 Foot Pavement.

The county will build twenty-seven miles of twenty foot pavement in Chicago this year and seventeen and eight-tenths miles outside of the city. Some of this will become wider pavements by other agencies laying the additional width.

Fourteen railway-motorway grade separations are to be started this year and four bridges are to be built. In addition a fund of $1,200,000 is allotted in the 1930 budget for highway grade separations at sites to be recommended later. An allowance of $350,000 is set aside for the purchase of rights of way for state bond issue routes.

By 1933, the year of the world's fair, Chicago will have a system of through routes that will form a highly desirable makeshift pending the construction of modern broad boulevards with continuous grade separation. The program in detail follows:

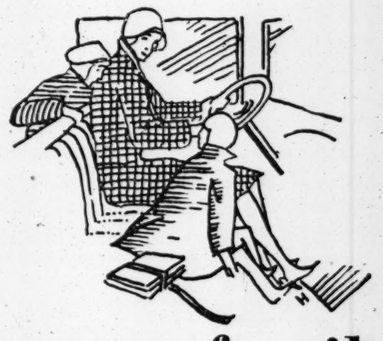
CARRY ON WITH THE TRIBUNE!



Take your family off its feet this winter!

Even the stoutest shoe leather sometimes falls down on the job of keeping feet dry as they wade through winter slush! Many little feet arrive at school wet, and numb with cold. Wives find shopping a painful ordeal. Walkers are targets for winter's fiercest assaults, and the surest victims of its viciousness.

Take your family off its feet this winter. Get a good utility car for them. Or let them have the family car, and use the second car yourself. Reduced wear and tear on the family car will soon pay for the second one.

Nowhere will you find it easier to get a good used car than among the hundreds advertised daily in Tribune Want Ads. You have Chicago's widest and best selection to pick from. All makes and models are listed. Prices fit every pocketbook. Turn now to the Want Ad Section, and select the car that's going to keep winter hardships away from your family!

CITY PAY ROLL LOAN AT STAKE IN PARLEY TODAY

Mayor's Men Will Meet Strawn Committee.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The long awaited conference between members of the citizens' committee headed by Silas H. Strawn and representatives of the city administration will take place this morning. Public officials who have puzzled their brains for a solution of the local governments' financial difficulties and public employés who have gone without their pay for several weeks were hopeful last night that the meeting would be productive of a plan looking toward the sale of 1930 tax anticipation warrants. Mr. Strawn, however, made no predictions.

The conference will be held in the office of Lewis E. Myers, contractor and school trustee, in the Monadnock building. Mr. Myers initiated the present effort to obtain cash for pay rolls. For the citizens' committee there will be present Mr. Strawn, Robert F. Carr, and Ernest R. Graham, and for the city Corporation Counsel Ettelson, City Controller Schmidt, and John A. Richert, chief of the council finance committee staff.

Clark on Florida Vacation.

Mayor Thompson appointed Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee, as one of the city's representatives, but Clark is having a winter vacation at Miami Beach, Fla., and Mr. Richert will substitute for the alderman. Mr. Myers, who was invited by the citizens' group to sit in, will probably be elected chairman.

City, school and county employés are pinning their hopes on Mr. Myers and the other private citizens. The county has failed twice to sell $7,000,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants. H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, and his agents have been trying in vain for 20 days to make a sale of school tax warrants; and Mayor Thompson and his aids have failed so far. If any money is obtained the employés are said to feel that the private citizens—not the public officials—will get it.

Pay Rolls First Topic.

Aside from the two weeks' compensation which the city is now handing out, there is $11,911,568 in unpaid salaries due to 43,836 public employés. This morning's conference will have to do with this default and future pay rolls. It is Mr. Myers' desire that the discussion deal with that subject primarily.

The payment yesterday of city employés for the first half of January, under the plan of City Treasurer Peterson, started slowly. The program was enlarged during the day so that 960 employés of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium would also get half a month's pay. For this institution it is planned to pay out $41,700 in salaries and $13,000 for milk, foods and other supplies.

City to Pay $1,933,000.

More careful estimates yesterday showed that the pay roll expenditure at this time will be about $1,933,000 instead of $1,850,000 as estimated on Thursday. The 6,715 policemen will get about $681,500, the 2,689 firemen, $299,700, and the 8,596 other city employés will collect $876,100.

Of the 18,960 employés, checks were distributed yesterday to 1,790 for a total of $199,338, according to the city controller's office. At this rate it would take nine days to hand out the checks, but the paymasters predicted that they would have all of the funds by next Wednesday night.

Mayor Gets His First.

One of the first employés to obtain his check was Mayor Thompson. His half month's pay of $750 was delivered to his office. The 40 judges of the Municipal court were other early recipients. Then followed 354 clerks of the Municipal court, 282 bailiffs, and 173 city hall janitors. The other employés paid are employed in the city hall.

No checks were delivered to the policemen, firemen, employés of the health, law and electrical departments or to the board of local improvements. Some of them will receive their belated valentines today.

In the county building, Recorder Clayton Smith gave his employés a month's salary. The necessary $70,000 with which to do it was obtained from the Chicago Title and Trust company, which does extensive business in the recorder's office. The Chicago and Cook county real estate boards approved of Mr. Smith's accepting the cash from the title and trust company.

Most County Workers Unpaid.

County Clerk Sweitzer was reported as advancing cash to some of the employés of his office from fees collected. Otherwise county employés are still without pay since Dec. 15.

Several members of the county board and other county officials held a caucus yesterday afternoon on the vault floor of the county building. They agreed they would "give the bankers until midnight" to promise to supply cash for county employés, or the board this morning will "tell the world that they will issue tax anticipation warrants to employés on Wednesday in lieu of cash."

No cash was taken to the county building at midnight, and it is expected that the county board, after some speeches, will announce this morning that it intends to carry out its threat.

County Asks $2,000,000.

County employés are in more need than other public employés who have not been paid. County officials have promised to coöperate with the Strawn committee, and they argue that they should get $2,000,000 for their pay rolls and for wards of the county.

Observers pointed out that City Treasurer Peterson's payment of city employés decreases the political prestige of officeholders who have been unable to get money for their employés. Then, too, there are 8,628 public employés who have been paid regularly. Since Jan. 1 they have collected in salaries about $2,930,107.

Many city employés who received pay for the first half of January yesterday did not exhibit much joy, except before news photographers. One case is that of James F. Walker, 39 years old, a wounded war veteran, who has been a junior examiner in the efficiency division of the controller's office since he was mustered out of service. Walker's check was for $86.71. He lives with his wife and daughter at 5049 St. Lawrence avenue. Five days ago his landlord was before Municipal Judge Haas asking that Walker be evicted because he had failed to pay his January rent of $70.

After He Pays the Rent.

"After I pay the rent," said Walker yesterday, "I will have $16.71 left with which to meet my grocery, meat, milk, gas and electric bills. Two weeks' pay helps a little, but you will find that others are running along about as I am."

Joseph Zokowski, a window washer, the father of two daughters, got a check for $80. After he pays his January rent of $60 he will have $20 left to meet his other bills.

Thomas Bruandt, colored, 644 East 69th street, janitor of the A. O. Sexton school, owes three months' rent—a total of $112.50. There are six children in his family. The landlord has served a notice to vacate in 24 hours, but the court put the case forward for 10 days.

The Case of Edward Rentsch.

Another in the parade of the destitute through the Renters' court yesterday was Edward Rentsch, 2506 Seminary avenue. He has been a street sweeper, but because of an eye affliction he was led in by his 15 year old son.

"We owe three months' rent and there is no coal or food at home," the boy told the judge, who ordered the case reported to the county bureau of public welfare.

Westmore is president of the Motion Picture Makeup Artists' association. They had previously announced their marriage for today.

SNOOK CARRIES HIS CASE TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Attorneys for James Howard Snook, the Ohio State university professor sentenced to die on Feb. 28 for the murder of Theora Hix, a stenographer, today placed with the clerk of the Supreme court the papers they will file with the court when it resumes its sessions Feb. 24.

It will be impossible for the Supreme court to act on the petition for review between the date on which it will be filed and the date now set for execution of Snnok, and the appeal will become moot through the execution of Snook unless a stay beyond Feb. 28 is obtained.

TESTS MADE TO THROW LIGHT ON TORSO MYSTERY

Did Village Clerk Die or "Plant" Body?

Coroner Bundesen late yesterday started an investigation to determine whether the torso taken from the ruins of a burned farmhouse near Broadview was that of a man who died in the burning building or whether it was that of a body taken there for the purpose of misleading the authorities. He took action following a day of inquiry in which the authorities of the village were satisfied the torso was that of James Grant, 55 years old, missing village clerk, but during which Mrs. Ida Grant, wife or widow of Grant, still persistently refused to believe the body was his.

Bundesen assigned Coroner's Physician Jerry Kearns to make tests which, he said, would prove beyond all doubt whether the torso was that of a cadaver. The doctor after a preliminary examination said he thought he could detect about the torso a slight odor of chemicals. He added these tests will be completed by 11 a. m. today.

Wife Clings to Story.

Mrs. Grant was not sorrowful nor did she cling to hope that the victim was not her husband. On the contrary she continued to believe that he had fled with a woman and that he had arranged matters so the body taken from the debris would be mistaken for his.

Mrs. Grant further testified at an inquest that was opened that Grant was happy and healthy when he left his home about 7:30 a. m. Thursday, and that he had no financial troubles and had no possible motive for suicide.

Won't Claim Insurance.

"So positive am I in my convictions that I will not attempt to claim any insurance money for the present," the wife or widow said.

On the other hand, Chief Andrew Borg of Broadview was quite as positive the victim was Grant. The ruins had been searched and a revolver, Grant's house key, his key to his automobile, and his key to the village hall had been found.

"I found a part of the skull and a jaw bone, 38 cents in change from his pockets and his belt buckle with his initials on it," said Chief Borg. "There is no question in my mind the body is that of Grant and that he killed himself with the revolver after setting fire to the old deserted building.

House Owner Fails to Appear.

The inquest was continued until Feb. 28 when Mrs. Minnie Zoubek, 41 years old, 816 South East avenue, Oak Park, failed to appear. Mrs. Zoubek was owner of the building. It was from her Grant had rented it, telling Mrs. Grant he intended to open up a machine shop. That was three months ago.

Chief Borg said he found two boys near the burned building when he first went there Thursday and that they had told him that the place, which had formerly been a road house, still had the road house furniture in it. The boys, he said, saw some glasses standing on a table and a jar of colored liquor. They had heard several shots just before the fire started and after it started had broken in and thrown a phonograph out of the window.

The boys did not see the victim and it was believed he was in the upper story of the building at the time.

Affairs Found in Order.

William Evans, president of the village of Broadview, during the day had the safe in which Grant kept village funds opened. Mr. Evans said he found everything regular.

Coroner Bundesen during the day received an anonymous telephone call in which he was told there was some connection between Grant's disappearance or death, and the crash of the People's State bank of Maywood. There was nothing to substantiate this, however, and it was believed to be untrue.

FEAR CITY FINANCIAL DILEMMA MAY DELAY INSURANCE PAYMENTS

That the city's present financial situation may prevent early payments of life insurance policies to heirs of persons dying after today was an assertion made last night at a meeting of the Chicago Undertakers' association at the Hotel Sherman. It was announced that the city health department has exhausted its supply of the special paper used in making photostatic copies of death certificates and that insurance companies will not make payments on policies until they have received a photostatic copy of the original death certificate.

RADICALS PLAN REVOLT AGAINST SUPREME COURT

Utility Rate Decisions to Be Issue in Campaigns.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Having woven a political issue around the activities of the Supreme court, the senate radicals propose to keep the issue alive. This was made evident in warnings sounded in the senate today as an aftermath of the unsuccessful fight of the radical group against the confirmation of Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice.

The valuation of utilities and railroads, with particular reference to the effect upon costs to the public, will be a favorite issue of the radicals in the coming congressional campaigns.

Alleged usurpation of power by the Supreme court through what Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.] described yesterday as the writing of new legislation by the judiciary also will be the basis for various proposals for the curbing of the courts by a constitutional amendment or otherwise.

Predicts People Will Rebel.

Today's postmortem in the senate was started by Senator C. C. Dill [Dem., Wash.], who asserted that "if the system of judicial law that is being written in defiance of state legislation and congressional legislation is continued by Supreme court decisions there is no human power in America that can keep the Supreme court from becoming a nation-wide political issue in the not far distant future."

He reminded the senate that the constitution can be amended by conventions in three-fourths of the states.

"If the rank and file of the people come to feel," said Senator Dill, "that the Supreme court has become their oppressor, and that the men upon it are there for life and cannot be removed, they will find a means to change the situation. It is for the judges to say. You and I, all of us together, cannot control this situation. The thing is started."

Like Banquo's Ghost.

Senator George W. Norris [Rep., Neb.], continuing the postmortem, asserted that "this ghost will be like Banquo's—it will come back to plague until the people, the common people, get absolute justice."

Senator S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] gave notice that he will offer a resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution to take away the power of the Supreme court to set aside legislative enactments.

Senator A. H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], replying to the attack of the radicals, described it as "the same attack upon a system of divided powers of government that we have had in the United States for 140 years."

He said that if the effort which has been made for a century to subordinate the judiciary to the congress succeeds "the constitution will become a transient thing."

"It will simply mean," continued Senator Vandenberg, "whatever each sequent, transient majority in congress wants it to mean, and when it takes on that transient character, it ceases to be the great charter we have had for 140 years in all its solemnity and stability."

FREE BOY BOMB "TESTERS."

Clarence Van Kampen, 16 years old, 944 North Monticello avenue; Ray Mecklenburg, 14 years old, 923 North Trumbull avenue; Henry Jungbluth, 16 years old, 820 North Homan avenue, and Edward Bloothy, 15 years old, 1006 North Central avenue, who were arrested Wednesday night while "experimenting" with a bomb, were released by the Austin police yesterday.

WIDOW SACRIFICES MILLION WILLED HER TO WED SECOND TIME

New York, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Marriage of Mrs. Audrey Loder Coward of Glen Ridge, N. J., whose engagement to Leo Wingate Carroll of New York was announced today, will cost her the use of $1,000,000 under the will of her husband, J. Mortimer Coward, wealthy young shoe merchant, who died in Havana March 3, 1928.

Mrs. Coward's bethrothal was announced by her mother, Mrs. Michael J. Bauer of Glen Ridge, according to the Associated Press.

Mr. Coward's will disposed of an estate in excess of $4,000,000. His widow was to receive the income of one-third of the estate for life as long as she remained unmarried.

In the event of her marriage the trust fund set up for her by the will was to be decreased to $500,000 and the amount that she lost was to be added to the two-thirds share placed in trust for Mr. and Mrs. Coward's son, J. Mortimer Coward, six years old. The lad was to receive all his principal on his twenty-first birthday.

ROBBERS HOLD UP WOMAN OF 61 IN EVANSTON HOME

Two young men wearing handkerchief masks forced the front door of the apartment of Herman J. Spoerer, president of the Evanston Safety council, at 813 Mulford street, Evanston, yesterday afternoon, threatened his invalid mother, Mrs. Hattie Spoerer, with death if she made an outcry, and escaped with a suitcase containing bric-a-brac and clothing valued at $200.

Mrs. Spoerer, who is 61 years old, was lying down and did not trouble to answer when the burglars rang the doorbell. They had previously rung upstairs, but when the tenant, Mrs. Mary Anderson, widow of the late United States Marshal Palmer Anderson, answered they decided to break into the lower apartment.

The housebreakers pulled Mrs. Spoerer off the bed, stood her at a wall, and menaced her with a chair, threatening to club her to death unless she revealed the hiding place of the family valuables. She pointed out a purse containing $5 and they forced her to accompany them through the house as they picked up trinkets and clothing.

Twenty minutes after they had fled Mrs. Spoerer was able to telephone her son, who is personnel manager at the Evanston works of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, but was too overcome to explain what had happened.

JUDGE ORDERS SPANKING CURE FOR GIRL "RED"

Newark, N. J., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Spanking has become a serious menace to the young folk of the communistic movement locally.

"I am going to hold you until tomorrow morning and have your father administer the cure by spanking you here publicly," Judge Simandl today told Miss Marie Staff, 20, of Newark, in police court. Miss Staff was arrested while distributing circulars on downtown streets advertising a demonstration.

George Staff, the young woman's father, arrived later with an expression of willingness to execute sentence. But Staff is a frail man, suffering from an illness which had kept him out of work for months, and he told the court it would be impossible for him to spank his daughter. She was ordered held overnight for further action.

Miss Staff pleaded with Judge Simandl not to bring her father into the matter.

"He wouldn't spank me, anyway," she said; "I've outgrown that."

BRITISH OPPOSE FRENCH CLAIM ON NAVAL TONNAGE

Talk of Political Pact Stirs Parley.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 14.—At the end of the fourth week, the five power naval reduction conference has really got its teeth into the work. The first real move was the publication of the American memorandum, which was forced when THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE learned of its contents. Then came the British, French and Japanese notes. The French memorandum contained detailed figures for which every one had been waiting.

THE TRIBUNE learns that the British are not unduly upset by the large French claim, as they regard this as a first offer and one susceptible to large scaling down during the season of bargaining.

British Oppose Tonnage Claims.

The one feature to which the British are registering strong objection is the inclusion by the French of every ounce of shipping, old and new, much of which is obsolete and only fit for junking. It is evident that the object of its inclusion is that it may be counted as replaceable by modern tonnage.

Talk has revived about a political agreement, such as a Mediterranean or an Atlantic guarantee pact, for which, it is believed, the French are working, and for which they would be ready to make real sacrifices in global tonnage.

THE TRIBUNE has been assured that this has not been mentioned, even in informal conference talks, but that this doesn't preclude mention in individual talks which may be described as doubly informal.

France, Britain May Sign.

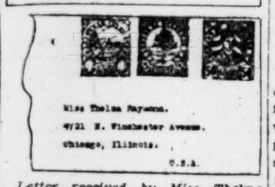
There is a little more chance of Great Britain agreeing to underwrite France's safety, by a military pact, than of America doing so. But there seems to be an idea that both might agree to something like the Pacific pact, which imposes no further duty on its signatories than consultation and moral support.

Whether this would satisfy France, however, is doubtful. THE TRIBUNE was informed today from an authoritative source that instead of being frightened by Germany's pocket battleship, the Ersatz Preussen, the French are delighted it is being built, and have conveyed to the German government, through Dr. Leopold von Hoesch, German ambassador to Paris, that they would be deeply disappointed if this ship is not finished. The idea is that it will give them an unassailable argument for building ships superior to the new German wonder.

THE TRIBUNE CONTEST OF INTERESTING LETTERS

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune, stating name of place where it was mailed. The sender of every envelope which is reproduced will be paid one dollar.

From Tela, Honduras



Letter received by Miss Thelma Raymond, 4721 North Winchester avenue, Chicago.

Tela is an important fruit shipping center on the northeast coast of Honduras, about 50 miles east of the Guatemalan boundary. Its proximity to the border has involved it in the rival claims of these two Central American republics. It is the most important port on the north coast between Puerto Cortes and Ceiba.

Three large American banana companies have done wonders in the last 15 or 20 years for northern Honduras. They are the United Fruit company, the Cuyamel Fruit company, and the Standard Fruit company. They handle practically all of the 15,000,000 or more bunches of bananas exported, producing on their own plantations all but 1,000,000 produced by independent planters.

VATICAN ISSUES DECREE AGAINST IMMODEST DRESS

Puts Feminine Attire in Clergy's Control.

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Feb. 14.—The Roman Catholic church's drive against immodest feminine attire was reinforced today by the sacred congregation of the council in a rigid decree addressed to bishops and clergy throughout the world. The sacred congregation of the council is one of the congregations constituting the government of the Catholic church. The American member of the congregation is Cardinal O'Connell of Boston.

The note of instruction contains twelve articles and is intended to back up previous pronouncements made by Pope Pius on the subject of abbreviated clothes worn by women.

Whole Church Mobilized.

The decree calls not only on bishops to take an active part in control of feminine mode, but also enjoins parish priests, nuns conducting schools, parents, and all Catholic educational authorities to mobilize against present day fashions.

Bishops throughout the world are ordered to devote a certain part of their time in carrying on this work and to devote a definite chapter on the progress of their campaigns on women's dress in the reports which they send to the congregation of the council every three years.

Would Deny Rites.

The instructions warn that women who are not clothed in becoming manner are to be denied admittance to holy communion, and that they should be barred from officiating at other sacraments such as baptism and confirmation. If necessary the churches are authorized to deny them admittance to divine service.

The vigilance councils of dioceses throughout the world are further enjoined to consider at least once a year the best methods of putting down immodest attire in their provinces, and the instructions to the clergy specify that teaching on the subject shall be specially given to the laity at the principal festivals of the church, particularly on Dec. 8, on the occasion of the celebration of the Immaculate conception.

MRS. SIMPSON PASSES TEST FOR PILOT'S LICENSE

Roosevelt Field, L. I., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—With a total of 75 solo hours to her credit Mrs. Alicia Patterson Simpson, daughter of Joseph Medill Patterson, one of the publishers of The News, New York, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Liberty, today passed her examination for a limited commercial pilot's license at Roosevelt field.

She passed her private license test last year and will take a written examination tomorrow.

Mrs. Simpson's instructor was Frederick Becker. Jules Verne Hyde, the department of commerce inspector who supervised the flying examination, caused her to do figure eights, spins, spirals, and vertical banks in a Laird biplane with a Wright motor.

FARMERS FORM A 'SONS OF WILD JACKASSES CLUB'

White Bear, Minn., Feb. 14.—(AP)—The first "Sons of Wild Jackasses club," the purpose of which is to "bray for fair treatment for the farmer," was in the process of organization here today with a list of 200 charter members.

Robert Freeman of St. Paul is the founder of the organization which adopted its name from the words which Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire recently hurled at insurgent senate Republicans.

A white badge, the size of a half dollar and bearing the silhouette of a jackass with his hind feet in the air, presumably in the act of delivering a kick, is the emblem of the club.

WILL GO AS LOW AS FRANCE DOES ON NAVIES—ITALY

Rome to Repeat Demands to Rivals Monday.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 14.—The Italian delegates to the five power naval conference are drafting a memorandum which will be submitted to the other powers Monday. It will embody a restatement of Italy's viewpoint on a naval parity with France and its theory of the relativity of fleets.

The memorandum, while somewhat in the nature of a reply to France, will, however, contain no counter figures or proposals. It will affirm that Italy is in accord with the position outlined by Dino Grandi, minister of foreign affairs, in his opening speech, in which no figures were offered.

Bases Fleet on France's.

The statement will add Italy is willing to agree to limit its fleet to the level of the biggest continental naval power, hoping that such a level will be as low as possible in the interests of disarmament. Since, however, the French stated what their naval figures would be, Italy is willing to make those figures the basis of its own fleet, regretting they are not lower.

The memorandum will further emphasize that Italy did not accept an invitation to come to London to abridge its sovereign right to build a fleet as big as it pleases.

The Italians reject the idea that there can be any idea of the French offering them a parity, but claim their position is precisely that of the United States in offering to accept a parity with Great Britain on the figure the latter sets.

French Figures Too High.

While the note does raise the point, there exists a belief in Italian headquarters that the French figures of 724,000 tons are unreasonably high, even on the basis of French needs. While the French admittedly had a big fleet of 1,000,000 tons in 1914 and point out that they have reduced this to one-half at the present time, the Italians argue that conditions have changed since then, when the French fleet was built to match the triple alliance powers of Austria, Germany and Italy.

The Italians maintain that as a Mediterranean naval power they have even more needs than France, since Russia is an unknown factor, and in view of the Slav solidarity it would not be unimaginable for the Red fleet to operate from Jugo-Slavia bases in the Adriatic, steaming to the coast of Italy within three hours.

HOUSE UNANIMOUSLY VOTES FUND TO MAKE CHAIN STORE INQUIRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—By a unanimous vote the house of representatives today added to the pending independent offices appropriation bill a $142,540 item to finance an investigation of chain stores by the federal trade commission. The item was proposed by Representative Merlin Hull [Rep., Wis.], and backed by several other members of the Wisconsin delegation.

Proponents of the appropriation for more than an hour denounced the encroachment of chain stores upon independent merchants and business men, pointing out that states have failed to regulate them by taxation, and that it is the duty of the federal government to do so under anti-trust legislation. They argued that the federal trade commission has insufficient funds now to conduct a thorough inquiry into the system.

Little opposition to the appropriation developed and it was carried by a voice vote. It raised the total federal commission appropriation from $1,437,460 to $1,580,000.

BRITTEN SEES ONLY SMALL END OF NAVY FOR U. S.

Doubts London Parley Will Provide Parity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Rejection of any naval limitations agreement which does not curtail total tonnages and safeguard this country's right to build the type of ships it needs for national defense was advocated today by Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] of the house naval affairs committee.

While asserting that he favored a fair agreement which limited tonnages proportionately, Mr. Britten declared that congressional observers saw little chance of such an agreement from the present London conference. Indications thus far, he said, are that if an agreement is reached it will be one favoring Great Britain and unacceptable to the senate.

Rather than accept an agreement based on the Stimson proposals, which sharply limit this country's right to build 10,000 ton cruisers, Mr. Britten said he would prefer to have the American delegation return home empty handed.

Would Build "Up" to Parity.

If a fair agreement cannot be obtained with Great Britain and the other major naval powers, Mr. Britten said he would favor immediate replacement of American battleships as laid down by the Washington treaty of 1922, the building of 10,000 ton cruisers at the rate of five a year until parity with Britain is obtained, and the inauguration of a new replacement program for destroyers and submarines.

"I would like to see an agreement under which we obtained parity with Great Britain in battleships through her scrapping of the Rodney and Nelson, her prize fighting vessels," Mr. Britten said, "but if Great Britain is unwilling to give us parity by scrapping capital ships and declines to cut other categories, I see no reason why we should agree to postpone the battleship replacement program.

"At present the Stimson-MacDonald cruiser proposals limit American big gun 10,000 ton cruisers to eighteen, while we need twenty-eight. It calls for our building eleven small 6 inch gun cruisers when the general board of the navy and all ranking officers who have appeared before my committee have said that this type of vessel is all right for Great Britain, but of little value to us.

Postponement Only Prospect.

"Publication of the French and Japanese naval reduction proposals indicate there is little chance that any agreement reducing submarines or destroyers can be reached. Late dispatches from London make it appear as if postponement of battleship construction seems to be the only prospective result of the conference.

"Unless reductions can be obtained in other categories, this country should refuse to agree to any agreement at all."

There is a general undercurrent of uneasiness in the capital over developments in London.

WAUKEGAN BOY HERO TO RECEIVE MEDAL FOR SAVING FRIEND

Ivan Gould, 17 years old, Waukegan high school student and a carrier of THE TRIBUNE, will be presented with the Ralston medal for heroism at a special service at the Waukegan Methodist Sunday school tomorrow morning. The Ralston Hero commission of St. Louis awarded the medal to Gould for saving Leslie Thurnell, 18 years old, when the truck in which they were riding crashed into a steam shovel on a railroad track at Wilson, Lake county. Gould's leg was broken, but he pulled Thurnell from the wreckage of the truck just as a train crashed into it.

NO WONDER YOU FEEL SICK

When Constipation Gets Its Grip You Can't Keep Well. What You Need Is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

That tired feeling, that persistent headache, that bad breath are often symptoms of constipation.

There is only one thing to do—clean out your system. Do it now or you may be seriously sick. Your intestines are clogged because you have not eaten enough roughage. And there is no better roughage than that healthful, appetizing cereal—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is a natural food that brings natural results regularly. Its fiber content sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. Much better than habit-forming pills which become useless unless their dose is increased.

In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research has proved that practically all of this iron goes into the blood—bringing the glowing color of health to the complexion and strengthening the entire body. A wonderful way to enjoy keeping well!

You will like the nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey. By letting ALL-BRAN soak a few moments in milk or cream, its rich flavor is brought out.

Use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in making muffins and hot breads. Recipes on the package. Sprinkle it into soups, on salads. Mix it in scrambled eggs or meat loaf, add it to every diet.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—recurrent cases, with every meal. Sold by all grocers. Served in hotels, restaurants, on dining-cars. It is the original ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

URGES BETTER HOSPITAL CARE FOR WAR VETS

American Legion's Chief Is Speaker Here.

National Commander O. L. Bodenhamer of the American Legion last night urged the members of Naval post, No. 372, to support the Legion's national program of improved hospitalization for war veterans.

It was Maj. Bodenhamer's first Chicago address as head of the Legion, and approximately 600 members of the naval post applauded when the national commander, speaking at the post's annual banquet at the Knickerbocker hotel, emphasized the importance of a universal draft which would concentrate all man, financial, and industrial power in the event of war, and thus insure maximum efficiency.

For Universal Draft.

"The Reed-Wright bill follows along the trend of thought, and its enactment would create the appointment of a committee to study universal draft in all its phases," said Maj. Bodenhamer.

He urged all members of the Legion to obtain copies of this bill. He said its provisions would eliminate profiteers and slackers and place the United States in a formidable position as a fighting power.

Maj. Bodenhamer arrived at the Illinois street station at 4:30 p. m. yesterday and was greeted by Commander Norman Olsen of Naval post and a committee, who took him to the Hotel Sherman for an informal dinner preceding the post's banquet. State Commander Edward A. Hayes of Decatur was a member of the reception committee, and he also spoke at the banquet.

Urges Adequate Defense.

While he classed himself as a staunch world peace partisan, Maj. Bodenhamer said he believed Americans should not continue in the belief that world peace is assured. There is not a better time than now, he said, to insure adequate protection by forming a close alliance between man power and industries capable of producing the necessities to equip and strengthen an army in the event of war. He also discussed his efforts to procure more favorable legislation for veterans.

At First Officers' Training Camp.

Commander Bodenhamer entered an officers' training camp in April, 1917, and was discharged from the army two years later with the rank of major. He was originally a college professor of English. When the armistice was signed he was in command of the 3d battalion of the 18th infantry at Camp Travis, Tex.

LAWYER STEALS FROM HIS CLIENT; GETS 1 TO 5 YEARS

New York, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Howard E. White, 55, a lawyer and society man, was sentenced today to serve from one to five years in Sing Sing by Judge Charles C. Nott Jr., of General Sessions for the embezzlement of $221,500 from estates intrusted to his administration.

On Jan. 20 White pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the first degree, admitting specifically the theft of 150 shares of Bankers Trust company stock, worth $24,000, from an estate of which he was co-administrator.

The complainant, Mrs. Katherine Fairs of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, gave him the stock for exchange. Later, when she asked White about it he gave excuses for not turning over the stock, and finally confessed that he had sold it for $24,150. He also admitted having stolen about $30,000 in addition from the estate.

A probation report stated that White's second wife was working in a department store for $4 a day to support her two small children. It also stated that she had refused to turn over to White's creditors the 300 acre farm in Putnam county, title to which is held in her name.

White, it is alleged, not only stole from the estates of his clients, but embezzled funds from the estates of his own relatives, including those of his father and his aunt.

JOHN BAIN GETS LICENSE TO WED SISTER-IN-LAW

Wedding bells will sound on Monday for John Bain, 61 years old, south park commissioner and millionaire head of fourteen neighborhood banks. He yesterday obtained a license to wed his sister-in-law, Mrs. Jean Larkins, who is 58 years old. For the last seven years, since the death of her husband, Mrs. Larkins has lived at the Bain residence, 6209 Laflin street. Her sister, the first Mrs. Bain, died a few years ago.

"We are to be married Monday morning and leave Monday afternoon for a two weeks' trip east," Mrs. Larkins said yesterday. "I had thought I never would marry again—but we all change our minds. The ceremony will be a quiet church affair. It hasn't been but a few months since we had a big wedding here—Mr. Bain's youngest daughter."

Mr. Bain came to Chicago in 1885, an immigrant Scotch boy.

Chauffeur Routs 3 Bandits with a Punch in the Nose

Three robbers who tried to hold up Henry Toppett, 8343 South Wood street, a chauffeur, as he was putting his car in the garage at the rear of his home last night received a setback when Toppett punched one of the three in the nose. The trio fled down an alley, firing one shot at the chauffeur. "Bandits aren't tough," Toppett told the Gresham police. "People just think they are."

WOMAN GIVEN $10,000 U. S. JOB AFTER HOT FIGHT

Couzens and La Follette Raise Protest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—President Hoover's appointment of Miss Annabelle Matthews, an attorney in the internal revenue bureau, to be a member of the board of tax appeals was confirmed by the senate today in the face of bitter opposition from Senators James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] and R. M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.]. Miss Matthews, the first of her sex to hold a place on the tax appeals board, will also be the highest salaried woman in the federal service. She will receive $10,000 a year.

Both Couzens and La Follette protested at what they termed "virtual repeal" of the Glass resolution passed in June, 1926, recording the senate as opposed to the appointment of tax appeals board members from within the revenue bureau. Couzens added that the appointment was obviously a political one, designed to recognize women in politics.

"Representatives of every women's organization I know have told me," Couzens asserted, "they don't want women given places merely because of their sex, that they don't want to be discriminated against or privileged because of their sex."

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], author of the resolution cited by Couzens and La Follette, revealed during the debate that, while he was opposed to the confirmation of Miss Matthews, he was prevailed upon by the White House not to take the floor against approval of the President's selection.

JOBLESS WRECK MADRID STORES IN FOOD RIOTS

Many Heads Bruised; Police Quell Mob.

MADRID, Feb. 14.—(AP)—While police and civil guards suppressed food riots in Madrid today, the government prepared to quell disturbances that might develop anywhere in Spain.

The government of Gen. Damaso Berenguer believes that political interests desirous of discrediting the successors to the Primo de Rivera dictatorship are inciting unemployed workers, Republicans, radical groups generally, and Catalan separatists to attempt disturbances.

Many Heads Bruised.

This afternoon's food riots in Madrid followed yesterday's demonstrations of the jobless, who marched to the royal palace demanding work. The riots occurred in the outskirts of the city, where the demonstrators broke into grocery stores and smashed shop windows to obtain food.

A number of heads were bruised before the demonstrations were broken up by police.

Madrid newspapers estimate there are 25,000 unemployed in the capital, most of them from the building trades. Construction is almost at a standstill. The strike of cement workers at Sagunto caused reports of trouble brewing there, but the government said today that conditions were tranquil.

Riots Alarm Berenguer.

Minor disturbances have been reported in many parts of Spain, most of them engineered by university students, rejoicing in Primo de Rivera's downfall and by citizens, who sought to disturb disliked municipal officials.

In addition, republican groups have been openly advocating a republic with freedom unknown before.

In view of the disturbances the Berenguer government is said to be wondering whether it has been too liberal in removing the suppressions of Primo. Well informed circles believe the government will soon become much more severe or will plan to return Spain to another dictatorship.

PRIZE WAR NOVEL

BY WM. T. SCANLON

"As expert and graphic a picture of an advance as Ernest Hemingway gives of a retreat in 'A Farewell to Arms.' The most concentrated picture of men in action that has come from either side." Atlantic Monthly.

"A swift concentrated sketch that takes you by the throat, holds you, shakes you, and leaves you limp; a first-hand record, and the hand that wrote it knows its business." Hartford Courant.

GOD HAVE MERCY ON US

"This may sound like literary heresy but Mr. Scanlon writes a much better book than Herr Remarque. It is the best war book I have read." Chicago Post. "There is a restraint in his style that reminds one vividly of 'All Quiet.' Scanlon has caught in his blood the real spirit of the fighting man." Philadelphia Record.

"The action rises almost at once to a fever pitch and maintains it. 'God Have Mercy On Us' has packed into it all that anyone can possibly say about the front line fighting. For the first time we get a clear, sharp-etched picture of the fighting by Americans, a picture never blurred nor distorted by flag-waving or tear-shedding." The Book Review.

Grant Depicted as Setting Pace for World War

Col. Fuller Gives Shock to European Theories.

"The Generalship of Ulysses S. Grant," by Col. J. F. C. Fuller [Dodd-Mead].

An English reviewer wrote of Col. J. F. C. Fuller's "The Generalship of Ulysses S. Grant," that the author had produced a book below his usual standard of excellence as an authoritative military historian. It did not, the reviewer thought, bear the usual brilliant Fuller imprint of scholarly study and conclusions based on military intelligence.

Probably the reason Col. Fuller would be regarded abroad as having lapsed from his form may be found in what he presumes to say in interpretation and appreciation of Grant's ability of command and achievement. His conclusions would be regarded abroad as heretical. They would strike at all British and many European preconceptions. They would be found rank with heterodoxy.

British military study has concerned itself with Lee, who is not allowed by Col. Fuller to remain in the same category with his plain northern countryman on the other side.

From Col. Fuller:

"The man who most influenced this war was Ulysses S. Grant; not because he was so clear sighted a statesman as Lincoln or so clever a tactician as Lee, but because he was the greatest strategist of his age, of the war and, consequently, its greatest general."

What Col. Fuller means by "the greatest strategist of his age" becomes clearer when on page 47 he refers to the western operations as "a right flank wheel of over a thousand miles extending in time over three years; a strategical movement compared to which the German right wheel flank in 1914, however powerful, was child's play."

Here is where European perceptions would smell heresy and the case of old world preconceptions against Col. Fuller is complete when he adds that the war was "one of the most extraordinary ever fought; a war which foretold the coming of the world war of 1914-1918, the tactics of which would have been vastly modified had Moltke studied those of this civil war."

Probably no one may safely say in Europe that the right wheel swing of the Germans in 1914 was child's play to the maneuver which Grant as a subordinate began in the autumn of 1861 when he occupied Paducah, Ky., in time to keep a confederate force out of it and ended in April, 1865, when he sat down with Gen. Lee in the McLean house at Appomattox Court House in western Virginia to talk of the Mexican war, and then to write his generous terms of surrender.

In 1862 Grant attacked on the Cumberland and Tennessee, at Forts Henry and Donelson, and from then on the war had a leadership which, true enough, was taken away several times to the hurt of the federal cause, but which returned, persisted and produced "one of the most amazing maneuvers in all history."

Fuller calls Vicksburg and not Gettysburg the crisis of the confederacy. Grant was not the only man who saw the necessity for this right wheel swing, but it cannot be said that the generals and statesmen responsible for the head-on collisions in northern Virginia saw it at all.

Every time Grant really got loose on the flank he worked a paralyzing effect on the confederacy. He was cutting it in two, putting a federal front in its rear, starving it, and destroying its resources. Whenever he was free of bureaucratic control, a successful dash was made at this purpose. Whenever he had official interference it was stopped.

In no chronology of war does the presence and purpose of a man show more conclusively. Grant never failed to get what he went after. In May, 1864, in chief command, he started the final movements of the grand strategy which Fuller says made child's play of the strategy of the world war, while he himself took on personally the task of demolishing the formidable Lee in Virginia.

Grant with the Army of the Potomac fought more and harder battles in six weeks than the generals of the Army of the Potomac had fought in four years, and after each battle he went ahead—the first experience in that direction of the Army of the Potomac after battle.

Meanwhile, the confederacy was being destroyed by Sheridan in the great Valley of Virginia and by Sherman marching to the sea. This was great generalship. Grant, obscured by a romantic fog arising from the personalities of other commanders, has been regarded as the dogged fighter who succeeded by using superior forces with brutal disregard of life. Col. Fuller shows that he was most considerate of life.

He himself acknowledges two mistakes, the attack at Vicksburg, for which he has an explanation, and the attack at Cold Harbor, which he abandons as something which should not have been attempted. As Col. Fuller points out, the net result of the manhandling of the army of northern Virginia, hitherto invincible on its own soil, was that it was virtually put out of the war for the first time. Grant's grand strategy at last was working, and the lost cause was lost.

Gertrude Atherton Turns to Classics for Novel's Plot

Gertrude Atherton said some time ago that she was finished with modern life as material for her novels. "Black Oxen"—with its reverberations of publicity and what not—must have cured her of wanting to picture life today. At any rate she has been doing historical novels for a few years. Her latest is "Dido, Queen of Hearts" [Liveright]. You remember Dido, one of the reasons why Aeneas didn't hurry home. All the reasons are set down in Mrs. Atherton's fictional life of that siren.

Briton Reviews Dainty Humor; New War Book

Title of the Former Is 'Don Juan's Daughters.'

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—A book which is being talked about a good deal in London at the moment is one called "Don Juan's Daughters," by Irene Forbes-Mosse. For those who can appreciate its delicacy, its wit, and its charm it will be a genuine discovery.

Surprisingly enough, considering the Englishness of her name, the author is a German—actually a granddaughter of that Bettina von Arnim who was the friend of Goethe and Beethoven! More than that, she is related to the Brothers Grimm and other famous persons in German literary history. But she is the widow of an Englishman, which accounts for the name, and although her book has had to be translated from the German, and although it is as German in some respects as the work of Jean Paul Richter himself, it is particularly English in its wit.

The first story is a burlesque sequel to the libretto of Mozart's opera of "Don Giovanni," with Donna Anna and Donna Elvira grown older and Don Ottavio devoted to coin collection. It is something like a charade in narrative, and very high spirited. The second story, a beautiful thing, but very faint, and very gentle, is called "Dream Children." Childless herself, the heroine spends her days in delicate imaginings, in love for real children and in reverie over those whom she summons to her thoughts. The third story, "The Burden," is more robust, but it, too, is only half told, so that only those who have a taste for writing that is tender and wistful will care deeply for it.

The book is full of wit and vivid description. It has a preface by Vernon Lee, a friend of the author, which admirers of Vernon Lee will find much to their taste.

The lovers of strong meat will find it better worth their while to give time to another book that is sweeping London. This is "Her Privates We," a war book considered by many to be truer to the experience of the average private soldier than any previous work of its kind. This is the book which I said had been attributed by some to Col. Lawrence. It was not written by Col. Lawrence. The author was a writer before the war, and he writes well. A great deal of the book consists of the talk of genuine soldiers, and it is the real thing. I think American readers would find it interesting to compare the talk of the English Tommies in this book with the talk of American soldiers in several of the books dealing with the war which have had wide popularity.

I think the book should not be missed. It will certainly be a best seller in England, for rumor has been busy with it for months, and the book is no disappointment.

Another Prize of $2,000 for Book for Children

Longmans Green are offering for the second time a prize of $2,000 for the best juvenile submitted to them before September 1, 1930. Charles J. Finger's "Courageous Companions" won this year's prize. Five other manuscripts which were submitted were published this fall and all five were selected by book clubs, three by the Junior Literary guild, and two by the Children's Book club. Address all inquiries (and there will be a lot of them probably, with that news to spur writers) to Contest Editor, Children's book department, Longmans Green & Co., 55 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Modern Library Adds Four More New Titles to Its List

The four latest additions to the Modern Library are especially interesting. An anthology of American Negro Literature, edited for the library by V. F. Calverton, has an excellent introduction by the editor. The Memoirs of Jacques Casanova, edited (but not bowdlerized) by Madeline Boyd, provides the world with the facts (and fancies) of the most outspoken literary lover of history. And there are two fine novels, "The Song of Songs," by Hermann Sudermann, and Carl Van Vechten's delightful "Peter Whiffle."

Nitti Reveals Fascist Terror, Island Prisons

Tells Details of Tortures and His Escape.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Escape," by Francesco Nitti [Putnam].

A side of Fascism rarely met with in the public prints—although hinted at in "You Can't Print That," by George Seldes—is painted in detail in "Escape," by Francesco Nitti.

"Escape" is the story of the life of a political prisoner and of his successful flight. It is told with vividness and with a restraint that makes the telling much more impressive than any excitable narrative. It is the record of political oppression almost medieval in its power.

Young Francesco Nitti, nephew of the Francesco Nitti who formerly was prime minister of Italy, was arrested in Rome on Dec. 2, 1926, on a political charge. He was sentenced to five years' deportation to an island prison. That is the bare outline of the book, that and the story of his escape—with two others, the only three Italian political prisoners ever to escape the fulfillment of their sentences on those penal islands.

What the book tells with words and with implications is a story of despotism which sounds very unlike the official stories of the benefits of the Fascist rule to the Italian people. Premier Mussolini has a muzzle upon the press, both local and foreign. Mr. Nitti says (as did George Seldes), and only stories which are to the glorification of the Fascist rule are permitted to be published in Italy or sent from Italy. The first hand story of the thousands of political prisoners, gathered sometimes five hundred in one night, is told here. The author is a Protestant (in itself a suspicious thing in present day Italy, he says) and a member of a family which has been famous for generations as loyal nationals. His specific crime was that he paid a visit to the widow of Matteotti, a member of the Italian parliament murdered, he says, in cold blood by Fascist soldiers.

Nitti never was given any trial. His case is mild compared to the cases of many of whom he tells—all suspects, none proved guilty at a trial.

The life on the penal islands was a despotism of another color—a physical despotism, for the commandant of an island was supreme, and in one case, among others, he was a sadist of the most virulent form. Political prisoners whose greatest crime was that they refused to raise the arm in salute were lashed across the face, were spat upon, were treated to physical indignities which shamed even the criminals with whom they were quartered. Often they were forced to live with murderers, thieves, criminals of the most noxious kind. Their efforts at educating themselves and others were looked on with extreme suspicion, and in one case brought down upon the group tortures which Mr. Nitti describes with restraint, but seething indignation.

The pictures of life that Mr. Nitti paints make one's spine creep—read in a day when individual liberty has been the watchword of whole nations, and in a country where man's right to his own thoughts and his convictions is inherent in the very air we breathe.

Quite aside from the fact that the book is an indictment of a political system, it is a thrilling and a fascinating book, probably much more so than the author suspected when he wrote it. It is a record of an adventure which a fiction writer would have had a hard time imagining, and probably it would have lost its drive and power with any attempt at "writing." Mr. Nitti sets it all down with few adjectives, either descriptive or exclamatory.

FLEEING MUSSOLINI'S WRATH

Francesco Nitti, author of "Escape" (at the extreme left), with two companions of his sensational escape from Lipari. The two men whose faces are blacked out are unnamed friends who assisted him, but whose identification might prove fatal to them. In "Escape" Nitti tells the complete story of his experiences as a political prisoner. His uncle, former Prime Minister Nitti of Italy, writes an introduction to the book.

Jungles, Far North for Children

BY AGATHA L. SHEA,
Director of children's work in the branches of the Chicago Public Library.

"Little Black Stories for Little White Children," translated by Margery Bianco [Payson & Clarke].

"The Magic Switch," by Fjeril Hess [Macmillan].

"Black Arrowhead," by Caroline Snedeker [Doubleday-Doran].

"Children of the Border," by Ella S. Bowles [Lippincott].

"Noah's Grandchildren" by Julie Chevalier [Doubleday-Doran].

"Bob North with Dog Team and Indians," by Robert Carver North [Putnam].

Among the unusual books which have come from the press this year must be placed Margery Bianco's translation of Blaise Cendrars' "Little Black Stories for Little White Children." The book contains eleven stories written about the life of the African jungle and is permeated with the supernatural and imaginative. It is undoubtedly a book of interest to the folklorist and to the student of children's literature, and will have its share of enthusiastic child readers, but one doubts that it will achieve a very general popularity among the latter.

Another fantastic tale, although a modern one, is Fjeril Hess' "Magic Switch." This is a joyous story of little Marenka's happy days in the magic forest while the old gander takes care of her geese for her. Due to the magic switch which she carries, she is able to talk to the forest people, and many are her adventures. Little children will enjoy hearing this read to them.

Caroline Dale Snedeker's "Black Arrowhead" is another one of these tales in which magic plays a part, for it was all due to the finding of the magic black arrowhead of the ancient Mohawks that little Dick and Sally made the acquaintance of Capt. Kidd and the famous Indians of early Long Island, and learned all about its history.

For the child who prefers the realistic story to the imaginative there are Ella S. Bowles' "Children of the Border" and Julie Chevalier's "Noah's Grandchildren." The first is a story of the activities, the family and community life of the New Hampshire pioneers. The plot is based on the abducting of a girl and a boy from the little settlement by the Indian Kiswaniss, who, as payment for his life, must bring to the witch woman a white girl who knew the use of herbs. The children's life among the Indians is well portrayed and there is good description of the New Hampshire woods and streams. The use of footnotes to substantiate the assertions as historical may be questioned in a book of this type, but it is on the whole interesting and well written, and children will like it.

"Noah's Grandchildren" is the story of the people of Georgia who claim to be the direct descendants of Noah. The customs and manners of the people of this little country in the Caucasus are ably pictured and the book will probably appeal because of its unusual atmosphere.

In "Bob North with Dog Team and Indians" the author gives us another interesting account of his travels. This latest journey in the Hudson bay region during the winter season is fraught with peril and hardship, but the youthful author seems to have found much of humor in it also, and has combined facts of history, the exigencies of travel, and incidental sidelights, and has made it all very readable.

Lonely Hours Provide $5,000 Crime Thriller

So Mignon Eberhart Is Feted in New York.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Cinderella was feted at the Ritz this week. The Crime club was fairy godmother, and the magic coach was "While the Patient Slept," which won the $5,000 prize for the best mystery story of the year.

WILLIAM GERHARDI.

Slender, blue-eyed, dainty Mignon, who shares the name Eberhart and the roving life o' tents of a young Nebraska civil engineer, busied herself—while her husband was concerned with dams and bridges—by writing of murders and villains and knives in the dark.

Sheer imagination—she's that scared at the word "blood" she calls it "a dark stain."

Evening of Thursday, Joseph Brewer and his dog were gayly at home to the throng that dropped in for "bon voyages" to "Bill" Benet, who's off for foreign shores, and to Sarah Salt, who goes back to London and work on the successor to "Joy Is My Name" after "the most stimulating holiday I ever, ever had" . . . Katharine Brush, who's been breasting seas of Oolong and Orange Pekoe since the publication of "Young Man of Manhattan," was tea-ed this week by Ann Watkins.

All the men who don't go to lectures will find that their women folks have a new "rave" in William Gerhardi. This young Englishman of German name and Russian birthplace, whose new novel, "Pending Heaven," is his seventh book, has just arrived to talk through the States on "Love and Literature."

He could talk on "How Codfish Are Dried" and still be a success. First glimpse of him at Mr. and Mrs. Cass Canfield's tea on Friday revealed that he has the gift of charm . . . which Paganini had . . . and Valentino. It's something quite apart from looks, though the "incomparable" Gerhardi (as his publishers have labeled him) is well favored . . . glint of gold in hair and mustache . . . at 33 still "a stripling youth." Sensitive, high bred, engagingly unself-conscious, the sophistication that shines through his books has left no trace of ennui.

Overcoats and evening wraps . . . some three hundred of them . . . were tossed on Friday evening to check boys in the shipping room of Horace Liveright's publishing house. It's an old brownstone front, like the setting of "Street Scene," and its five stories blazed with merriment in honor of Arthur Train and the firm's new vice president, George F. Hummel.

Looking in the supper room for Arthur Train, we saw Will Cuppy, Elmer Rice, Sam Hoffenstein, Elsie McCormick. . . . Looking in the installed-for-the-occasion bar for Arthur Train, we saw Martha Ostenso, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gould, George Sylvester Viereck. . . . Dancing on the second floor we hailed Burton Rascoe, Max Lief, Blair Niles. . . . George Hummel we found in the lounge . . . and Heywood Broun exchanging anecdotes with Boardman Robinson. . . . Horace Liveright in a group with Ivy Lee and Isabel Paterson . . . up another flight . . . there's Achmed Abdullah, Max Eastman, Hugh Ferriss . . . downstairs . . . upstairs . . . it seemed not one, but a dozen kaleidoscopic parties . . . he was there according to many eyewitnesses . . . but always in some other room, the elusive Mr. Train.

Records His Adolescence.

"The Anxious Bench," by Louis E. Laflin Jr. [Seymour], is a contemporary record, covering five years, in action and in writing. It was begun by Mr. Laflin at the age of 15, and each chapter was written as it happened.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE CONFERENCE.

The Cleveland Press, one of the Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers, accuses THE TRIBUNE of "vicious journalism," of coloring the news of the naval conference and setting forth as fact what is "really an expression of an editor's or reporter's prejudice." The support for this accusation is amusing. It consists in the assertion of contrary opinion from that expressed by THE TRIBUNE writers. It is "vicious journalism" for a TRIBUNE correspondent to give his opinion, but we suppose it is sound journalism for a Scripps-Howard writer to give his. The charge that opinions are represented as facts is unsustained—and is, of course, unsustainable. No one above the intellectual level of a moron will have any trouble while reading the reports of Mr. Henning, Mr. Steele, Mr. Wales or Mr. Darrah in distinguishing between their assertions of fact and their statements of opinion.

That is not what really troubles the Cleveland Press editor. What the Press doesn't like is that THE TRIBUNE men at the conference are not there to feed official pap to THE TRIBUNE readers but to tell all the facts they are able to obtain and to express their opinions without fear or favor. The Press editorial merely swallows the official output at London and regurgitates it. An example is its assertion that "THE TRIBUNE ignores the central fact that Stimson has made a clean-cut declaration 'for nothing more inimical to the interests of the United States than naval parity.'" Well, if THE TRIBUNE ignores this "central fact," it is because it is nonexistent except in the uninformed noddle of the Cleveland Press. But neither THE TRIBUNE nor its correspondent, Mr. Henning, has ignored the reference of Mr. Stimson to "naval parity." Naval parity, as THE TRIBUNE has been at pains to explain, is not reached by Mr. Stimson's proposals of approximate parity of ships, and is not even remotely approached by any agreements or proposals announced thus far by our delegation. Naval parity in the only vital sense is parity of naval power, and this is the understanding of it which the American people have. To babble about naval parity as if it were synonymous with an approximate equality of naval ships is merely to expose ignorance of the elements of sea power, of the interests of the United States in sea power, and of the true nature of the negotiations now proceeding in London.

The Cleveland Press presents an example of the slack and irresponsible editorship which confuses loyalty to the nation with loyalty to officials who happen to have its approval. No citizen is yet bound to accept the proceedings or proposals of the delegation sent by Mr. Hoover to London; much less is any newspaper. On the contrary, it is the duty of the American press to inform itself of the problems with which this momentous international negotiation is dealing, to make up its mind on what the interests of the United States require, and criticize frankly and freely any action or proposition which it believes to be inimical to those interests.

This duty is one of increasing moment to the American people as its political representation becomes increasingly unresponsive to the general will and increasingly subservient to vociferous minorities and well organized special interests, to pacifism, social subserviency, sentimentalism, and internationalism. Especially in foreign relations the susceptibility of both branches of government to these influences and their tendency to follow such pressures instead of to consider the broad interests of the nation has been developing a situation which has no sanction in the sound judgment of the people but runs counter to it as it has been expressed whenever there has been opportunity for the people to express it. It is not the duty of the American press to accept this situation. It is the duty of a free press to tell the truth as it sees it, to criticize government freely and to support officials only when in its honest opinion they are acting in accordance with the public good. The complaint of the Cleveland Press that THE TRIBUNE correspondents are coloring the news because they are not passing out to the American people whatever the American officials care to hand them is not only a perversion of the facts but a pitiful surrender of the first duty of a free press.

As to the reports of the conference sent by THE TRIBUNE correspondents, there has been nothing in American journalism more creditable. They have told facts which the American people are entitled to know and they have illuminated them with informed comment. Day by day events have verified their discussions, and if the American people do not know what is taking place in the conference and its significance it will not be the fault of these able and patriotic men. If it is coloring the news to point out what facts and official formulas mean, there had better be more of it, not less.

While American journalism is worth its salt it will not accept the Jacobite doctrine that the government can do no wrong and that to challenge its proposals is treason.

AIRPORTS IN THE CHICAGO REGION.

Ten cities in the Chicago region are making progress in the construction of airports, and of the ten fields six are to be larger than the Chicago municipal airport on the southwest side. The ten cities are Joliet, Elgin, Rockford, Rock Island, Moline, Iowa City, Dubuque, Janesville, Beloit, and Muncie. The energy and initiative shown by these communities is a source of much satisfaction. Here is evidence of vigorous and effective local leadership. As long as American communities prefer to provide for their present and future needs without outside help there is reason to believe that the encroachments of centralized government upon home rule will be halted. As an evidence also of economic stability these airports are as significant in their way as statistics of the growth of population and industrial production.

THE FIRE ON THE MUENCHEN.

The inquiry into the causes of the fire aboard the North German Lloyd liner Muenchen and of its rapid spread should be unusually thorough. There is at least circumstantial evidence that the damage was deliberately done. There was much dissatisfaction among the crew, it is stated, and the ill feeling was fanned by communist agitators in the ranks. The recent somewhat similar disaster to the Europa, sister ship of the record breaking Bremen, shortly before she was to be placed in service, suggests that there may be a concerted movement to injure German shipping.

There is no reason to suppose that realists of the Russian school would shrink from embarking on such a program. The strategic value to the Reds of increasing discontent in Germany has been discussed by Russian leaders. Unemployment in Germany is severe and business recovery of recent months has been slow. The opportunity to make matters worse by reducing German income from the carrying trade, thereby hastening revolutionary activity in Germany, was apparent and the presence of a revolutionary sentiment among German seamen was a fact to be reckoned with. The record of Russian activities in England and China does not suggest that the Reds would feel any squeamishness about injuring a country with which Russia was nominally on friendly terms.

Whatever the origin of the fire may have been, much importance attaches to a study of its rapid spread. Already it has been announced that, when the ship is rebuilt, additional bulkheads will be incorporated to limit the damage which a fire in any one section of the hold can do. It is to be hoped that the loss will encourage ship designers to safeguard the superstructures of liners as well. At present they are generally highly inflammable. American car builders have greatly reduced the fire hazard of rail travel by building steel cars. American shipbuilders have an opportunity to do as much for ocean travelers.

PEACE BY UNDERSTANDING.

The Carnegie Peace Foundation herded some American newspaper men through Europe and then brought a party of British editors over here to encourage a better understanding between peoples and promote peace by acquaintance and contact. Sir Charles Igglesden of the British party has done what is expected of Englishmen who have been in wild places. He has written a book of America in which it appears that the worst suspicions of respectable Englishmen are realized and their best fears confirmed. The people of the United States, particularly the young people, have gone to the dogs, wild in morals and manners. The better the families the worse the behavior. Young ladies are drunk all over the place and with young gentlemen frequent the hotels, howling and throwing crockery.

Thus the Carnegie Foundation gives the British a more sympathetic understanding of the United States and out of the respect thus aroused peace grows firmer in the intentions of men.

Just one more heavily endowed peace society let loose and there will be a war which will be bigger and brighter and better than any which has been had to date.

Editorial of the Day

WE DEEM HIM QUALIFIED:

[William H. King Jr., in the Chicago Bar Association Record].

Even the most cursory consideration of the activities of the Bar association in recent judicial elections leads to the conclusion that the recommendations approved by the board of managers as to the qualifications of candidates have become increasingly lacking in candor and courage. The report which appeared at the recent election was particularly noteworthy for a certain temporizing quality which was not altogether fortunate. The reader was confounded rather than informed. This quality appearing in future reports will result in a real impairment of the influence of the association in the nomination and election of a competent judiciary.

But what of the future?

Is it desirable for representatives of the association to meet with the leaders of political parties with a view to participating in the selection of candidates for judicial office? It is submitted that this is not a desirable procedure for the association.

A man is a party leader because he has control of his party. He will remain a party leader only so long as he is able to maintain his control. It follows that no party leader can ever afford to permit this association or any other association to select the candidates of his party for any office. He may, however, be delighted to submit his slate to this association or any other association for indorsement, and in return, if the association is powerful enough, he may be willing to trade a place or two upon the slate.

What can the Bar association hope to gain by conferring with party leaders as to the selection of the judicial ticket? Nothing but a poor place or two in exchange for swallowing the whole ticket, good, bad and indifferent. The representatives of the association would meet with party leaders to trade the name of the association for what it would bring. And with each succeeding year they would find that it brings less and less. The rule of expediency and the rule of opportunism would replace the rule of unflinching candor and courageous devotion to principle. Gradually the association would be content that the bench be occupied by "the best the boys will stand." It would not take long to gain for the association an unfavorable reputation and for its recommendations an untrustworthy character. Already evidence of this is appearing.

SPEAKERS' FAVORITE SPEECHES.

"What do you regard as the best speech you ever made?"

"I haven't any preference," answered Senator Sorghum, "but the ones that afford me most satisfaction were my various speeches of acceptance."—Washington Star.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Wait! How Much Will a Steel Turret Cost on That Auto—

yeastr, Mister Agent, you put up a good sales talk on that car we were looking at, but what about a steel turret for the driver? For we're going to drive that car ourself, and maybe if the front seat where the driver sits was all inclosed in steel like the coop they put around the captain up on the bridge of battleships, it might not be such a rotten idee. Yes, sure, we admit that we were all set to buy that car. Hal Foust took us riding in it and it's a nice car. We thought it would be great to get out into the open country where now and then between the sign boards and Cal's History of These United States in 500 words we could catch a glimpse of trees and green grass and now and then the lowing kine chewing their cuds by the little babbling brooklets.

We'd rather see the brooklets and the cowlets and the piglets and dear little romping things like that (ain't nature grand and we're crazy about it) than to read Cal's history in 500 words. We can read all about the history of the United States while nicely tucked in bed, which is the only way to read the history of the United States anyway. Then when you come to the part where our forefathers licked the British you can give three rousing cheers, and when you hit the spots where the said forefather got a kick in the pants you can throw the book across the room and go to sleep. But when we're out in the great open spaces we don't want to stop and read history, especially if a sign says there's a hot dog stand two miles further down the road.

But just when we were all ready to say "sold" regarding that auto we read about the trial of the dry agent for killing the man driving his auto up near International Falls. The dry sleuth says he held up a cute little sign that said "STOP" on it. And he also hollered at the man before he started the artillery. But the man's wife says her husband was hard of hearing, color blind, a little deaf, and usually wore glasses. That's us all over. So what's to prevent us from bumping into the same thing that the poor man did up at International Falls?.

We believe you, Mister Auto Salesman, when you tell us we'll enjoy going out riding in that car. But let us tell you something, Mister Auto Salesman. We're not going to enjoy coming back dead in that car. And we're hard of hearing, color blind, a little deaf, and usually wear glasses. Unless you can put an armored steel turret around the front of that car, the sale is off. Guess we'll stick to the little old street car awhile longer. We won't see any brooklets, or cowlets, or piglets, or murmuring pines and lovely green grass on a street car, but if we go on one of them the chances are pretty good that we can come back in one reading the newspapers and serene and happy, even though a large fat lady is standing on our left foot.

CABARET.

We sense an intricate device,
The glint of horn and saxophone,
Ash, iridescent cubes of ice,
And flesh, a pallid monotone.

Because we feel the immanence
Of form even in the cold,
Precisely wrought impermanence
Of ice cubes in a china bowl,

We must reject the crystal fever
Of jazz that urges palm to palm,
That falls like flakes of beaten silver
To fleck the throat, the wrist, the arm. . . .

Accepting only these unstable
Symbols of explicit form:
Cubes of ice upon a table . . .
The glint of saxophone and horn.

POLLY CHASE BOYDEN.

NOW THE NEXT holiday will be the anniversary of the birth of Mr. G. Washington, Feb. 22, which is Saturday of next week. We are pleased to record that in honor of the event next week has been designated as "Tell the Truth Week." So beginning tomorrow morning you must tell the truth all the week. It looks like a pretty tough week for one and all.

LOTS OF PAPERS yesterday put the London armament reduction conference on the second page, or over on the sixteenth page next to pure reading matter. Even people who are strongest for peace would rather read a good juicy murder story. Or a love triangle with shootings!!! Oh la, la la!

One More Crack Like That and We'll Need 10 New Battleships.

Arouse! One Hundred Percenters! Up and at 'em. Our national pride is touched to the quick. A bird gets right up in the British parliament and declares that the Scotch are manufacturing illicit likker called "Red Biddy," which he says is "more potent than American corn whisky." We brand that as a lie! There isn't anything more potent than American corn whisky; that is the kind we get now. Can Red Biddy make a guy declare he is a kangaroo and go hopping from the top of one food laden table to another in a night club? Can Red Biddy make a man climb nimbly up the tallest oak in Lincoln park and chatter and insist to the policeman who dares him down that he is a squirrel? Can Red Biddy make a man spread his coattails and try to parachute down to the ground under the impression his automobile is an aeroplane that has gone into a tail spin ninety-five thousand feet above the earth? We have read these strange stories in the daily press; all caused by a few drinks of American corn whisky. Red Biddy more potent than our corn whisky? Oh, Mister Member of Parliament, behave yourself!

CAL COOLIDGE says the landlord has raised the rent on his $37.50 a month duplex home in Northampton, Mass. Probably the landlord would have let the rent alone as long as Cal was merely an ex-President, but when he heard that he was writing for the magazines he hiked it up. Or maybe the landlord is a Democrat.

HOW LONG SHALL WE LIVE?

HOW long can one expect to live? The answer depends on several factors, such as: Is the person an average person? What is the color and race? The sex? Where does he live? Will he continue to live about where he now does and about as he now does?

The United States census office has published two life tables supplying the answer to the question. But they are now old and they were based on census reports that were older still. The Metropolitan Life has recently supplied the answer as far as their policy holders are concerned. The answer is not only more up to date than that of the census office but it applies to the entire country, which the census office tables did not.

In 1928 an average man seventy years of age could plan on eight and a quarter years of life. The average woman expected to outlive the average man by almost a year. At age 65, the average white man could plan on ten years and five months. At age 60 almost thirteen years were his to draw on. At age 55, fifteen years and ten months. At 50, a little over nineteen years. At age 45, twenty-two and a half years. At age 40, over twenty-six years. At age 35, over thirty years. At age 30, thirty-four years and two months. At age 25, thirty-eight years and seven months.

There is no need to go further. People twenty years of age and less cannot bring themselves to think of such questions.

Women average just about half a year more of expectancy than men do at the same age period.

In 1928 the expectancy of life of the average baby at birth was just a little short of fifty years of age. This takes into account the dangers of that first summer, to say nothing of the colds and pneumonias which lurk around in the first winter. This expectancy of nearly fifty-six years is a gain of nine and a quarter years since 1911. But we must admit that the rate of gain is falling off. The expectancies in 1928 were shorter than in 1927. Those of the older life periods show a rather definite tendency to slump.

While on the subject we might add that health, as shown by death rates, has slumped a little in recent years.

HOT AND COLD BATHS.

F. W. F. writes: I have read some good stuff from Dr. J. H. Kellogg entitled "Pain Relieved by Heat." I'm only a layman, but I've been doing that for forty odd years. In '88 I began taking a novel shower at the gymnasium, one hot and one cold, hopping from one to the other. That was in Duluth, where the water is cold, remarkably exhilarating, and fine. Have done it every day since then. I do it a dozen times or so back and forth, hotter and colder each time. A fellow rebels at the first off, but he can get so he easily stands the hot just this side of boiling. Didn't relieve any pain in me, for I had none, but it was so refreshing and snappy. But around the gym there is always some one with a sprained toe or shoulder or something. The "hot and cold" made him comfortable, relieved the pain, and reduced inflammation. Two fellows I remember in particular sniffled and snorted and sneezed all winter. Got them into the "hot and cold" habit and they haven't sniffled since. Not exactly a panacea for all ills, but certainly an alleviation for many. Anyway, when I left Duluth in '36, forty of the sixty active fellows in the gymnasium were hot and colding every day and swore by it.

When I first came to the gym here the gang ha-haad and pooh-poohed, especially the doctors, who swore it meant pneumonia and heart trouble, not to mention smallpox and what not. Well, today the physical director and four of the protesting five doctors plus thirty-two fellow members, are hot and colding every day.

One old chap doddered into the gym three years ago. Doctor had sent him to work pulleys, etc., trying to build him up a bit. I got interested in him, hot and colded him, and today he is a fine, erect, old fellow, never has a cold, and incidentally beats them all at handball.

MOST DANGEROUS AT START.

Worried mother writes: Which is the most dangerous time to contract scarlet fever, when the fever is present or when the patient begins to scale?

REPLY.

Scarlet fever is most contagious at the onset of the disease. It is not very contagious late in the attack. It is not spread by scales. The only reason there is any danger from carriers and convalescents is because we become careless as the patient improves in health.

COMMON LAW MARRIAGES ILLEGAL IN ILLINOIS.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is common law marriage held legal in Illinois? If not, was it ever legal?

F. V.

In the absence of a ceremonial marriage the legality of the relationship would depend upon whether there was ever an agreement for a legal as distinguished from an illicit relationship and upon whether that agreement was entered into in a state recognizing common law marriages. Since 1905 Illinois law has not permitted the contracting of common law marriages in this state, but if the relation was valid when and where it was entered into it would be valid everywhere.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SALARY CLAIMS.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a salary claim against a firm for which I worked and which I am unable to collect. I am not employed by them at present, but they are still in business. I am unable to get any satisfaction on this claim by handling it myself and inquire as to whether there is some labor bureau or such which would collect this for me. I understand there is some such department which handles claims like this gratis to an employé.

E. C. M.

The Illinois statute authorizes recovery of attorney fees on wage claims. It is sometimes possible to get an attorney to undertake collection in reliance on such fee, but ordinarily some payment in advance is required. The legal aid bureau of the United Charities assists those who are unable to pay an attorney.

NOTE IS LOST.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I had a note for $200 that was accidentally destroyed the other day. This note is a year past due, but payment is promised the 17th of this month. Inasmuch as I have witnesses to the signing of the note, should I have any difficulty in making collection of both interest and principal?

V. S.

The loss of the note would make collection somewhat more difficult, but should not make it impossible.

PHILADELPHIA. — The Bulletin had this dispatch from Washington: "Richmond papers of the 13th announce the destruction of railroads by Gen. Sherman north of Branchville and between Kingsville and Branchville, thus destroying every road centering at Branchville." While Richmond papers do not positively confirm the capture of Branchville by Sherman, they acknowledge that the Union army has crossed the Edisto river, that Hardee's troops had fallen back before our advance, and that a Union force was reported at Orangeburg. The capture of Orangeburg cuts off the main railroad communications between Charleston and Richmond.

NEW YORK.—Capt. James S. Beal, convicted of being a spy and guerrilla and of being one of the Lake Erie pirates, will be hanged on Saturday morning at Governor's Island, New York harbor. His sentence was fully approved by Gen. Dix.

SPRINGFIELD.—A resolution introduced by Mr. Platt that the balance of the entire amount of stationery purchased for the use of the members of the house of representatives at a cost of about $6,000 should be equally divided among the members for any future use to which they may wish to apply it, even to peddling it out by the single quire to their home customers, was adopted. The speaker was the only member to vote against it.

CHICAGO.—W. H. Graffam and Miss Mollie L. Davis were married on Feb. 9 by the Rev. E. W. Hager. At West Northfield Dr. C. J. Lewis and Miss Anna M. Edwards were married on Feb. 13 by the Rev. Mr. Barrett. Augustus Keisel of New York City and Miss Margaret J. Blain, stepdaughter of Judge D. V. Bell, were married on Feb. 14 by the Rev. J. R. Hibbard.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 15, 1900.

LONDON.—Lord Roberts began to advance on the Boers between the Modder river and Kimberley on Feb. 12 by initiating a flanking movement which up to this time has proved entirely successful, and the British army is now in the Orange Free State. Lord Roberts reported the details himself. Gen. French began operations by seizing a ford over the Riet river known as Del Dekiel's Drift, then advanced the next day with three brigades of cavalry, horse artillery, and mounted infantry. He forced a passage over the Modder river at Clip Drift and occupied the hills north of the river, capturing three Boer laagers. On the same day Gen. Gordon crossed the Modder to the west of Gen. French and captured two more laagers. The situation is such that Gen. Cronje must either fight or retreat. He is now between Gen. Methuen with 25,000 men and Gen. Roberts with 47,000 men.

CHICAGO.—Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, on Indiana avenue, near 24th street, was damaged by fire with a loss of $75,000. The organ, one of the finest in the city, which cost $12,000, was destroyed, as was a marble font, a memorial to the Rev. T. M. Eddy. When the fire started the Rev. William E. McLennan, the pastor, was conducting a prayer meeting in a lecture room on the ground floor, but there was no panic.

CHICAGO.—Dr. D. K. Pearsons, who during the last ten years has given to colleges and charitable institutions gifts amounting to $2,500,000, is about to deed away the remainder of his fortune, $1,500,000, in similar bequests. He will stipulate that for the maintenance of himself and his wife a 2 per cent annuity be paid by those who receive his gifts hereafter.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Pearl M. D. Farwell, daughter of Col. and Mrs. J. C. Dick, 3979 Drexel boulevard, and Ray K. Farwell of Freeport were married at St. Mark's Episcopal church.

CHICAGO.—A complete confession of the plot which resulted in the murder of Maurice ["Moss"] Enright was made to State's Attorney Hoyne by James Vinci, driver of the executioner's automobile. Mr. Hoyne said Vinci identified as the actual slayer Vincenzo Cosmano, boss of all the street sweeping gangs in the First ward. He implicated "Big Tim" Murphy as leader of the plot.

CHICAGO.—Mary Borden-Turner-Spiers has written a novel which is so obviously autobiographical in character, so intimate in its revelations and so trenchantly critical of Chicago society that it will probably cause a vast amount of discussion. It is called "The Romantic Woman" and will be published on March 12, bearing the signature Mary Borden.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Amid unconfirmed reports of more cabinet resignations and universal condemnation of President Wilson's extraordinary action in dismissing Secretary of State Lansing on charges of usurping executive functions, fresh developments added to the excitement. One report was that at one cabinet meeting, not attended by President Wilson, Mr. Lansing stated he took a grave view of the nation's lack of executive direction, due to the President's temporary incapacity, and that he thought some step should be taken to provide for such direction. It was reported he suggested calling upon Vice President Marshall to act.

THE NOBLE EXPERIMENT IN THE GRAIN TRADE.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Mr. McKelvie, wheat member of the federal farm board, is reported, in addressing a massmeeting of farmers in Spokane, Wash., on Feb. 10, as making an attack on the grain exchanges of this country.

In the course of his address Mr. McKelvie first claimed that dissemination of news regarding crop conditions issued by the members of various exchanges is designed to promote prices in the direction desired by speculators. Had Mr. McKelvie desired to disseminate all the facts in his address to the farmers he would have told them that the exchanges have a strict check on grain news issued by their members, holding any member to account for statements which he cannot authenticate. Under the Capper-Tincher act the government supervisor of each exchange also has authority to hold exchange members responsible for news reports they may issue.

Mr. McKelvie then had the effrontery to say that this alleged irresponsible dissemination of news set aside the law of supply and demand. This in the face of the avowed program of the farm board through its agencies to hold part or all of the United States wheat surplus out of trade channels!

A further objection Mr. McKelvie uttered was the old argument that there is something evil in the large volume of futures traded in compared with the actual amount of grain raised. This shows, on Mr. McKelvie's part, a complete ignorance of the necessity of broad speculation to furnish hedging (or price insurance) facilities to grain merchants.

If the question of farm relief remains in the hands of men such as the farm board member in question, the collapse of this latest "noble experiment" will not be delayed as long as those who have the country's welfare at heart had feared.

THREE TRACKS IN ONE DAY.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—It is a far cry from the anguished exclamation, "A horse, a horse! My kingdom for a horse!" to a dinner table talk I enjoyed with a couple of friends yesterday evening. They were talking of an experience that they had enjoyed recently—the seeing of a first race on the program at Miami and the last race on the program at Havana on the same day!

From the day when man depended on his own pedal extremities for locomotion to his possession and use of a horse is a long journey in time and culture; from horse to locomotive marked the passing of another era; from locomotive to the automobile, still another, though shorter one, but from feet to wings lies the whole history of the human race. Think of seeing the first race on a program at Miami, winging across to see the last race on a program at Havana, and quietly discussing it over a dinner table in Chicago as though it were a daily commonplace.

What next, do you suppose?

PETER J. PEEL.

THE DOWNFALL OF THE WHIGS.

Oconomowoc, Wis., Feb. 10.—In your leading editorial this morning you say that the Whig party was defeated because it defended the fugitive slave law. How can that be when it was defeated by a party whose support of that law was outspoken and enthusiastic, while the Whig position was much the same as yours (and mine) is as to prohibition; that is, to support it (outwardly) because it is the law?

No party ever succeeded in a presidential election by opposing slavery. Witness the position of Lincoln as stated on his monument in Lincoln park.

I believe that prohibition will die because it is wrong, just as slavery did; but don't misrepresent the good old Whig party.

H. H. PARKER.

LINCOLN WOULD DISAGREE.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Today being Lincoln's birthday, I went to Lincoln park to see his statue, but when I left there was sadness in my heart, for while I was at the statue some children were climbing on it, playing games. I should think that the parents of these children should teach their offspring to hold these memories in some respect.

ARTHUR C. KURBAT.

ALIEN WIVES.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 11.—Unless the law is changed the wife of an American citizen may be an alien, whether her citizen-husband be native born or a world war veteran.

The United States Supreme court, as recently as Oct. 14, 1929, refused to overrule the opinion of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia when it declared the wife of an American citizen an alien under the existing law, as follows:

"It is apparent that the wife of the relator is 'an alien,' according to the sense of the term as used in the immigration laws. Section 1 of the immigration act of 1917 (39 Stats. 874) defines an alien as follows:

"'. . . the word "alien" wherever used in this act shall include any person not a native born or naturalized citizen of the United States. . . .'

"On Sept. 22, 1922, congress passed the so-called Cable act (42 Stat. 1021), section 2 of which reads as follows:

"'That any woman who marries a citizen of the United States after the passage of this act, or any woman whose husband is naturalized after the passage of this act, shall not become a citizen of the United States by reason of such marriage or naturalization; but, if eligible to citizenship, she may be naturalized upon full and complete compliance with all requirements of the naturalization laws. . . .'

"Section 26 (b) of the immigration act of 1924 (42 Stat. 153) defines the term as follows:

"'The term "alien" includes any individual not a native born or naturalized citizen of the United States. . . .'

"The conclusion cannot be avoided that when relator was married on Feb. 17, 1927, his wife remained an 'alien,' notwithstanding her marriage with him.

I am certain that the country at large and many, many congressmen have never realized, and do not now realize, that the wife of an American citizen may be an "alien." To this new and startling situation the country is awakening. Only legislation can now bring relief.

JOSEPH KOLSTAD.

THE MARRIAGE CONTRACT.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—The editorial in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 18 regarding the marriage contract should be studied by all past and prospective brides and grooms. The little pamphlet giving a synopsis of Illinois law relating to motor vehicles issued by the secretary of state and sent free with each vehicle license has undoubtedly prevented many accidents and arguments on the automobile highways. Now if he would issue a similar pamphlet showing the rights and responsibilities of husbands, wives, parents, and children on the family highway to be given free with each marriage license it would probably prevent many family arguments and divorces. Arguments usually start with a misunderstanding as to rights and authority.

M. D.

DRYS FROM WET DISTRICTS.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Your paper this morning shows the election in Massachusetts of a wet Democrat. This is the way to proceed. It is generally conceded that the people of this country are probably equally divided; wet and dry, and the congress is, admittedly, about 4 to 1 dry. Why do wet districts send conscientious or hypocritical drys to congress to misrepresent them?

In my district we have been represented by Chindblom, an inveterate dry voter. His district has repeatedly shown itself wet, but this sentiment of his constituents is entirely disregarded by him.

J. B. S.

NEW INCOME TAXES.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—I have noticed an article by your correspondent, Mr. Oscar Hewitt, the headline of which reads: "State Income Tax Sought to Rescue Chicago." He lists the groups that have agreed on a revised tax program including Chicago Real Estate board, etc.

It seems to me that the people are now paying a federal tax and are not so anxious about paying a state income tax. If you add a state income tax, why not a county and a township? More money could be raised by adding 6 or 8 income taxes instead of one.

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Sim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by a posse from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede of a drove of some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the house looking for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has murdered her brother. Jim rides on into the town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Sam Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the murder of Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterwards Shear kills Doc Brown, who had claimed had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cow town. Jim goes into the local gambling den and is astonished to find Ellen Lawson there. She says she has come to speak to her brother Steve. Jim guides her to the back end of the room where Steve is sitting in a game of poker with Shear and Buck and others. As they reach the table the lights go out and when the room is again lighted Shear is found crumpled in his chair dead with Jim's knife in him. Ellen's left hand is covered with blood. She had become separated from Jim in the dark when some one had jostled her. In putting out her hand for support she had touched the crumpled figure. Jim and Ellen are questioned by the sheriff, Manders, and Jim is arrested. He asks Ellen to get in touch with Harrison Pendleton, his friend.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

JAILED.

Steve felt the inferiority of youth. He ought to assert himself, and he did not know what course he ought to follow.

"I don't know as you've got any right to ask favors of my sister, Mr. Rutledge, or whatever you call yoreself," he blustered. "Our family ain't beholden to you any that I know of."

"Don't be silly, Steve," his sister said. To Jim she added: "I'll get yore message to Mr. Pendleton right away."

"I knew you would. Thanks." Jim smiled, and with that smile his face seemed to a boyish charm. "You're a right good li'l sport."

"If you are ready," the sheriff suggested.

"I'm ready." Jim walked out of the room with Manders.

At first sight few would have picked this Texas boy fresh from the range to untangle the twisted skein of this mystery. None the less his training had given him certain qualifications lacking in one more sophisticated. As a cowboy it had been necessary to deduce much from little. Riders in the desert are a thousand stories for him to read who can. They have been stamped into the ground, chewed on its grass and brush, scrubbed against the bark of trees. Only an expert can know the tale they record. Unfortunately the most expert trailer can read a very little of what is found on the desert plainly enough for its denizens to ascertain instantly. Any dog can do better. A wolf knows the story stamped there much more clearly than a dog.

The murderer of Shear had left behind him a score of evidences to betray his identity. Some of them were physical, some products of his personality. Most of these were so subtle, so close to the borderline of the unknown, that human intelligence could not decipher their significance unless realise their existence. But others must be less elusive.

There were, for instance, fingerprints on the handle of the knife if one knew how to observe them, marked as the individual sign manual of the assassin. Jim was sure of that, though he had never read "Pudd'nhead Wilson" or heard of Bertillon's method of identification. It was true because it must be true. This was, however, of no practical value to him since the information was Greek as far as he was concerned.

But there were other signs—clews they were called in detective stories—waiting to be picked up by any mind astute enough. They marked the progress of the killer from the moment when he had determined to make away with Shear.

Jim had plenty of time to devote himself to rationalizing the case, for the sheriff had decided that for the present he would hold him a prisoner.

Premeditated murders resolve themselves into one of three kinds, so far as motive goes. They are done for revenge, out of fear, or for profit. The signs were that in this case one of the first two reasons named had influenced the slayer.

Walking up and down his cell, four paces one way and four the other, Jim considered the most dramatic aspect of the killing. Why had the knife been driven through an ace of spades? Had that been done to throw the police off the track? Not likely. In the blackness of the night the crime was difficult enough without the addition of that detail. The assassin had contributed that touch as a warning, or to satisfy his vanity, or as a particular postscript without which he would not have felt revenge complete.

Jim was glad of that ace of spades. It definitely proved to him that it was not a crime of impulse, and it determined within limits the character of the man who had done it. Nobody without cool and steely courage could have killed a man like Joe Shear in the presence of a score of men and had deliberately added that gesture of defiance. The assassin was marked by it as needing that flamboyant touch to taste the full flavor of his deed. There was a bare possibility that the card had been pinned to the body of the marshal by chance rather than design. Shear might have been holding it in his hand when the descending knife fell. But the odds were very much against this. Jim was convinced the black ace was a symbol. It called attention to some secret common to the dead man and his slayer, a secret jointly shared by others.

Undoubtedly Shear had many enemies. Not three men on the border had such a record as a killer, for the gunmen of the west had nearly all passed from the scene. Pat Garrett had accounted for Billy the Kid. A sheriff's bullet had finished the career of Wild Bill Hickok. The Texas bad man, John Wesley Hardin had been metamorphosed into a Sunday school superintendent. Joe Shear had remained, an anachronism. Jim Rutledge knew that no man could kill twenty-four men in private warfare without piling up against himself terrible reservoirs of hate. Nor were the enemies of the marshal confined to friends and relatives of those he had shot. He had been an arrogant man, overbearing even with his friends; and he had been attractive to women and attracted by them. That was his reputation.

Of the marshal's enemies many would be able to offer alibis unimpeachable. A good many were not within hundreds of miles. Others, even though in town, could prove by good witnesses that they were nowhere near the Longhorn at the time the crime was committed. Still others could be eliminated by the peculiar circumstances attending the murder. No weakling had done it, no man who was not very sure of himself.

Jim reserved the right to change his mind, but his first judgment was to suspect Steve Lawson and Pete Moss, just as it was to suspect Buck Roe and Blackbeard. Buck was a hardy devil, capable of anything. The pirate had a devil-may-care insouciance and an instinct for the dramatic that marked him as a possibility. And the light gray eye he had turned upon Jim had been warmed by no genial glow. It was a distinctly cold and penetrating eye, and unless Rutledge was a bad guesser it could be deadly.

The Texan had no proof that either Roe or Blackbeard had any cause for enmity at Shear. He would have to look into that later. But the opportunity to commit the crime had been open to both.

For Blackbeard too had been in the alcove room, and he had been there after Jim met him and before the murder. The proof of that was the black patch Jim had picked up. After the felt slipped from his eye why had not the pirate recovered it? Why was the patch left on the floor? The answer to that stood out like a sore thumb. It fell after the lights were out. Blackbeard had been in the card room when the murder was committed, but not there when the bartender brought the candles. What imperative need had driven him to disappear so swiftly? Jim could think of one, the overmastering desire within him not to be among those present when the lights were carried in.

How had Blackbeard got out of the Longhorn? By fortunate chance Manders had been passing when the lights were shot out. He must have just missed meeting the Circle R cowboys as they ran from the hall. It was not likely that Blackbeard could have reached the front door through all that crowding mob in time to escape before the sheriff ordered all exits closed. There was a back door, but that would not be easy to reach quickly. And there was the open window of the card room. Of course. Convenient and handy was easy reach. It was a safe bet that Blackbeard had vanished through it.

Jim pulled up abruptly in his stride. His eyes focused on a moth circling around the lamp chimney. But that was not what he saw. He had been struck by another possibility, an angle of approach to the mystery that might change the whole problem.

Harrison Pendleton came down the corridor booming a greeting at the prisoner.

"How is it comin', boy? I'll be doggoned if I ever did see such a hellion for trouble as you. It's outa one jam into another with you, an' each one worse than the last."

Good morning!

You crave excitement! "The Street of Chance" provides it in full measure and running over.

The film is an intelligently directed, adroitly constructed, brilliantly played melodrama built around the murder of the late New York underworld celebrity, Rothstein, and purports to solve the mystery of his death (for fiction purposes) besides chronicling his activities before "the finger" was laid upon him.

The hero of the film is called "Natural" Davis, and familiar restaurant and hotel names of the Rothstein story have been changed. The bulk of the situations quite possibly sprang from the imagination of the scenario writer, Mr. Oliver H. P. Garrett, but there is no mistaking the intended parallel between the cases of Rothstein and Davis.

William Powell has given many notable characterizations to the screen, but never has he done a finer piece of work than his portrayal of "Natural"—a hard man and a desperate, but with a rainbow streak of honesty, tenderness, generosity, and bravery running through the dingy granite of him that, at times, makes him appear a very delightful person, indeed.

Kay Francis as the gambler's wife has her first sympathetic rôle, and she plays it beautifully. Usually, you know, she's a vamp. This time she is seen as a distraught, disillusioned, adoring woman, and she makes the tension and heartbreak of the character she impersonates disturbingly real.

Regis Toomey and Jean Arthur are splendid as "Natural's" brother and sister-in-law, and gangsters, tipoffs, hotel and restaurant employés, and the surging tide of sinister folks who, day by day rub shoulders with Davis are sometimes more convincing than is comfortable.

The film is peppery with gripping incidents and the climax is one of the most effective ever achieved in a production of the kind.

[ALTALKER]

Directed by George Fitzmaurice.
Presented at the Oriental theater.

THE CAST.

Frank Devereaux ..... Rod La Rocque
Ann Carter ..... Barbara Stanwyck
Lawrence Keegan ..... William Boyd
Helen ..... Betty Bronson
The Waiter ..... Harry Stubbs
District Attorney ..... Harry Mestayer
Hotel Proprietor ..... Mack Swain
Telephone Girl ..... Zazu Pitts
Valet ..... George Bunny

More melodrama! This time we have a more ordinary brand.

You find Mr. Rod La Rocque as a bold, bad sheik, piling up trouble for his dad's pretty and virtuous secretary, and, in the long run, a number of others, including himself.

All unwitting, Dad's fair employé goes with young Mr. Devereaux to a disreputable drink ship—which is raided. Eighteen months later the incident, with which Ann's name has not been connected at the time, crops up to threaten her married happiness and the interests of her husband's young sister, through the caddish activities of Mr. Devereaux (how neatly "Natural" Davis would have attended to him) who has designs on said sister, and hold heavy, heavy over Ann's head PROOFS of where she was one night in the sad long ago. (A very long sentence. Sorry.)

Where does the locked door come in? Well, you can imagine. As a matter of fact, though, there are two locked doors. But let the picture tell you about them and the relation they bear to hectic events detailed by the story.

"The Locked Door" is quite exciting, quite ably acted and directed. Photography and synchronization are all right.

Answer to Question that will Arrive: No, this William Boyd is NOT the William Boyd who played in "The Volga Boatman." He is the "legit" Boyd who appeared in the stage play "What Price Glory."

See you tomorrow.

Talkies, Drama and Television May Unite for Gotham Theater

New York, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—A theater to exploit television, radio, talking pictures, and plays in one immense building has been proposed for the site that was obtained by John D. Rockefeller Jr. for the new opera house. The location, 48th to 51st streets, between 5th and 6th avenues, was rejected by the Metropolitan Opera company, but is held by the Metropolitan Square corporation, controlled by Mr. Rockefeller.

Plans, still in the stage of preliminary negotiation, involve a project whereby the National Broadcasting company, General Electric, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, and other allied groups would unite for a new type of amusement and theatrical center.

Boy Scouts and Girl Guides Greet Chief Baden-Powell

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NASSAU, Feb. 14.—The chief of the scouts, Sir Robert Baden-Powell and Lady Baden-Powell arrived this morning on the motorship Alcatara on a tour of the West Indies for a rally of the Boy Scouts and Girl Guides of the Bahamas as well as a detachment of Girl Guides from Miami, Fla. The latter were complimented by Lady Baden-Powell, who said, "How charming they are."

Sir Robert presented decorations to two scouts for life saving in a hurricane last September and said that he hoped to be in the United States soon.

VALENTINES SHOW CHANGING WORLD AND MOCK OLD SENTIMENTS

Where, O, where, has the old fashioned valentine gone? The kind, that is, with paper lace, cupids and doves, forget-me-nots, and hearts, the kind which unfolds layer after layer of breath taking magnificence, at the center of which is a dainty lady with a pompadour.

Crowds at the valentine counters in loop stores yesterday were greater than ever, but many a man and woman was seen to look with disappointment at the clever modernistic valentines; the refined valentines, so restrained that not even a tinge of sentiment would be betrayed by the sender.

The old time comics could be had, and were, in abundance. But few of the variety which used to thrill girls in school 15 years ago. True, in the dime stores were to be found fairly fancy valentines, but even there they had only a minimum of lace, and, saddest of all, the cupids were chorus girl versions, and some even rode in airplanes.

At one dime store counter, crowded with men and women making their choices with due deliberation, a man with a toothpick in his mouth looked around and then said, "Don't you have none marked 'To My Sweetheart'?"

Candy counters, where heart shaped "red hots" and heart shaped gum drops were sold, did a thriving business. There also was found one thing associated with the days when cupid looked less like Texas Guinan and more like an angel. Tiny candy hearts of all colors, inscribed with witticisms such as "U R It," were there on the candy counter next to the chocolate hearts. But most of the buyers passed them by. They were too old fashioned to be in demand.

Dressed as old time and modern valentines, members of the Arché club attended a valentine party in the Shoreland hotel yesterday.

Among the costumes was one worn by Mrs. D. Charles Harries which had been worn by Mrs. E. H. Harriman at Mrs. Potter Palmer's reception at the time of the world's fair in 1893. Mrs. R. Collins dressed in a costume of the Gibson girl days and Mrs. Thomas J. Scott wore an old fashioned hoop skirted gown with pantalettes.

Mrs. Fred H. P. Howard and Mrs. Joseph Jerger wore gowns of Lincoln's period and Mrs. C. M. Smalley wore a white lace wedding dress which she first wore as a bride in 1885. Mrs. A. M. Roberts was dressed in a costume of 1845, with hat and Paisley shawl of the period, and Mrs. Joseph C. Sheeley wore a dress which had been rescued from the Chicago fire.

Science Finds Further Way to Aid Health

McGill University Chief Tells of Discovery.

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Discovery of another of the powerful hormones which regulate human health was announced officially today by McGill university.

So important was it considered that Sir Arthur Currie, head of the university, said: "It is a remarkable discovery and should bring relief and comfort to countless thousands of women throughout the world."

The new substance has not been named. It is a crystalline product, derived from internal glands. The announcement said its effects were somewhat similar to those of one of the pituitary glands, which have widely recognized functions in control of gigantism in growth, of some phases of women's health, and in water control including forms of fatness. The newly found hormone, however, is useful for feminine health.

The announcement says it influences "in a very remarkable manner the general health and metabolism" of women. Metabolism is the process whereby the body changes food into energy by building up and tearing down living protoplasms, Dean Charles F. Martin of the medical faculty says.

The discovery is credited to Dr. James Bertram Collip, a man under 40, who was associated with Dr. F. C. Banting in the discovery of insulin. Dr. Collip is chairman of the department of bio-chemistry.

Dr. Collip was graduated from Toronto university in 1911 and is a Fellow of the Royal society of Canada. After the distinction obtained in his work with Dr. Banting on insulin he made a name as an authority on the biology of the endocrine system in general, the working of the ductless internal glands.

Lay the Corner Stone of Jenny Lind Bldg. Tomorrow

The corner stone of the Jenny Lind Memorial building of St. Ansgarius' Episcopal church at Maplewood and Thorndale avenues will be laid tomorrow afternoon at 3:45 o'clock by the Rev. J. G. Hammarskild of New York, dean of Scandinavian work of the Episcopal church in America. The new building will be the first unit in a $75,000 church plant, and eventually will serve only as a parish house, although for the next year it will be used as a church.

Arthur Dixon's Interest in the Public Schools Told at Dedication

Arthur Dixon's part in the development of Chicago's public school system was recalled by members of his family last night at the dedication of the new Arthur Dixon school, 8306 St. Lawrence avenue. Nearly two thousand pupils, their parents, and friends of the Dixon family crowded the auditorium.

"It was Arthur Dixon's conviction that, in order for the republic to be safe, education should begin at home and in the public school," George W. Dixon said. "He had seven sons and seven daughters, and thirteen of them attended the old Jones school at Harrison street and Plymouth court.

"He stood for ambition and perseverance in education as well as in business, and spent many hours in giving us assistance and encouragement in our studies. His interest in education did not end with his family. For twenty-four years he served as alderman, and invariably urged increased appropriations for the building and upkeep of the schools."

Mrs. Paul Walker, a daughter of Arthur Dixon, presented an etching of her father to the school. Other speakers included Mrs. Walter Faithorn, another daughter, and Supt. Bogan and other school officials.

Red Cross Helps to Get $220,000 in War Claims

Close to 200 families of dead or disabled veterans of the world war received nearly $220,000 during 1929 from the United States government on claims being worked on by the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross. That was made known yesterday by James B. Forgan, Jr., chairman.

Disability compensation amounting to $81,465 was the largest item of payments by the government, and insurance, $55,529, came second. During September, the chapter's busiest month, benefits to families amounted to $43,069.

In many cases, according to Mr. Forgan, the family of the disabled or deceased veteran had abandoned hope of receiving benefits, while some did not know they were entitled to payments.

Concert Today Will Assist Palestine's Jewish Workers

A quintet from the Chicago Woman's Symphony orchestra, Marion Lychenheim, Evelyn Levin, Marietta Gibley, Rosalind Wollach, and Alle Slack, will participate in the program of the fourth annual midnight frolic for the benefit of the Federation of Jewish Workers in Palestine today at the New Lawndale theater, Roosevelt road and Crawford avenue. Chicago's quota is $25,000.

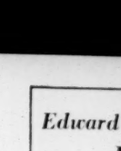
The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

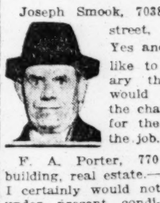
The Question.

Would you like to be mayor of Chicago now?

The Answers.



Phil Mintz, 4526 Sheridan road, sales manager. — I sure would. I would like to give the city employés all the money that's coming to them. Conditions would be much better in Chicago if they had their money right now.



Joseph Smook, 7038 South Green street, tool maker.—Yes and no. I would like to have the salary that's in it. I would like to have the chance to do good for the city that's in the job.

F. A. Porter, 770 Peoples Gas building, real estate.—I certainly would not under present conditions. If we were to have an entirely new administration, whose other officials were business men, then I would be proud to be mayor.

Ray Christen, 332 South Cicero avenue, salesman.—It is too complicated. Who would want to be mayor of Chicago right now? It would take a long time to untangle Chicago's mixup and a business administration to do it. Naturally, with such an organization I would like to be mayor.

Max Kovler, 3800 Sheridan road, salesman. — Yes. I would get the best men that could be had for the various departments, put them in a room and tell them to stay there until they had all the important city affairs thrashed out and had a plan of action decided upon.

Films to Link U. of Michigan to Its Alumni

Ruthven Says Education Never Should End.

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The university of Michigan will experiment with the talkies and radio as a means of furnishing college education as a lifelong process to its graduates, Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the university, outlined such a program tonight at a dinner of the University of Michigan club of New York.

"We are recognizing," he said, "that one's study never should be completed, that even interruptions in intellectual growth should not be tolerated. It is the belief that adult education can be promoted effectively by close coöperation between the alumni and the academic staff that has led to a new program.

"It is obvious that both the university staff and the alumni must be willing to try such experiments as reading lists, radio and movietone pictures, bulletins and news service, alumni university, to determine the value of such projects.

"It is the Michigan idea that the university should provide facilities for adult education suitable for the professional and cultural needs of the alumni, and that the alumni should maintain a general interest in university affairs, a specific interest in utilizing university facilities for post-graduate instruction.

"This idea can only be materialized successfully by a realization on the part of the alumni that they must know the university. To that end they must get their facts from the proper authorities."

Modern Parents Set Children Bad Example, Hugh Magill Asserts

Modern parents are more careless in their conduct than were their parents and grandparents while modern youth compares favorably with preceding generations. This was the statement of Hugh S. Magill, general secretary of the International Council of Religious Education, yesterday, before 2,000 representatives of 40 denominations in the Hotel Sherman.

Mr. Magill ran in the Republican primaries a few years ago against Frank Smith, who was elected to the United States senate, but not allowed to take a seat, speaking yesterday, he was inclined to blame the shortcomings of the young folk on their parents, saying that "when youth is tempted it is usually by the example of adults."

One of the council's projects is the modernization of the Sunday school by applying the latest approved educational methods of child psychologists in religious instruction, Mr. Magill said. He urged the same strict training for Sunday school teachers as for those in the public schools.

Another speaker was Paul H. Veith of Chicago, superintendent of education for the council. He said an increased willingness to work together is breaking down denominational prejudice among Protestant churches, largely due to economic conditions, which lead churches in almost any community to pool their resources.

"The radio, better transportation, the fact that more people are reading these days, and learning the value of an attitude of give and take in their daily lives, are factors that lead them to work together in religion by agreeing on moral standards, even when they disagree on theology," he said.

SOMETHING OUGHT TO BE DONE ABOUT THIS

Schelling Uses Baton for Own Moroccan Music

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Ernest Schelling, a distinguished American pianist and composer, was the guest artist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra yesterday afternoon. Appearing first as soloist, he played the piano part of Paderewski's "Polish Fantasie." Then, at the end of the program, Mr. Stock turned the baton over to him for the direction of his own symphonic poem, which he calls "Morocco."

It was easy to see, or rather to hear, that Mr. Schelling was at one time a pupil of Paderewski. It was equally easy to observe that Paderewski at the time he wrote the "Polish Fantasie" was a pupil—in spirit if not in the flesh—of Liszt and Paganini. Themes which might under gentler treatment have served admirably in light opera, are exalted, dressed up, bejewelled, and then ushered in as portentously as though they were considerably more important than they actually turn out to be. As a matter of fact Mr. Schelling made the piece sound considerably more important than examination proves it, which is the highest possible testimonial to his brilliant authority as a pianist.

In "Morocco" he got quite a bit closer to the present day. About three years ago he made a trip to the African desert and Morocco picked up some themes, or, as he says, he tried to get the spirit of them, wrote them into this work, lost the manuscript, and wrote another. This performance of yesterday was its first hearing in Chicago. In at least one of the themes his transcription would seem to have been accurate, for it is close to one that Gustav Holst uses in his work of similar purport, "Beni Mora."

It is no small job that a composer sets himself when he undertakes to reproduce oriental music. In the first place the themes in their very nature are a long ways from according with occidental ways of thinking. Next they are put in form for modern orchestra, instruments which reproduce only approximately the tone color of the native instruments, and their intonation and fractional intervals even less. Finally, harmony, even the most bizarre harmony, is out of place in oriental music, which uses none.

There was a lot of spirit and color in Mr. Schelling's composition, and occasionally a bit that was soothing even to an occidental ear. But the impulse of this department is to give a higher rating to some of his other work, his "Fantastic Suite," his "Impressions from an Artist's Life," his "Victory Ball."

Mr. Stock's part of the program consisted of three numbers, Henry Hadley's "In Bohemia" overture, Enesco's Suite in C, and the Haydn-Brahms Variations, in which last the feeling still persists that the theme is better than the variations, considered as music, but which was the opportunity for a magnificent performance by the orchestra.

What Tea Does Society Serve?

HAVE you ever wondered, after reading the account of one of Society's afternoon teas, attended by the "Who's Who," what kind of tea was served? How much that tea costs, $5.00 or $10.00 a pound? Where that tea can be purchased... and a host of other questions?

With all the teas of the world to choose from, Society, almost invariably, serves the TEA of all teas... INDIA TEA. No tea-producing country has ever matched the incomparable tea of India... land of romance... land of sunshine and adventure... land of the finest flavored tea the whole world knows.

Although India Tea yields a wealth of flavor... deep and delectable... and is a luxury to taste, it need never cost you a penny more than the price you now pay for ordinary tea. Isn't that good news? Where can you get it, you ask?

This mark is the emblem of the Tea Growers of India.

Knitting BritishPrince, Holdups Are Student Art Show Features

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

There is an amusing exhibit of drawings by students of the second and fourth year in the lobby of the Art institute school. One subject posed was a conversation with three participants and various embryo artists have imagined it as taking place over a wash tub; on a street corner, with an ear trumpet and bending lamppost interested factors; in a carriage; and again on a corner, but in this case the conversation is between three belligerent workmen and looks more like an argument with fists in the background than like a friendly conference.

His Royal Highness, the prince of Wales, is shown in a clever sketch by Eunice Grubb, knitting a tie. Various supercilious flunkeys undertake to keep the balls of silk thread in order. Robbery is the theme of other drawings and the holdups range from the thug stealing his mother's purse from a howling infant seated in a perambulator, to a graceful Grecian athlete, minus all clothing, emptying the cash box with one hand and with other pointing a gun at the pretty heads of two maidens equally innocent of covering.

E. Lindgren portrays a haughty ski champion and John J. Powell is most amusing in his fire movie, "Save the Baby." Norman Zimmermann has a homely bit of humor in the peasant woman showing her scarf to an astounded pair of gardeners, fresh from the planting of turnips and cabbages.

In brief, honors may be said to be shared between Eric Lingren, K. Tsuji, J. Powell Scott, John Alicott, Alene Gray Wharton, Lew Merrill, Lucile Ward, R. Delano, T. W. Leung, and Eunice Grubb.

Karl Ouren opens a one man show of his paintings today at the Palette and Chisel club and at Revell's in the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Art's special quarters, thirty-eight delightful canvases by Adam Emory Albright will be ready for inspection this afternoon.

The exhibition by the Typographic Arts society at the Newberry library will open on Feb. 24 as stated in the text of the announcement in yesterday's TRIBUNE and not Saturday as mistakenly stated in the headline.

WEDDING

Miss Marguerite Ott, daughter of Mrs. Erina Ott of West Englewood, N. J., whose engagement to Edward Irving Sachs of Evanston was announced recently, has chosen June 14 for her wedding day. The wedding will be a military ceremony to take place at the chapel at West Point, followed by a reception at the Thayer hotel.

Mr. Sachs is a member of the class of 1930 of the U. S. Military academy, and his graduation will take place but a few days before his wedding. The guests will include 240 lieutenants of the United States army, classmates of the groom.

Careful Blending of Rouge and Natural Coloring Is Advised

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A correspondent protests, and with laughable enough righteousness, at my suggestion to imitate the natural coloring when one is putting on rouge.

"In the memory of my generation," she says, "there ain't never been any natural coloring to guide us."

What does become of the rosy cheeks that youngsters have?

What becomes of the cheek color in the brief time between an immigrant's landing and her general adoption of American habits?

Maybe our climate steals the roses. Certainly something does, for the rarest sight in the world today is a young woman of 20 with ripe, natural coloring in her cheeks and lips.

So I suppose there are countless numbers who wouldn't know what paths natural color takes. And telling them to imitate natural coloring without telling them how they can raise a temporary one is an idle occupation. Even many American youngsters of 5, 6, and 7 already seem to suffer the natural color blight, except as it may be seen after periods of play.

However, though you may never have had any color that you can remember, you can slap your cheeks until you do get some bright, rich color into them. Then let this first coloring subside a little, as it would not be a true guide, either, in its first flushed state.

The commonest mistake in rouging is to rub the rouge on too thickly and too deeply, when dry rouge is used, especially, and when it is applied in circular motions. Natural coloring does not appear in circles. There are parts of the cheek always with natural coloring, which is really the thing that is meant when we advise imitation of the natural shade. The point to stress is that it be so skillfully blended that there be no definite marking where it merges into the skin. If you can imitate this blending you can qualify as a true makeup artist.

Norwegians of Chicago Dedicate Addition at Hospital Tomorrow

The Norwegian-American Hospital Foundation will dedicate the new additions to the hospital tomorrow at 3 p. m. The ceremony will be at the Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Tabitha church opposite the hospital. Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, U. S. surgeon general, in charge of the public health service, will speak. A reception will follow in the auditorium of the hospital, where the additions will be inspected.

The hospital is an endeavor of Norwegians to aid charity and welfare work. The movement started in 1885 with the organization of the Norwegian Lutheran Tabitha society in Chicago. In 1891 a two story frame house at 160 Humboldt street was bought for a hospital and deaconess home. This was destroyed by fire two years later and another hospital built.

The society became the Norwegian-American Hospital society in 1917. The hospital plant now comprises an entire block of connected buildings. The new building to be dedicated at Francisco and Thomas streets is 12 stories in height containing 130 rooms, 75 of which are private, has two operating rooms, and rest rooms for doctors and for nurses.

A trust estate was created last year under the name of the Norwegian-American Hospital Foundation with Claus O. Krabol as president.

There are two weddings today. Edith Louise Newcomet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Edgar Newcomet of 20 East Cedar street, and James Beach Clow, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Clow of the Ambassador, were married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Chrysostom's church.

Norwegians of Chicago Dedicate Addition to Hospital Tomorrow

The Norwegian-American Hospital foundation will dedicate the new addition to the hospital tomorrow at 2 p. m. The ceremony will be at the Danish Evangelical Lutheran Trinity church opposite the hospital. Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, U. S. surgeon general, in charge of the public health service, will speak. A reception will follow in the auditorium of the hospital, at which the additions will be inspected.

The hospital is an endeavor of Norwegians to aid charity and welfare work. The movement started in 1885 with the organization of the Norwegian Lutheran Tabitha society of Chicago. "In 1891 a two story frame house at 160 Humboldt street was bought for a hospital and deaconess home. This was destroyed by fire two years later and another hospital built. The society became the Norwegian-American Hospital society in 1917. The hospital plant now comprises an entire block of connected buildings. The new building to be dedicated at Francisco and Thomas streets is nine stories in height containing 130 rooms, each of which are private, has three operating rooms, and rest rooms for doctors and for nurses.

BY THALIA

Since her advent in Chicago Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins has been so busy playing successfully the rôle of wife to the new president of the University of Chicago that she has little or no time to devote to her sculpture. She now feels that she can resume her artistic pursuits. An exhibition of 15 portrait busts, all of them completed before she came west, is to be opened with a tea next Friday afternoon at the Chester Johnson galleries. Naturally, the occasion will be of social interest. There will doubtless be a steady stream of motors from Orchestra hall after the symphony concert southward, its occupants eager to see Mrs. Hutchins' work. Those who have seen examples of it proclaim it to possess beautiful technique. She plans to establish a studio and go seriously to work in the near future, so her next exhibition will probably include representations of well known Chicagoans.

There are two weddings today. Miss Edith Louise Newcomet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Edgar Newcomet of 20 East Cedar street, and James Beach Clow, son of Mrs. James C. Clow of the Ambassador, are to be married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Chrysostom's church, with a reception at the Newcomet residence following.

Miss Newcomet's attendants will include her sister, Miss Marion Newcomet, as maid of honor, and as bridesmaids, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walborn W. Newcomet of Cleveland, O., Miss Roberta Harvey, Mrs. Harold H. Gade of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Ellwood Fisher, also of Cleveland. Elliott Donnelley is to be Mr. Clow's best man, and the ushers will include Prescott R. Taylor of Boston, W. S. K. Stage of New York City, Walborn W. Newcomet, and three Chicago men, Arthur D. Bissell, Alexander Knott, and Harris Wilder.

The out-of-town relatives who are here for the wedding include Dr. and Mrs. Will Newcomet of Philadelphia, and Arthur Worthington of Pittsburgh, and there are many other out-of-town guests. After a wedding trip to Egypt, Mr. Clow and his bride are to live in Chicago.

Miss Dorothy Reay's marriage to James Arthur Younglove, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Clute Younglove of Glencoe, is to take place at 8:30 o'clock this evening at the Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park. The wedding reception is to be at the Highland Park residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mason Reay.

Mrs. James A. Roberts Jr. is to be matron of honor for Miss Reay, and Miss Irvin Reay is the maid of honor. Miss Shirley Reay, Miss Jean Adams, Miss Virjean Richey, and Miss Nancy Reay are to be bridesmaids. Gilbert Younglove will be best man, and Edwin M. Ashcraft III., Robert Slater, Robert E. Smith Jr., Gilbert Robinson, and Roslyn Beatty are to usher. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Younglove will go to Bermuda for their honeymoon. They have taken an apartment in Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. Reay gave the wedding dinner at their residence last night.

Lake Forest academy's mid-winter festivities, sponsored by prominent Lake Foresters, are to take place next weekend. The program will include a concert by the musical clubs on Friday evening, followed by an informal dance in the academy gymnasium; a basketball game, presentation of "The Hottentot" by the Gargoyle club, and the mid-winter dance on Saturday.

The Arthur Meekers of 1100 Lake Shore drive leave early this morning for Santa Barbara, Cal., where they will this season see the start of building operations on their new residence.

SOCIETY AT PALM BEACH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Durbin of Chicago are arriving on Feb. 25 to be the house guests of Mrs. Joseph B. Long.

Mrs. Harry Shearson arrived in Palm Beach today and is the guest of Mrs. George McKinlock at "Casa Alejandro."

Mr. and Mrs. John Elliott Warner of Chicago, who have been at the Everglades club, have gone to Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr., who have been visiting in Orlando, Fla., have returned to Palm Beach and are the guests of Mrs. Pirie's mother, Mrs. Franklin P. Smith.

Many members of the winter colony dined and danced tonight at El Mirasol, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia.

MISS MARIE SARAH EVANS.
[Moffett Photo.]

William R. Evans announces the engagement of his sister, Miss Marie Sarah Evans, to John Miller Hawley, son of Mrs. Joseph R. Hawley of 4422 Oakenwald avenue. Miss Evans is secretary to the Rt. Rev. Sheldon M. Griswold, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Chicago.

All Heart Disease Relief Stamps Sold to Public

At the headquarters of the Chicago Heart association, 203 North Wabash avenue, not a single heart stamp of the millions of "Help Prevent Heart Disease" messengers made for the association in its annual drive for funds, was left.

"A growing awareness of the cardiac problem in Chicago is evidenced by the fact that the Heart association's call was answered this year by the largest number of individual contributors in its history," Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive secretary, said yesterday.

"Creation of interest in the problem of heart disease is one of the basic endeavors of the association. We can never get far with our plans of heart disease prevention unless a feeling of the importance of this work pervades the general public of all classes and ages."

Zeta Tau Alpha Party Will Aid Health Center

Miss Marian Marsh is chairman of the committee in charge of the Valentine bridge at the Medinah Athletic club this afternoon to be given by members of the Chicago alumnæ of Zeta Tau Alpha for the benefit of the health center in Currin valley, Va., maintained by their fraternity.

The Trinity High School Mothers' club will hold a benefit card party this evening. Mrs. Andrew O'Day, 640 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, is chairman.

Sorority's Card Party Today Helps Children

Miss Gertrude A. Hacker, president of the Alpha Beta chapter of Delta Sigma Pi sorority, is in charge of a card party to be held this afternoon at the Allerton club. Proceeds will benefit the Evangelical Home for Children at Bensenville, Ill.

Plans Red Cross Talk.

SOCIETY NOTES

Miss Mary Agnes Tilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arthur Tilt, 1500 Lake Shore drive, will be married today to Mr. Norman Bartlett Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Wright, with only immediate members of the two families present. The ceremony will be read at the home of the bride's parents by Dr. Edward Scribner Ames. Miss Tilt's sister, Mrs. Arthur Bissel, will be her only attendant, and Mr. James Franklin Oates Jr. will serve as best man for his brother-in-law.

Still another nuptial of interest here is the marriage of Miss Virginia La Chance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leandre La Chance of Chicago, to Albert W. Widdifield, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Widdifield of Charlevoix, Mich., to take place this noon at the La Chance winter place at Glendora, Cal. Mrs. Donald La Chance is to be matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and Kenneth Widdifield is to be best man for his brother. After a wedding trip to Coronado Beach, Cal., the bride and groom are to reside at 3500 Sheridan road.

Norwegians of Chicago Dedicate Additions at Hospital Tomorrow

The Norwegian-American Hospital Foundation will dedicate the new additions to the hospital tomorrow at 2 p. m. The ceremony will be at the Danish Evangelical Lutheran Trinity church opposite the hospital. Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, U. S. surgeon general, in charge of the public health service, will speak. A reception will follow in the additorium of the hospital, and the additions will be inspected.

The hospital is an endeavor by Norwegians to aid charity and welfare work. The movement started in 1885 with the organization of the Norwegian Lutheran Tabitha society of Chicago. In 1891 a two story frame house at 160 Humboldt street was bought for a hospital and deaconess home. This was destroyed by fire two years later and another hospital built. The society became the Norwegian American Hospital society in 1917. The hospital plant now comprises an entire block of connected buildings. The new building to be dedicated at Francisco and Thomas streets is five stories in height containing 130 rooms, 75 of which are private, has three operating rooms, and rest rooms for doctors and for nurses.

A trust estate was created last July 1 under the name of the Norwegian-American Hospital Foundation with Claus O. Krabol as president.

BY THALIA ——.

Since her advent in Chicago Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins has been so busy playing successfully the rôle of wife to the new president of the University of Chicago that she has little or no time to devote to her sculpture.

She now feels that she can resume her artistic pursuits. An exhibition of 15 portrait busts, all of them completed before she came west, is to be opened with a tea next Friday afternoon at the Chester Johnson galleries.

Naturally, the occasion will be of social interest. There will doubtless be a steady stream of motors from Orchestra hall after the symphony concert southward, its occupants eager to see Mrs. Hutchins' work. Those who have seen examples of it proclaim it to possess beautiful technique. She plans to establish a studio and go seriously to work in the near future, so her next exhibition will probably include representations of well known Chicagoans.

There are two weddings today. Miss Edith Louise Newcomet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Edgar Newcomet of 20 East Cedar street, and James Beach Clow, son of Mrs. James C. Clow of the Ambassador, are to be married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Chrysostom's church, with a reception at the Newcomet residence following.

Miss Newcomet's attendants will include her sister, Miss Marion Newcomet, as maid of honor, and as bridesmaids, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walborn W. Newcomet of Cleveland, O., Miss Roberta Harvey, Mrs. Harold H. Gade of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Ellwood Fisher, also of Cleveland. Elliott Donnelley is to be Mr. Clow's best man, and the ushers will include Prescott R. Taylor of Boston, W. S. K. Stage of New York City, Walborn W. Newcomet, and three Chicago men, Arthur D. Bissell, Alexander Knott, and Harris Wilder.

The out-of-town relatives who are here for the wedding include Dr. and Mrs. Will Newcomet of Philadelphia, and Arthur Worthington of Pittsburgh, and there are many other out-of-town guests. After a wedding trip to Egypt, Mr. Clow and his bride are to live in Chicago.

SOCIETY AT PALM BEACH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Durbin of Chicago are arriving on Feb. 25 to be the house guests of Mrs. Joseph B. Long.

Mrs. Harry Shearson arrived in Palm Beach today and is the guest of Mrs. George McKinlock at "Casa Alejandro."

Mr. and Mrs. John Elliott Warner of Chicago, who have been at the Everglades club, have gone to Miami.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr., who have been visiting in Orlando, Fla., have returned to Palm Beach and are the guests of Mrs. Pirie's mother, Mrs. Franklin P. Smith.

Many members of the winter colony dined and danced tonight at El Mirasol, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia.

Miss Dorothy Reay's marriage to James Arthur Younglove, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Clute Younglove of Glencoe, is to take place at 8:30 o'clock this evening at the Trinity Episcopal church in Highland Park. The wedding reception is to be at the Highland Park residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Mason Reay.

Mrs. James A. Roberts Jr. is to be matron of honor for Miss Reay, and Miss Irvin Reay is the maid of honor. Miss Shirley Reay, Miss Jean Adams, Miss Virjean Richey, and Miss Nancy Reay are to be bridesmaids. Gilbert Younglove will be best man, and Edwin M. Ashcraft III., Robert Slater, Robert E. Smith Jr., Gilbert Robinson, and Roslyn Beatty are to usher. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Younglove will go to Bermuda for their honeymoon. They have taken an apartment in Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. Reay gave the wedding dinner at their residence last night.

Lake Forest academy's mid-winter festivities, sponsored by prominent Lake Foresters, are to take place next weekend. The program will include a concert by the musical clubs on Friday evening, followed by an informal dance in the academy gymnasium; a basketball game, presentation of "The Hottentot" by the Gargoyle club, and the mid-winter dance on Saturday.

The Arthur Meekers of 1100 Lake Shore drive leave early this morning for Santa Barbara, Cal., where they will this season see the start of building operations on their new residence.

All Heart Disease Relief Stamps Sold to Public

At the headquarters of the Chicago Heart association, 203 North Wabash avenue, not a single heart stamp of the millions of "Help Prevent Heart Disease" messengers made for the association in its annual drive for funds, was left.

"A growing awareness of the cardiac problem in Chicago is evidenced by the fact that the Heart association's call was answered this year by the largest number of individual contributors in its history," Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive secretary, said yesterday.

"Creation of interest in the problem of heart disease is one of the basic endeavors of the association. We can never get far with our plans of heart disease prevention unless a feeling of the importance of this work pervades the general public of all classes and ages."

Plans Red Cross Talk.

SOCIETY NOTES

Miss Mary Agnes Tilt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arthur Tilt, 1500 Lake Shore drive, will be married today to Mr. Norman Bartlett Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Wright, with only immediate members of the two families present. The ceremony will be read at the home of the bride's parents by Dr. Edward Scribner Ames. Miss Tilt's sister, Mrs. Arthur Bissel, will be her only attendant, and Mr. James Franklin Oates, Jr. will serve as best man for his brother-in-law.

Still another nuptial of interest here is the marriage of Miss Virginia La Chance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leandre La Chance of Chicago, to Albert W. Widdifield, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Widdifield of Charlevoix, Mich., to take place this noon at the La Chance winter place at Glendora, Cal. Mrs. Donald La Chance, is to be matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and Kenneth Widdifield is to be best man for his brother. After a wedding trip to Coronado Beach, Cal., the bride and groom are to reside at 3500 Sheridan road.

Boy's Determination Is an Example to Many Grown-Ups

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

He was late in getting to bed, but at last his mother left him, snuggled down with a final tuck in the right place, and the windows open. The house was quiet and she had been reading for some time when "O, Jack!" she heard.

"Aren't you asleep yet?"

"I was just dropping off when I remembered that I forgot to do my French homework."

"O, well, tell Miss Giroud that you went to the dentist's and that we did not get home until dinner time." Wrong suggestion number one!

"That's no excuse. I could have done it instead of playing checkers after dinner. I'm going to get up and do it. I never have time in the morning."

"You can't get up now, John. I'll see that you have time in the morning."

Finally, he quieted down and went to sleep.

Morning came.

No leisurely progress toward the bathroom that morning, no stops to play with the pup or prance around in glee. He dressed with speed, washed likewise, and got out his lessons.

"Here's your fruit. Have your breakfast first."

"All right—but don't give me anything but cereal. I haven't got time."

"Yes, you have. I want you to eat your regular breakfast."

Signs of impatience, which increased at the insistence.

"I'm going to get that French homework done and I won't have time for anything but cereal. Look—it's all this."

He showed a full half page of translation.

"Well," thought his mother, "he'll never get it done. But I won't say so."

Cereal swallowed, he started in.

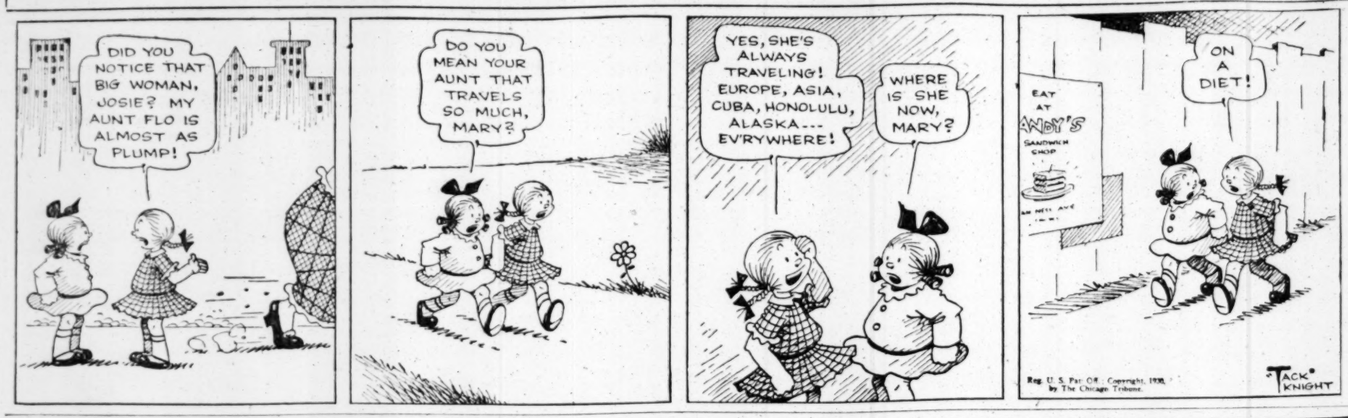
His mother hovered about and she brought a little red French dictionary, thinking of his lateness and almost no breakfast and hoping he'd have time for some bacon, at least.

"Mother—please—let me alone! I'm going to do this homework, myself. You're driving me crazy."

"Well, then," said his mother to me, "I came to—though I must say my own opinion of myself as an intelligent mother dropped about fifty points. Here he was—so honest he wouldn't make excuses because he could have done it after dinner. So determined that he'd go without his breakfast to save time. So independent that he refused help. And I did not have sense enough to let him alone. Well, I suppose we all have our 'dumb' moments," she said.

(Copyright, 1930, By The Chicago Tribune.)

LITTLE FOLKS—AWAY FROM THE TABLE—BY "TACK" KNIGHT



Painful Business of Broken Engagement Needs Lots of Tact

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It would be rather disconcerting to have your Eddie come around one evening and propose to you and when you were all set in your mind for white satin and orange blossoms have him call around a couple of weeks later and explain that the proposal was all a mistake.

I wouldn't like it, either, if I were Eddie's May, any more than she does. Only I'd begin to suspect there was more behind it than the story about Eddie having to wait until his maw dies before he can marry. That would seem too preposterous in the face of the fact that Eddie has an excellent job and mamma has enough of an allowance to live on, and maw has other children of bread winning ages. Especially if Eddie had told you a dozen times or more that his may adored you.

It would just seem to me that mamma was not the woman in the case. There must be another hidden in the city somewhere. Not even a terrible fright at the idea of becoming a benedict would explain away the change in plan. It takes more than the nervous dread of becoming a husband, which some men honestly do suffer, to keep them from going through with it, once they've dated the girl for marriage. That more is sure to be another girl.

It's sad and it is tragic that women are sometimes left weeping in sight of the church. But what can be done about it if the intended groom has suffered a change of heart? Hearts are not always as steadfast as they should be. The blame may be no one's—not the rejected girl's, nor the new one's, nor the man's.

Men might be braver when they have bad news to break to the girl who thought she was the Only One. They are not, usually. They're afraid of hysterics and breach of promise suits, and the other defences raised or threatened. They might, at least, leave the girl with some feeling of self-respect. They might let it appear that the girl chose to change the plans.

It's a painful business, at best, and for both—but if it has to be done it might be done without the cowardice that so often marks such episodes.

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Laver.

Some people have called the edible sea mosses a vegetable muscle. It is an interesting thing that people living on a very narrow diet discovered the edible and practical qualities in these mosses. The Irish moss carrageen is more a medium, in a sense, taking the place of gelatin.

In Kettner's "Book of the Table" there is the following highly interesting description of laver: "Many an old fashioned English gentleman will be glad to see laver mentioned here and to be reminded of its excellence with roast mutton. It used to be common enough in London; now it is scarce, though there are clubs in Pall Mall and private families that never fail having it. That it should fall into neglect is one of the unfortunate results of modern civilization, which produces uniformity of fashion—the same cookery and the same dishes all over the world.

"It is a great boast for the French cooks that they have spread their system everywhere, and no doubt they deserve their success; but it has been one of the misfortunes attending upon their success that it has cast into the shade, and sometimes into utter oblivion, good things which happen to be unknown to the French system. This laver is an example. The French know it not—and for that matter indeed they are far behind England and Holland in their knowledge of all marine products.

"When French cookery took form there were no railways, and the great metropolis of cooks was too far away from the seaboard to enable them to do justice to sea fish. England, being nearly all seaboard, was in a much better position to pronounce upon the way in which salt water fish should be cooked. And here upon their seaboard the English can get any quantity of laver; on the coast of Scotland there is delicious dulse; in Ireland there is a carrageen or Irish moss. These and other seaweeds that might be named are wonderfully nutritious, are full of fine flavor, and are to be had for the gathering.

"If the French cooks had made their mark in England, would they have let the laver fall into disuse? They would have made it as famous as the truffles of Perigord. There is a charm about the weed which ought to have kept it in the front as one of the distinctions of English cookery. To prepare the laver, steep it in water to reduce the salt. Sometimes a little carbonate of soda is added to take away bitterness. It is then stewed in water till it becomes tender, and can be worked like spinach with broth or milk or with a pat of butter and a squeeze or two of lemon juice."

Renaissance Inspired Lanvin's Picture Frock

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Individuality is one of the significant signs of our new fashion times. After the years of dressing down to type, enforced by the economic and social stricture of the war, smart women in Paris are gladly blossoming into different clothes. For it is again supremely chic to be different—always provided your difference be governed by discretion! Discretion is one of the great chic secrets of the French woman and it is one of the reasons she has held so long the fashionable leadership of the world.

Guided by this infallible counselor, smart women in Paris carefully avoid wearing costumes that might make them too conspicuous in public places. They select the more conventional ensembles of their wardrobe for those social occasions for which the restaurant, the theater, or the public ballroom form the background.

A little more leeway is permissible for large gatherings, even though mixed, which are held in the houses of friends. For these, more gorgeous materials, more amply trailing folds, more important jewels may be worn. But it is in her own home that the chic Parisienne really dares to be herself. In this, her stronghold, where she alone dictates the tone of the assemblage, she may accentuate her personality to the limit.

The early renaissance inspired Jeanne Lanvin to create this picture frock. Its simplicity of conception and the richness of materials make it equally suitable for the intimate dinner or the formal evening reception chez soi. Warm, transparent orange velvet is strikingly combined with the moonlight glitter of silver cloth. A shaped piece of the silver cloth outlines the décolleté, branches into two narrow insets encircling the fitted waist and continues in a narrow front panel to the bottom of the skirt.

The full skirt of orange velvet, cut circular and gathered at the waist as well, is ankle length in front and trails slightly on the floor in back. Orange velvet forms the fitted bodice and the upper half of the sleeves. The trailing lower sleeves are of orange chiffon, a shade lighter than the velvet.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Beneath my window in a large apartment building is a sand box for the children. A few days ago a lady was passing with her small son. He spied the box and wanted to play in it, but his mother told him that it was just for the little boys who lived in the building; that other little boys didn't play there.

"Well, I fink they does—when their mussers isn't along," was his ready reply.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The bodice of this chic new frock is cleverly molded, and a definitely new treatment is shown in the flared skirt fullness. The front extends into a band that reaches to the neckline, giving the figure charming length. Horizontal tucks nip the front waistline, while the softly plaited neckline and sleeve ruffles make it lean definitely towards feminity. Printed silk crêpe with chiffon for the plaited ruffles will be smart.

The pattern, No. 3253, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with 1½ yards of plaiting and 2¾ yards of binding.

INDIA UNITES FOR BLOODLESS WAR OF INDEPENDENCE

Forges Method to Shake Off British Yoke.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLAHABAD, India, Feb. 14.—Plans for carrying on a civil disobedience campaign, in order to obtain Indian independence, were reported to have been agreed upon today at a meeting of the working committee of the Indian national congress. This committee has been empowered by the main body to carry on the campaign.

Three plans have been submitted to Pundit Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the congress. It is expected that one plan, a combination of these three plans, will be decided upon this week-end, and the time fixed for the beginning of the campaign.

Plan Tax Refusal.

Plan number one was introduced by Vallabhbhai Patel, brother of President V. G. Patel, who led the no tax campaign at Baroli last year. His plan suggests that a similar policy be started in the Kaira district. This spot was chosen because Mahatma Ghandi's national university is located nearby in Ahmadebad, and 150 students there have been trained for organization work in the native villages. Mr. Ghandi's influence is predominant in this region and he hopes to keep the campaign nonviolent.

The second plan is for uniting the tenant agricultural sections of the United Provinces against the "talugdars"—landlords who are making common cause with the government. The idea is for the peasants to cancel the claims of the landlords, and refuse to pay the revenue on crops to the owners of the land, but to continue to occupy the land.

The third plan submitted suggests a picketing campaign in Bombay and in Madras, to be directed in the former city against foreign cloth, and in the latter city against liquor shops.

It is understood that three other plans were proposed, but it is generally believed that the course of action that will be adopted will be along the lines of these three schemes.

Have $1,250,000 Fund.

The congress working committee will appoint "councils of war" for each district and for each plan, if, as it seems likely, all three plans are adopted, for bringing simultaneous pressure against the government. Funds are to be provided by the central organization for the work of the councils. The campaign's treasure chest, including contributions, is held both by Mr. Ghandi and Pundit Nehru, and is believed to exceed $1,250,000.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Tell Me Again

Radio Brings Elmer Usual Friday Grist

Enjoys Pat Barnes' Talk on Composer Verdi.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

If any radio listener found anything like a large quantity of novelty entertainment last evening he had something up his sleeve that's not up mine.

I would have regretted missing Mr. Kelly's [Pat Barnes'] depicture of the life of Verdi, from W-G-N, 9 to 9:30. This feature was not only handled with a kindly respect for the composer that was admirable, but the relation of some of the sadder incidents of his life was touching.

And I would have regretted not hearing the selections played by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, 8:30 to 9 concert. For there was Schumann's "Whims," which some of us have known from childhood. And there was an "Intermezzo" by Arensky, a wholly unfamiliar number, I take it, for most of us, which for sprightliness is on the order of Korsakow's "The Flight of the Bumbie Bee."

I found considerable interest in the Capt. Kidd dramatic story by the W-G-N players, the 7:30 to 8 program.

On any night that's light I seem to particularly notice heavy, long-winded announcing. It may be that designers of programs having the weight of earnestness and consequence in them are too concerned in the matter to be projected than to hold out on the projection in order to thin them out with detail announcing.

ALUMINUM DUTY TOO HIGH NOW TO SUIT DEMOCRATS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—Notice that a drive would be started tomorrow by the Democrats to lower the existing aluminum tariffs was served in the senate today by Senator Thomas Walsh [Dem., Mont.], acting minority leader.

Walsh said he will propose an amendment at the outset tomorrow to reduce the present duties of 9 cents a pound on sheet, bar and coil aluminum and 5 cents a pound on the crude product to 3½ and 2 cents, respectively. The latter were the rates in the Underwood act of 1913.

Republican independents, who have joined with the Democrats in an attempt to keep industrial tariffs as near their present level as possible, are expected to line up generally for the aluminum reductions.

The senate completed action today on amendments to the earths, earthenware and glassware schedule. Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.] lost an attempt to restore the present rate of 1½ cents a pound on crystalline graphite, used in the manufacture of steel crucibles and pencils. The increase to 2 cents, previously approved, thus was left in the bill.

Senator Porter H. Dale [Rep., Vt.] was successful in sponsoring an amendment to increase from 15 to 25 per cent the existing levy on slate, while Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] had adopted an amendment to increase the duties on children's paints.

DUBOIS, IDAHO'S FIRST SENATOR, DIES AT CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Fred T. Dubois, member of the international joint commission with Canada and a former United States senator from Idaho, died at his home here today. He was 78 years of age. He had been confined to his home only about a week after contracting a severe cold.

FRED T. DUBOIS.

Mr. Dubois was born in Crawford county, Illinois, graduated from Yale university in 1872, was a delegate from Idaho in the Fiftieth and Fifty-first congresses, and was instrumental in obtaining admission of Idaho to statehood. Afterward he was the first senator from that state, serving from 1891 to 1897.

After his reelection to congress in 1901 as a Republicin he became a Democrat, and had charge of Champ Clark's campaign for the presidential nomination in 1912.

E. C. Langhenry, Veteran at Marshall Field's, Dies

Edwin C. Langhenry, who during the 60 years he was employed by Marshall Field & Co. was never tardy for work, died last evening at his home, 2911 Cullom avenue, after a brief illness. He would have observed his 74th birthday next Wednesday.

Before his illness Mr. Langhenry was in charge of all shipping in the wholesale department of Marshall Field & Co. His widow, Mrs. Vallie Langhenry, and a stepson survive him. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. next Tuesday from a chapel at 3176 North Clark street. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

Deaths of a Day

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—(AP)—Dr. Cornelius Harkins of this city, formerly superintendent of the Tuberculosis hospital at North Reading and an official of the National Soldiers' home at Parker Hill and of the veterans bureau at Washington, D. Miss Jeanne Ferguson, War Nurse, Is Buried

Miss Jeanne Ferguson, 65 years old, who served as a Red Cross nurse with the French army throughout the world war, was buried yesterday in the Lake Forest cemetery following services at the home of Mrs. Otis A. Skinner, 760 South Waveland avenue, Lake Forest, with whom she lived. Miss Ferguson was found dead in bed of heart disease on Wednesday. George McKinlock post of the American Legion sounded taps at the grave, Legionnaires acting as pallbearers.

FRED M. SUYDAM, 75 years old, a pioneer resident of Lake county and the first mail carrier in Libertyville, died yesterday in the Elizabeth Condell hospital of Libertyville, after an operation. Mr. Suydam was born at Diamond Lake, in the western part of Lake county. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, and one son. Funeral services will be held at his residence at 2 p. m. today.

DR. C. W. HANFORD, RADIUM THERAPY SPECIALIST, DIES

Dr. Charles W. Hanford, 60 years old, specialist in radium therapy and former consulting radium therapeutist at the Cook county hospital, died yesterday at Martinsville, Ind., after an illness of several months. Dr. Hanford, who lived at the Del Prado hotel, 18th street and Blackstone avenue, had gone to Martinsville on Thursday with his wife for a rest and was stricken shortly after his arrival there.

He was a native of the state of New York and a graduate of the University of the City of New York. He was the author of a number of treatises on the uses of radium and was a member of the Radiological Society of North America and of the Radium Society of America and a Mason. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ella Schultz Hanford. Funeral services will be held at Franklin, N. Y., his birthplace.

M. O'CONNOR, 29 YEARS A CHICAGO POLICEMAN, DIES

Michael O'Conner, a member of the Chicago police force for 29 years, died yesterday at his home at 4502 Dover street, after a stroke of apoplexy. He was 68 years old. O'Connor was the first president of the Patrolmen's Social, Athletic, and Efficiency club and was suspended by former Chief Charles Fitzmorris when he refused to disband the club on the chief's orders. He was reinstated later by the civil service commission, but resigned from the department in 1921. He is survived by his widow and two children.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eye with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

2 Years' Battle in U. S. Court Is Ended.

A verdict for $250,000 damages was awarded the Checker Cab Manufacturing company of New Jersey yesterday against the Checker Taxi company of Chicago by Federal Judge Wilkerson, ending a legal battle which has been waged in federal courts for two years.

The taxi company was charged with breach of contract in the original suit, which claimed $1?500,000 damages. According to attorneys for the New Jersey concern, the local company did not live up to an agreement to buy all its taxicabs from the Checker Cab Manufacturing company.

State Suit Still Pending.

During the long court battle a number of crossbills and intervening petitions for receivership against the local company were filed. All of these suits were dismissed by Judge Wilkerson yesterday.

One suit which grew out of the case is still pending. It was filed in the Cook county Circuit court by stockholders in the Checker Taxi company to recover $200,000 alleged to have been taken in graft by officials of the concern. Robert J. McLaughlin, Harry Gordon, Max Raifman, and Barney Mitchell, who was killed several days ago, are named in the suit.

According to Attorneys Daniel M. Healy, representing the taxi company, and James C. Byrne, counsel for the New Jersey corporation, yesterday's decree was agreed upon by the litigants. The two companies have entered into a new contract, they said, by which the taxi company will buy all its cabs from the New Jersey company for the next five years.

Judgment Used as Guarantee.

"The order for a judgment of $250,000 is intended merely to serve as a guarantee of good faith," Healy said, "and the plaintiff concern has agreed not to press collection of the judgment as long as the new contract is unbroken. The Checker Cab Manufacturing company has agreed to let the decree be set aside after the five year contract has expired."

Warfare between the two companies started in 1925, when attorneys for Samuel Markin, president of the Checker Manufacturing company, entered suit in Superior court for breach of contract. Later the suit was transferred to the federal court.

30 AIR LEADERS LEAVE TODAY FOR ST. LOUIS SHOW

Will Fly in Five Planes to Exposition.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Five Bellanca cabin planes with thirty Chicago air leaders aboard will fly from here to St. Lois today to be present at the opening of the annual international aeronautical exposition. The planes will rise from Pal-waukee airport near Wheeling at 11 o'clock, fly across Illinois and land at Lambert-St. Louis field.

Later this afternoon the Chicago aerial caravan will again go aloft over St. Louis to take part in an air parade of some 75 planes over the city officially opening the world air show. Lieut. James H. Doolittle will lead the parade. The ships, which will carry officials of the exposition and prominent men in the aircraft industry, will fly at three different levels, according to size of the planes.

Will Inspect Industries.

While in St. Louis the Chicagoans will inspect the airport development in the city which is now endeavoring to win air commerce in the central states from Chicago. Capt. Maxwell Corpening, secretary of the Chicago Air Race corporation, is acting as official host of the Chicago party.

J. L. Moss Jr., vice president of Pal-waukee airport, will lead the sky parade from Chicago and Pilots Gus Palmquist, William Burns, Clifford Condit, and Carl Vickery will fly the other ships. The planes will return to Chicago Sunday.

Those to Make Trip.

Others who will make the flight are David A. Carey, commander of the Aviation post of the American Legion; Leighton Rogers, representative of the department of commerce; S. H. Sinclair, secretary of the aviation committee, Chicago Association of Commerce; Chester Foust, president of the North Shore Flying club; Edward L. Bambrick, adjutant, and Henry W. Rubinkam, vice commander of the Legion aviation post; Robert Jennings and Morrow Krum of Pal-waukee airport, and Charles Dickinson, president of the Aero Club of Illinois.

WOMAN SEEKS GOVERNORSHIP OF CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, woman attorney and sister of United States Senator Samuel Shortridge, today declared herself in the Republican primary race for the governorship of California. Mrs. Foltz long has been a leader in women's politics and civic movements and has been identified with the progressive faction in her party, while her brother has always been regarded as a conservative.

She said today that her primary campaign appeal would be addressed primarily to woman voters. "I am for equal rights for men and women, with equal pay for equal work," she declared. "I'll run on a straight Republican ticket, however."

Mrs. Foltz will oppose Gov. C. C. Young and District Attorney Buron Fitts, the cleanup prosecutor of Los Angeles county.

Fitts is a political dry. Mrs. Foltz has been known as liberal, but made no public announcement as to her wet or dry views.

COUNTY G. O. P. RENTS OFFICES FOR CAMPAIGN

Chairman B. W. Snow of the Republican county central committee announced yesterday that he has rented campaign headquarters for his group on the bank floor of the Steuben Club building, Randolph and Wells streets. There will be a formal opening soon, probably next Monday.

Headquarters for the sanitary district ticket backed by President Elmore and his citizens' organization also will be opened on Monday. It will be on the fourth floor at 29 South La Salle street.

The Deneen organization already has opened new headquarters in the Madison-Clark building, where it occupies the entire fifth floor.

At a meeting of the directors of the Illinois Agricultural association yesterday it was announced that the association will make no political indorsements this year. President Earl C. Smith said that support will be given to the friends of agriculture, regardless of their party affiliations.

EXILED WAR LORD OF CHINA BRINGS WIFE NO. 25 HOME

Gives Riotous Feast to Bridal Party.

BY ST. CLAIR M'KELWAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 14.—Although his favorite pastime of banditry and massacre is temporarily interrupted by exile, Gen. Chang Tsung-Chang, deposed war lord of Shantung province, China, is carrying on his second best life occupation which is collecting wives. The scene of his latest conquest is the balmy and beautiful resort place of Beppu in southern Japan, on the island of Kiushiu, instead of his former palace in ancient Shantung.

Yesterday he brought the total of his legally married wives to 25 in a riotous wedding ceremony to a pretty Chinese maiden.

Slew 1,000 Himself.

Gen. Chang is a six foot four inch giant, strong as an ox, with enormous hands and feet and is known in China as the greatest murderer of all the Chinese war lords. A popular legend, which is probably true, is that he personally slaughtered 1,000 citizens in a captured town during one of his campaigns.

After an abortive attempt at fighting the Nationalists last March Gen. Chang fled to a quiet Japanese resort, bringing the majority of his official and unofficial harems. These are divided and classified, one composed of concubines not honored by legal ceremonies, while the other is composed of favorites he actually married.

Gen. Chang is said to be extremely jealous of every one, especially since the absence of military expeditions increases his leisure. Only last August he "accidentally" killed Hsien Kai-Su, a dashing member of the Manchu line who was the cousin of China's former boy emperor. The police later learned that the youth trifled with No. 18 in the unofficial harem. Not deeply interested in Chinese feuds, the police fined Gen. Chang $15 on a charge of criminal negligence.

Gives 53 Course Banquet.

Yesterday's ceremony, performed with traditional pomp, was followed by a huge banquet consisting of 53 courses including sharks' fins. Following an old custom Gen. Chang's personal initial course was a full tumbler of Hennessy brandy. The bride made only a brief appearance at the banquet as the actual wedding was a mere detail to Chang, who seemed more interested in the hilarities being successful for all concerned.

BRANDS BRITISH WAR ON 'GODLESS' RUSSIA TORY PLOT

London Paper Accuses Conservative Chiefs.

LONDON, Feb. 15 [Saturday].—(AP)—In a three column story displayed under big headlines the Labor Daily Herald this morning declared agitation in Great Britain against the reported religious persecution in Russia was "a gigantic Tory political plot."

The newspaper, which is in close touch with the Labor government, says that "there is intense concern among Labor members of parliament about this stunt."

It asserts that the agitation is being conducted by a special committee, including Lord Brentford, who as "Jix," or Sir William Joynson-Hicks, was home secretary in the Baldwin government, Lord Cushendon, and Lord Winterton. Both the last named are prominent Tories also.

Lists Lady Houston as Backer.

"Certain leaders in religion, whose good faith cannot be challenged, have unwittingly associated themselves with this plot," the Daily Herald adds, naming Lady Houston, widow of the shipping magnate, as one of the financial backers of the movement.

The campaign referred to by the Daily Herald was publicly initiated Feb. 12, when the archbishop of Canterbury and the archbishop of York, chief prelates of the Church of England, joined with Cardinal Bourne of the Roman Catholic church in denouncing the "persecution of Christians" by the soviet government. Several days previously Pope Pius had severely attacked such "persecution" in an encyclical.

Topic in Parliament.

The reports were brought up in parliament by Conservative members Feb. 13, Godfrey Locker-Lampson asking Foreign Secretary Henderson whether he would take immediate steps to bring the question of religious liberty in Russia before the league of nations.

Mr. Henderson replied that he had "grave doubts whether the course suggested by the right honorable gentlemen would promote the object he has in view."

SOX GET CATCHER; LEAVE FOR SAN ANTONIO TODAY

TRADE HOFFMAN AND CROUSE IN DEAL FOR RIDDLE

Indianapolis Youth Reports Monday.

Shires Waits Contract

PARIS, Tex., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Arthur Shires tonight had not received his contract from the Chicago White Sox, reported mailed to his home at Italy, Tex.

The fighting first baseman said he did not anticipate any disagreement over his salary for the coming season, and did not plan to be a holdout, but he let fall a gentle hint that he considers his services worth, at the least, $12,500.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Johnny Riddle, a young catcher not exactly known to fame, is going to try to make himself heard in a White Sox uniform. He became eligible for a set of Comiskey flannels yesterday when Manager Donie Bush, upon his arrival here preparatory for the camp getaway this noon, announced that a deal for the lad's services had been consummated with the Indianapolis club. Two Sox players and a unrevealed number or greenbacks were passed over to the Hoosier club to bind the bargain.

CLARENCE HOFFMAN.

The men who traveled down as Riddle moved upward were Buck Crouse, who has been catching south side pitchers for six years, and Outfielder Clarence Hoffman, who was a disappointment last season after his purchase for large money from the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league. Hoffman has not been completely abandoned, however. His release, unlike that of Crouse, was under option, so he is fairly certain to be back on the Comiskey roster next fall. Much of his failure last year was attributed to a series of injuries.

Cubs Sought Him.

Riddle is only 22 years old. It was his last season when he began to demonstrate his real worth with Indianapolis, but even this limited showing was enough to attract several big league clubs. One of the clubs interested in his advancement was the Cubs, whose scout reported Riddle a real prospect who might not reach the peak for another year. The Cubs would have tried to deal for him early this winter, but held off because of a belief that a catcher was going to be drafted from a National league club. This trade fell through.

Bush himself watched Riddle late last season and was impressed from the outset. What he likes most about the fellow is his pep. Then there is a throwing arm that few catching prospects possess. His hitting last season was in the neighborhood of .275, which isn't much, but Bush believes the kid will improve with the bat. His home is at Columbus, Ga., and he'll proceed from there to the San Antonio camp, arriving in time for the first workout Monday.

Shocked by Field Reports.

Bob Bush and Secretary Harry Grabiner were rudely shocked by reports that the field on which they expect to train at San Antonio was not ready. However, no action will be taken until they get down there and see for themselves.

A month ago a letter from the San Antonio club assured Grabiner that the St. Mary's college field was in excellent shape. Along with the letter came a photo showing a fine growth of grass in the outfield. Since then rains have drowned out the grass, according to reports.

The departure this morning will be on the Alton limited at 11:30. Besides Bush and Coach Mike Kelly, there will be only five athletic members in the party. The other battery candidates will report at camp tomorrow night or Monday morning.

Johnny Evers Jr. Seeks 2d Base Job at Georgetown U.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Johnny Evers Jr., son of the pivot member of the famous Tinker-to-Evers-Chance combination of the old Chicago Cubs, is the leading candidate for the second base job on the Georgetown university baseball team.

Young Evers, who is described as a quick, fast thinking fielder, is a sophomore and this will be his first year at the varsity. Last season he played the keystone sack for the freshmen. He is a good batter.

Evers is 18 and is taking a pre-legal course.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR Wake: Back in the "good old days, all Chicago hotels tried to surpass each other in entertaining on New Year's day. We'd start at the Grand Pacific, Clark and Jackson, with its fine free eats and drinks, work east on Jackson to Fred Hildreth's to get some of his famous Tom and Jerry, then to the Wellington at Jackson and Wabash where smiling Al Gage handed it out aplenty and then across the street to the Stratford.

It was then an easy jaunt to the Victoria on Michigan where Maitre de Bar Tom Murphy saw to it everyone was happy and full [of lunch]. The last glorious visit was at the Annex, now the Congress, where the chef made great fancy set pieces of meat and fowl and sugar and the hungry mob chortled as the chef carved 'em down to satisfy the composite appetite. And it was all free, free, free! "Halycon days," sez I.

Bill Sharp.

In 1862 there were three stockyards in Chicago. This was before they were consolidated. One was bounded by 16th street, Canal, 13th street, and the river. The principal hotel for these yards was called the Drovers at Canal and 16th.

Another yards was at the corner of 22d and Wentworth. The main hotel for this district was Ulech's at 22d and State. The other yards was near 25th on Cottage Grove, both sides of street. The hotel was the Merrick house corner of Cottage Grove and 24th street.

Fritz Crisler's acceptance of the proffered post of head football coach at Minnesota means University of Chicago athletics will suffer a distinct loss. Crisler not only is a capable sport leader but he is the type of chap in character and personality whom you would like to see develop your son if you sent him to college.

Crisler is not loquacious now nor was he when playing on Maroon teams. This story was brought back from Princeton, however, in 1921 when the Maroons unexpectedly upset the Tigers on the football field. Keck, Princeton tackle, was an all-American at the time. McGuire and Crisler, from his end position, were working on Keck and the Princeton star was not doing his reputation much good but, according to the story, was keeping a fire of conversation directed at the Maroons. Finally Crisler, in his slow manner of speech, replied to Keck, "Say, over there, you better attend to your playing and stop talking or they'll take you out and put Keck in."

NORTHWESTERN'S TANK MEN BREAK 2 RECORDS, TIE 1

Defeat Wisconsin, 47-28 —Win Polo Game.

Two national intercollegiate records were broken and one world record equaled by Northwestern university in defeating Wisconsin, 47 to 28, in a dual meet at Patten pool in Evanston last night. The Purple aquatic stars also bettered three Big Ten records, but these marks are not official, since they must be made in the conference meet.

N. U. Wins Seven Firsts.

Coach Tom Robinson's swimmers took seven of the eight first places, Wisconsin showing to advantage in the 40 yard swim by taking both first and second places.

Northwestern's 160 yard relay team, composed of Hinch, Wilson, Covede, and Schwartz, equaled the world record of 1:14, held by the C. A. A. This mark also shatters the national intercollegiate time of 1:14 4-10.

Schwartz Breaks Record.

Al Schwartz, captain of the Purple team, negotiated the 100 yard dash in :51 5-10, thus cracking his own national intercollegiate mark of :52. This time is :01 6-10 slower than Johnny Weissmuller's world record.

Don Peterson, also of Northwestern, bettered his own conference record for the 200 yard breast stroke when he splashed the distance in 2:36 8-10. His record for the event is 2:37 4-10.

Northwestern also won the water polo game, 14 to 0. Summaries:

160 YARD RELAY—Won by Northwestern [Wilson, Covedé, Hinch, and Schwartz]; Wisconsin, second. Time, 1:14 [equals world's record held by Chicago Athletic association].

220 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Peterson [N. U.]; Howlett [N. U.], second; Meyer [Wis.], third. Time, 2:36.8 [betters own conference record of 2:37.4].

40 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Chizek [Wis.]; Lange [Wis.], second; Covede [N. U.], third. Time, :19.4.

440 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Wilson [N. U.]; Winsey [Wis.], second; Tracey [N. U.], third. Time, 5:13.2.

150 YARD BACK STROKE—Won by Sinch [N. U.]; Boyer [N. U.], second; Von Mertitz [Wis.], third. Time, 1:41.5.

100 YARD FREE STYLE — Won by Schwartz [N. U.]; Davis [Wis.], second; Chizek [Wis.], third. Time, :51.5 [breaks own national collegiate record of :52].

FANCY DIVING—Won by Browning [N. U.], 89 points; Powell [Wis.], second, 84 points; Hayward [Wis.], third, 83 points.

MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Northwestern [Boyer, Howlett, Covede]; Wisconsin, second. Time, 3:14.1.

DeBaets and Beckman Lead Six Day Bike Race on Points

BULLETIN.

Early this morning Debaets and Beckman overtook Brocardo and Zucchetti by gaining two laps while Brocardo and Zucchetti were gaining one. This makes Debaets and Beckman and Brocardo and Zucchetti tied in mileage and laps, but Debaets and Beckman are leading by virtue of points.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Paul Brocardo and Alfonso Zucchetti last night topped off the speediest night's riding Chicago bicycle fans ever have seen by streaking around the pine oval at the Stadium to steal three laps in ten minutes and take the lead in the current edition of the six day race. The team's spectacular spurt was the high spot of a brilliant night. Bike fans rarely let out such a roar of approval as they did when it was announced the pair was leading the race by a lap.

Only One Spill During Night.

The team rankings shifted as rapidly as a pool favorite on the stock exchange, with 52 stolen laps passing under the whirling rubber tires in the four hours before midnight. A series of spectacular jams so tied up the standings that at one time Beckman and DeBaets were leading by two laps and only a little later they had only one lap advantage. Seven other teams were tied for second and all save one of the twelve were still in the race within three laps.

Not in total laps stolen was the night so unusual, though it brought the total to 299 for the week, but the number of starts in which the speedy field caught up the team jamming was exceptional. Perhaps the fact there was only one spill all night, and that a minor one, kept the riders going at a terrific pace, one jam hardly ending before some one else would go out for another.

Speedy Work Starts Early.

The race, which ends with an hour of sprinting at 11 o'clock tonight, is far from over, as four strong teams are tied for second place, only a lap behind the flying red devils. Two others are one lap more in arrears.

The jams started as early as 8 o'clock when Mike Rodak and Eddie Merkner, the two Chicago youngsters, and the two other kid teams began to pick up laps with a vengeance, but the real action of the night came after the sprints ended at 10:30. In fact, so closely did the teams become bunched that a suspicious person might have been forgiven for suspecting a "build up" for a good Saturday crowd.

De Baets started the jam that mussed up the beauty of the tied standings shortly after 11 o'clock and Reggie McNamara, who then was only a lap behind, took up the chase. Beckman and De Baets got away from the black shirted veterans, but Brocardo came on to catch up and with Zucchetti sailed around to a lap with him.

The riders had barely settled down when Deulberg picked a perfect spot for a start and got half a lap before the field woke up and in a minute had completed the circuit. De Baets tried to get away again and Walthour caught him, but Jimmy didn't stop and with Deulberg's help grabbed another lap and moved into a tie with De Baets and Beckman.

Then the little red devils started something, riding around the field with sensational speed to gain two laps, making it a triple tie for first. After less than five minutes the same pair got away and took undisputed possession of the lead.

WALKER BATTERS LOMSKI; WINS 10 ROUND DECISION

17,000 Watch Fight in Detroit Arena.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, advanced another notch toward the light heavyweight title by whipping Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., in a ten round bout at the Olympia arena tonight.

Forcing the fight from the start, Walker won nine rounds. The third was even. Although the middleweight champion conceded his rival ten pounds, weighing 163½ to Lomski's 173, Walker's blows were by far the more damaging, Lomski appearing to have no defense.

Lomski met the champion's attack in the opening rounds and although beaten to the punch time and again continued to wade in and take it. Walker's terrific head and body attack began to tell in the third, and from then on it was only a question of whether or not Lomski, the man who has never been knocked out, would survive the encounter.

17,000 Watch Fight.

Lomski made a whirlwind rally in the fourth but the Jersey terror soon calmed him down and opened an old wound over Lomski's left eye, cutting the left cheek also. The fifth round, which produced the most furious milling of the match, saw Lomski staggering to his corner, weary from the terrific beating he had absorbed.

A powerful left hook to the jaw almost floored Lomski just before the gong in the sixth. Lomski hung on desperately in the last three rounds and weathered a storm of leather in the final session when Walker, swinging like a windmill, plastered him at will.

A crowd of 17,000 saw the bout. The receipts exceeded $50,000, of which Walker received 37½ per cent.

HUDKINS BEATEN.

New York, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—The light heavyweight championship pretensions of Ace Hudkins were shattered tonight by the tireless punching of Maxie Rosenbloom, Harlem's eccentric pretender to the throne now occupied by Jimmy Slattery.

In a ten round bout, which drew 16,586 paid customers to Madison Square Garden and gross receipts of $55,530, Rosenbloom treated his rival to a thorough boxing lesson to win the decision.

CARNERA WINS IN FIRST.

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, huge Italian battler, knocked out Big Jim Sigman of South Carolina in the first round of their eight round bout here tonight.

The fight was as one-sided as have been all of Carnera's previous matches in this country. Sigman went down and out in 1:35 of the first round, after taking eight or nine heavy rights and lefts to the body and face. He landed only two blows, neither of sufficient force to hurt the mammoth Italian.

PACK FRONTON TO SEE THOSE K. O. BATTLES

South Section Meet Starts Monday.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The gold coast picked its team for THE TRIBUNE'S Golden Gloves tournament at the Fronton last night. Thirty-two boys, fighting lads who can slug and take it, survived the final round of the north side sectional tournament.

The team from along the North Shore line of Lake Michigan qualified before a record breaking sectional tournament crowd. There were 3,500 packed and jammed into the Fronton which has a seating capacity of 2,900. The other 600 were draped around the walls and occupied all standing room while more than a thousand who arrived late, were turned away. The lads who qualified hail from all points north, starting at the Municipal pier and exteading to the Wisconsin boundary line.

Fighting, More Fighting.

Most of the lads on the north side team are newcomers to the amateur boxing ranks. It was the first great amateur tournament ever held in that section. But from the way the tatlers punched each other into submission they are going to be pretty well known to Chicago boxing followers before the Golden Gloves are passed out.

There was fighting in every division except the flyweight. The little fellows qualified on the opening night. The final night's show went collegiate for a few minutes when Bob Miller, Northwestern athlete, jumped into the ring in the 160 pound class and handed a trimming to Gene Stanley, a member of Kid Howard's gymnasium team.

Miller wasn't in top condition or it might have been a sad night for Mr. Stanley. His right hand was injured and he couldn't slam it around like he wanted to. However, he scored a clean knockdown in the first round and led the rest of the way. The rooters from Northwestern became so noisy it looked for a time like they might sing "Go, you Northwestern."

Knockout Punch in First.

After Miller's victory there came a heavyweight struggle, the first time the big boys have clashed since the Chicago sectional meets opened. Joe Fett, a 218 pounder from the El Rocks A. C., squared away against Olds Ivery, a giant Negro. It was a terrific slugging match from the first tap of the bell. But it didn't last long. Just before the first round ended Fett sent one from his shoe tops which landed squarely on Ivery's chin. It was all over except the count of the referee.

Fett works in the paving department for the street car company. There's going to be a lot of fun when he hooks up with coal miners, butchers, brakemen, and teamsters from the four corners of Chicagoland.

The howling throng got every kind of flstic thrill. There was Paul Harris of Gray's Lake. He qualified in the 147 pound division when he scored his second knockout of the tournament. His victim was Alvin Koehm of the 122d field artillery. Harris is the lad who resembles the late Senator Bob La Follette of Wisconsin. He carries his haymaker in his left hand. He put Koehm to sleep in the second round and became one of the heroes of the north side audience.

Mullins Wins from Soder.

Then there was that slashing hitter from Highland Park—Mr. Melvin Moon Mullins. He climbed on up the ring in the 160 pound class and handed a trimming to Gene Stanley, a member of Kid Howard's gymnasium team.

These fighters will represent the north side in the finals of THE TRIBUNE tournament at the Coliseum, Feb. 25 to 28:

112 POUND CLASS.
Eddie Upgard, Belle Plaine A. C.; Jimmy Kerries, Central Northtown A. C.; L. Thompson, Dave Barry's gymnasium.

4 Big 10 Track Teams Clash at Evanston

Four Big Ten track teams—Chicago, Northwestern, Ohio and Wisconsin—meet tonight at Patten gymnasium in Evanston in the seventh annual quadrangular track and field games. Two other Purple teams also see action today, the basketball team meeting Wisconsin at Madison tonight and the wrestling team taking on Indiana at Patten gym this afternoon.

Chicago and Wisconsin loom as favorites to win the track games while Northwestern and Ohio, although possessing several stars of first rank, do not have sufficient all around strength. The Maroons, led by their star sprinter Norman Root, have the strongest track squad in recent years on the Midway.

Two national collegiate champions will be among the competitors tonight. George Simpson of Ohio, holder of the world's record for the 100 yard dash, is regarded as a favorite to win the 40 yard dash. Tom Warne of Northwestern, co-holder of both the Big Ten and national intercollegiate pole vault records, should show the way to other entrants in this event.

Considerable interest is attached to the mile and two mile relays, which will take the place of the quarter and half mile runs. Chicago is conceded a good chance of winning the former while the two mile relay should develop into a great fight with either of the four teams figuring as possible winners.

PIRATES REFUSE GRIMES' $25,000 SALARY DEMAND

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Burleigh Grimes, Pirate's spitball ace, today became one of 1930 baseball's firmest holdouts, when a second conference between the hurler and Vice President Sam Dreyfuss of the local club, proved fruitless.

Grimes is believed to be demanding a $25,000 salary. He indicated tonight that he will stand pat on this figure. It is understood the club has offered him $20,000.

"The club has given Grimes his best offer," Dreyfuss said after the conference. "The next move must come from him. No future conference is scheduled."

Yale's Rally in Last Half Beats Columbia Five, 30-29

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Yale won its second eastern intercollegiate basketball game tonight, defeating Columbia's league leading quintet, 30 to 29. Columbia had a lead of 16 to 12 at the half.

LANE HEAVIES AND ROOSEVELT LIGHTS BEATEN

Morgan Park Wins South Section Title.

Lane heavyweights and Roosevelt lightweights, leaders in their respective divisions of the north section, were upset in a meeting between the two schools on the Roosevelt floor yesterday. After the Lane lights had handed Roosevelt its first defeat on the home floor in three years, 22 to 20, Roosevelt heavies rallied to whip Lane, 27 to 24.

Les Bergbom's 13 points led the winning heavies, while Silver and Lang each contributed eight for Lane. Weiss scored five baskets to lend the Lane lights to victory. Heavyweight lineup:

LINDBLOM HEAVIES LOSE.

Benton Harbor, Mich., Feb. 14.—Led by Capt. Leonard Bishop, forward, who scored 13 points, Benton Harbor defeated Lindblom of Chicago here tonight, 25 to 20.

LAKE VIEW, SENN SPLIT.

Lake View and Senn divided a double header on the latter's floor yesterday, the visiting heavies winning, 27 to 24, while the Senn lights won, 24 to 17. Capt. Altman and Wherry featured the Lake View heavies' attack, while Bill Bohnsack starred for Senn.

SCHURZ DOUBLE VICTOR.

Schneider scored 12 points to lead Schurz heavyweights to an 18 to 17 victory over Walker on the latter's court yesterday. Steinbeck and Hughes starred for the losers. Capt. Bloedorn starred in the Schurz lights' 15 to 10 victory with 10 points.

CATHOLIC LEAGUE

Leo scored a double victory over St. Rita on the home floor last night, the heavies winning, 22 to 9, and the lights, 18 to 14. Podesta, Phillips, and Ryan featured the Leo attack, while Kelly scored five of St. Rita's total.

LOYOLA WINS PAIR.

Loyola lights and heavies were victorious over Weber last night on the latter's floor. The heavies won, 29 to 13, and the lights, 20 to 12. Holland and Ansten featured for the heavies.

ST. PATRICK WINS PAIR.

St. Patrick heavies and lights scored victories over St. George on the former's floor last night. The heavies won, 22 to 10, for their second victory, while the lights went into a tie for fourth place by taking a 20 to 16 decision. Griffin, McGinty and Asher starred for the St. Patrick heavies.

ST. MEL HEAVIES WIN.

The heavyweight quintet of St. Mel defeated St. Philip on the victors' court last night, 22 to 6. St. Mel lights succumbed before St. Philip's pooles, 19 to 12. It was the ninth consecutive triumph for the St. Philip lights. Storky Husfield, with 7 points, starred for the winners.

DE PAUL WINS TWO.

De Paul heavies defeated St. Michael, 19 to 16, in overtime last night on the latter's court. Fruhe of St. Michael tossed the ball into the net in the last few seconds of the regulation period to deadlock the score of 15 all. Bee and Huppert starred for De Paul, shooting baskets in the extra period to break up the tie. De Paul lights triumphed over St. Michael, 34 to 17.

DE LA SALLE TAKES PAIR.

De La Salle won a pair of games from St. Ignatius last night on the latter's floor. The heavies triumphed, 20 to 9, and the lights, 17 to 13. Ed Krause and Reardon divided scoring honors for the winning heavyweight team.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE

Evanston and Oak Park divided a double header on the Villagers' floor last night, the former's heavies winning, 17 to 15, and the Oak Park lights, 24 to 19. Capt. Goacher and Heaps led the Evanston heavies while Lovett, Cornwall and Gortt starred for Oak Park.

DOWNERS GROVE, GLENBARD.

Downers Grove and Glenbard of the West Suburban league divided a pair of games on the former's floor last night. Downers Grove heavies won 23 to 15, and the Glenbard lights triumphed, 26 to 21.

PROVISO WINS IN OVERTIME.

Proviso and New Trier of the Suburban league divided a pair of games at Winnetka last night. New Trier heavies won, 28 to 17. Four overtimes were required to decide the victor of the lightweight game. Young of Proviso scored a basket in the final extra period to win, 23 to 21. Paulson featured for the winning New Trier heavies.

WEST HIGH OF AURORA WINS.

West High of Aurora and Freeport divided a pair of games at Aurora last night. Aurora lights won, 23 to 13, and the Freeport heavies, 21 to 16. Capt. Brower of Aurora featured for the winning lights, scoring 9 points.

BLOOM, KANKAKEE SPLIT.

Bloom lights retained their lead in the south Suburban league by trimming Kankakee last night on the latter's court, 15 to 2. In the heavyweight tilt, Kankakee heavies defeated Bloom 18 to 14 in overtime.

MAINE WINS PAIR.

Maine lights and heavies triumphed over Rinaldi last night on the former's court. The heavies won, 28 to 22, and the lights, 13 to 10.

WHITE, PERLICK TO CLASH IN WINDUP OF DEMPSEY SHOW

Henry Perlick and Charley White will meet in the feature bout of Promoter Jack Dempsey's boxing show at the Coliseum next Friday night. The fight will mark White's return to the ring. Henry's twin brother Herman will clash with Emery Cabana in one of the three eight round bouts on the program. Another eight rounder brings together Al Greenfield of the west side and Midget Mike O'Dowd of Columbus O., while Bernie Peters and Harry Fierro, local bantamweights, clash in the third.

Purple Cagers Invade Badger Court Tonight

Purdue at Ohio.
Chicago at Indiana.
Minnesota at Illinois.
Northwestern at Wisconsin.

The second half of the Western conference basketball race gets under way tonight with four games, all of which may have a bearing on the championship. Each game is a match between a team still cherishing hopes of finishing high in the standing and a quintet now out of the running, but anxious to upset the leaders.

Of most interest will be the second contest between Wisconsin and Northwestern at Madison, for the Badgers have lost only one game out of five and that to the Purple. The Wildcats unexpectedly beat Wisconsin, 23 to 14, in the opening game of the season, but since then the Badgers have won four in succession, while Northwestern has won two more and lost four.

Purdue's undefeated quintet finishes the first half of its schedule with its fifth game tonight against Ohio State. Inasmuch as the Boilermakers romped over the Buckeyes, 60 to 14, at Lafayette a week ago, they should have little difficulty in making it five in succession.

Illinois and Indiana, which are tied with Michigan for third place in the standings with four won and two lost, play Minnesota and Chicago, respectively. The Illini are out for revenge for an unexpected defeat by the Gophers, 26 to 21, a week ago. Encouraged by their win over Northwestern and the fact that they are on their home floor tonight, they expect to reverse that score.

ILLINOIS SWIM TEAM DROWNS HOOSIERS, 56-19

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Winning first place in every event, the University of Illinois swimming team swamped Indiana university squad tonight, 56 to 19.

F. G. Bartholomew, Oak Park, swam the 150 yard back stroke in 1:48.2, establishing a new Illinois record. G. A. Webster, Des Plaines, also bettered his own Illinois record by swimming the 100 yard free style race in :56.2. Summaries:

200 YARD RELAY—Won by Illinois [Block, Kelding, Webster, Lockwood]. Time, 1:41.

200 YARD BREAST STROKE—Won by Holbrook [I.]; Schroeder [I.], second; Wright [Ind.], third. Time, 2:48.5.

100 YARD FREE STYLE—Won by Webster [I.]; Hodges [Ind.], second; Wagner [I.], third. Time, :56.2.

DIVING—Won by Marshall [I.]; Biedinger [Ind.], second; Alston [I.], third. Points, 88.6.

300 YARD MEDLEY—Won by Illinois [Stout, Cady, Williamson]; Indiana, second. Time, 3:28.

INTERSTATE TRAP SHOOT TOURNEY WON BY GRUBB

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 14.—(AP)—George Grubb of Wetmore, Kas., captured the national target handicap, feature event today in the 26th annual interstate trapshooting tournament here. Under difficult conditions, Grubb totaled 142 out of 150 targets from his handicap distance of 19 yards. E. F. Woodward of Houston, Tex., was second with 140.

Mark Arie of Champaign, Ill., won the national flyer handicap in a shoot-off with J. B. Troeh, Minot, N. D., and Frank Hughes, Chicago. They tied at 25 and Arie smashed 11 straight in the contest for the trophy.

Jack Shea Retains His Amateur Skate Crown

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Jack Shea of Lake Placid still is champion of the amateur speed skaters. He clinched the title to the crown for the second year here today by winning two of the final events in the North American amateur outdoor speed skating championships to run his score for the four day meet to 120 points, 40 points better than Irving Jaffee of New York City, who placed second. Ross Robinson of Toronto finished third with 70 points.

Les Canadiens Buy New Forward Line from Coast

MONTREAL, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens of the National hockey league have purchased an entire new forward line from the California hockey league, consisting of the two Giroux brothers and Alex [Bud] Cook, brother of the famous Bun and Bill Cook, wings of the New York Rangers. The new players will report next season.

LONGWOOD GIRLS WIN.

Longwood High school girls' basketball team defeated Visitation High school, 25 to 8, on the former's court yesterday.

DONOVAN LEADS NOTRE DAME TO DEFEAT BUTLER

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Superior floor work enabled Notre Dame to defeat Butler in basketball tonight, 28 to 20. Notre Dame led at the half, 9 to 8. Capt. Donovan of Notre Dame was high point man with 13, and also the mainstay for the Irish in the pinches. Both teams were unusually weak at the foul line. Score:

FORMER BADGER GRID STAR HELD FOR FUR THEFT

Ashland, Ky., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Joe Kreskey, guard on the Armco team here and former star on the University of Wisconsin grid team, was arrested here last night and is being held for the sheriff at Centerville, Mich., together with two companions, who gave their names as Peter Abraham and H. Green Rose.

A wire from the sheriff at Centerville said the three men are wanted for a fur robbery at Colon, Mich. They denied their guilt, but the police said they found three mink furs in the room occupied by Kreskey and Rose.

DePauw Drops Butler from Sports List

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—De Pauw university today severed athletic relations with Butler university, the break to take place immediately. The schools, formerly rivals in most varsity sports, had resumed relations last fall after a break in 1927.

The action of the De Pauw athletic committee followed a rather tense discussion of De Pauw's protest last week of Oral Hildebrand, captain and center of the Butler basketball team and at the time high point scorer in the Indiana conference. An affidavit obtained by Donovan [Tubby] Moffett, De Pauw basketball coach, was presented to Butler, alleging Hildebrand had pitched games for money last summer on the Brazil, Ind., baseball team. Butler declared Hildebrand ineligible.

Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, De Pauw president, today wrote to Dr. Robert J. Aley, Butler president, as follows:

"At a meeting of our athletic committee this afternoon, the committee in unanimous action requested me to notify you that, in view of the strained relationships that exist between De Pauw and Butler in the matter of athletics, De Pauw university has come to the conclusion that it should sever athletic relationships with Butler university, said severance to take effect at once."

MARSHALL FIELD TO LET PUBLIC SHARE STOCK

Company Will Offer $27,000,000 Issue.

BY O. A. MATHER.

After seventy years of existence, Marshall Field & Co., largest dry goods concern in the world, is changing from a closed to an open corporation. Within the next week and probably next Monday or Tuesday, this Chicago institution will make an offering of a portion of its common stock to the public.

The public offering will consist of approximately 540,000 common shares at $50 a share, or a total of $27,000,000, according to information in La Salle street last night. The Chicago curb exchange admitted this number of shares to trading on a "when issued" basis yesterday and around 10,000 shares were dealt in between 52¼ and 53. However, application to list 1,-000,000 common shares was presented to the Chicago stock exchange, and is expected to be approved within the next day or two.

It is understood the public offering will be made through a banking syndicate headed by Field, Glore & Co., and Lee, Higginson & Co., investment bankers. Neither concern, however, would give much information concerning the recapitalization of Marshall Field & Co. that is involved in the change to an open corporation. Evidently in preparation for the change, the directors of Marshall Field have announced several changes in officer personnel.

Makes Brief Statement.

The only official announcement concerning the offering of stock to the public was the following brief statement by Field, Glore & Co.:

"In connection with the listing on the Chicago Stock exchange of 1,400,-000 shares of Marshall Field & Co. common stock it is understood that the public will be accorded in the near future an opportunity for the first time to acquire a participating interest in this business. The purpose of this offering of a minority interest will be to reimburse the treasury for capital expenditures incidental to new acquisitions and construction, to simplify the company's capital structure, and to facilitate the progressive administration of its affairs."

Under the recapitalization plan Marshall Field & Co. will have outstanding $15,000,000 first mortgage 5 per cent bonds on the Merchandise Mart, about $14,875,000 of 4½ per cent debentures, approximately $31,200,000 preferred stock, and 1,400,000 shares of no par common stock. The old second preferred stock was retired out of earnings a year or two ago, while the class A and B common shares now have been converted into the no par common stock. It is understood the new common stock will be established on a $2.50 annual dividend basis.

Make Simpson Chairman.

The promotion of James Simpson from president to chairman of Marshall Field & Co. and that of John McKinlay from vice president to president were announced last night. David M. Yates becomes first vice president, while the other vice presidents are Frederick D. Corley, William G. Burt, and George W. Young. Thomas H. Eddy was elected secretary and treasurer and Ralph H. Perne was elected assistant secretary.

While the present deal marks the first time that the public has been permitted to buy stock in the company, Marshall Field & Co. sold its first securities publicly in September, 1911, when it marketed a $17,500,000 debenture issue, part of which has been retired since. Sale of the bonds accompanied the purchase of the retail store building from the Marshall Field estate, which was one of the largest real estate deals in Chicago's history.

Within the last two years Marshall Field & Co. has expanded both its wholesale and retail business by establishing stores in several suburbs and acquiring stores in middle west and Pacific coast cities. Completion of the big Merchandise Mart is a part of plans for further expanding the wholesale trade.

Armour Certificate Holders Get Full Voting Rights

Holders of Armour & Co. voting trust certificates, now numbering about 25,000 persons, will be entitled to full voting rights on Feb. 15, the date on which holders of the certificates will be able to exchange their holdings for actual stock. Ownership in the corporation after the exercise of the rights will be divided among 35,000 persons.

The certificates were issued when the late J. Ogden Armour retired from active management of the firm and represented his common stock holdings. Since that time the certificates have been traded in on the New York and the Chicago stock exchanges.

BUSINESS PERSONALS

W. C. Van Allen, formerly with the New York Central lines has been elected vice president of the Litchfield and Madison railroad, which is controlled by the Utilities Power and Light group.

W. D. Hanna, Burlington, Ia., and E. Dunn, Fairfield, Ia., have been added to the board of the Dexter company.

David F. Houston, former secretary of agriculture, has been elected a director of the Union Pacific railroad.

Installment Defaults Are Not Excessive

BY SCRUTATOR.

Current business conditions have not, apparently, caused any large repudiation of goods purchased on the installment plan.

In some lines, particularly those in which the unit value of the articles sold was small, there has undoubtedly been difficulty in making collections. On the other hand, the sales that have been made through the established finance companies are still being paid on at almost a normal rate.

C. C. Hanch, secretary of the National Association of Finance Companies, whose members handle four billions of deferred payment paper annually, states that defaults and repossessions of automobiles and other standard articles sold on time are less than 1 per cent above normal at present.

Change for Better.

"In November," said Mr. Hanch yesterday, "the volume of consumer financing fell off considerably. In December there was a change for the better. The necessity for repossession of property lessened and the amount of new business increased. It would be idle to deny that the falling off was larger than the normal seasonal slump. But January was better. The amount of property repossessed by our members as a whole was less than 1 per cent more than usual. And the volume of financing, although lower than January of 1929, was about the average of the last five years.

"There have, of course, been sections where defaults have been considerably larger. This is true of cities like Detroit, where dependence for income is so largely on one or two lines of manufacture. In Chicago it has been much better. In the country there has been little or no trouble of an unusual nature."

Employ Standard Terms.

It was not so many years ago that alarmists saw the country as likely to go into a spectacular financial disaster because too many persons were mortgaging future income to satisfy present wants. That the dire predictions failed to come true was due to a number of factors. A saner attitude toward the possibilities of repayment was taken by the finance companies; terms of a standard kind were worked out, and installment sales, while they have not fallen off in total volume, have seemingly gone down since 1925 in relation to total national income.

Automobile buyers are the largest users of consumer credit. In 1925, 65.5 per cent of all automobile sales, new and used, were financed on time payments. In the succeeding three years there was a fall in this percentage. More people paid cash for their cars. From 64.8 per cent in 1926 the figures on the financed motors fell to 60.8 per cent in 1927 and to 59.5 per cent in 1928. There was a change in the trend in 1929, when the on time percentage was 64. This was attributed to the heavy pressure for sales put on by manufacturers who were producing heavily.

Advantage to Seller.

The advantage to the seller of products that lend themselves to the system is marked. He gets the buyer to tie up his income in advance. The buyer carries the charges, which are naturally far above commercial bank rates. The buyer's advantages are indirect. Probably he has made it possible, by purchasing on time, to encourage mass production, which in turn has brought down the unit prices of goods like automobiles, with the final result that he has received more of a saying than the charges he pays to keep the system in existence.

It is unlikely that as much as 5 per cent of total national income is ever tied up in any form of installment credit. Yet the large majority of sales of furniture, pianos, and certain other goods, are made through this system. It is now so well understood that the losses are comparatively small.

CONSIDER DISSOLUTION OF AIR STOCKS, INC.; DIVIDENDS ON MARCH 7

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 14.—Dissolution of Air Stocks, Inc., is being considered, it was announced today. The company, sponsored by White, Weld & Co., deals in aeronautical securities. Liquidation dividends will be available by March 7, according to present expectations.

White Weld & Co., which is the controlling interest through possession of 47,076 shares of the 86,257 common shares outstanding, is of the opinion that the company should be liquidated by distribution of net assets to stockholders pro rata. The securities of the company are to be sold and distribution made in cash.

The first annual report for the period from Jan. 15, 1929 when the company begin operations, to Dec. 31, 1929, showed net income of $293,842, equal to $4.23 a share.

R. C. A.-VICTOR TO SPEND $7,500,000 FOR EXPANSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 14.—An expansion program involving the expenditure of more than $7,500,000 during 1930 is to be undertaken at once by the R. C. A.-Victor company, Edward E. Shumaker, president of the company, announced today. More than $5,500,000 of this sum will be spent for the construction of a new building and mechanical equipment which will be used for the manufacture of radio parts. The factory will occupy the entire square at Camden, with the exception of the plot now covered by the R. C. A.-Victor executive offices. In addition, $2,000,000 of equipment is being brought to Camden from the General Electric and Westinghouse plants for use in radio production in the R. C. A.-Victor plant.

Sell Temple Radio Corp. Assets for Second Time

For the second time within a week the assets of the Temple Radio corporation were sold at auction yesterday in United States District court. The price was $276,750. At the same time Federal Judge Lindley fined Addison Brown, former vice president of the bankrupt company, $1,000 for contempt of court for failure to make good on his bid of $310,000 made last week. A $2,000 bond which Brown had posted was also ordered forfeited. The firm of Tauber and Winternetz were the new buyers.

Rock Island to Raze 12th Street Grain Elevator

The Rock Island elevator, located on the Rock Island railroad at 12th street near the river, and which has been in use for 40 years or more, is to be razed to make room for expansion of railroad property. Straightening of the Chicago river has put the elevator inland and it is not in as convenient location as a result. The house is said to be filled with grain which will have to be removed within two months. Its capacity is 1,000,000 bushels.

Monroe Chemical Earns $2.54 a Share on Common

Monroe Chemical company reports net income for last year of $400,489 equal to $2.54 a share on the 116,173 shares of common stock outstanding. The figure includes income from 5 months operation of the Mary T. Goldman division which was acquired Aug. 1. Total assets as of Dec. 31 were listed at $1,867,253 and surplus at $562,221. President E. N. Monroe in his report described the outlook for 1930 as encouraging.

Chicago Stock Prices Uneven; Revive Rumor

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Sections of the Chicago stock list sagged yesterday and at the end of an irregular session prices were slightly lower.

A few good gains were made by comparatively obscure issues. Electric Household Utilities jumped to 47 on sales exceeding 8,000 shares and closed a point below its high for the day with a net gain of 4 points. Another stock which has been rather quiet recently, Great Lakes Aircraft, went to 6, a gain of 1½ on sales approximating 7,000 shares.

Utilities, particularly the Insull issues, continued active, with Central and Southwest the main center of interest. On sales of about 24,000 shares the issues climbed a major fraction to 30.

See Even Exchange Basis.

The heavy trading in the stock led to a revival of the venerable rumor which has been parading up and down La Salle street for months searching for verification that an exchange of shares between Middle West and Central and Southwest is being considered on a share for share basis. Middle West was less in demand than usual and finished unchanged.

Adams Royalty closed up more than two points and Addressograph advanced an even point. Yates Machine was up about a point, while McGraw Electric was moderately lower. Other changes among the specialities were mostly lower in a narrow range.

Greyhound corporation was initially traded in around 13, opening at that figure and dropping a fraction but retrieving the loss before the close. Automotives were dull. Auburn dropped and Allied Motor Industries climbing a fraction. Bendix and Borg Warner showed slight fluctuations.

Follow General Trend.

Investment stocks followed the general trend of the market. Insull Utility on sales of about 10,000 shares slipped less than a point.

The directors yesterday voted a quarterly stock dividend of 1½ per cent on the common stock. The dividend is payable April 15, on which date shareholders will also receive a similar which was previously voted out of 1929 earnings. Yesterday's dividend will be paid out of 1930 earnings. Holders of record March 31 are entitled to the dividends.

KROGER GROCERY EARNS $3.64 PER SHARE IN 1929

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Kroger Grocery and Baking company and subsidiaries reported today that net earnings for the year ending Dec. 31, 1929, amounted to $6,375,789, equal to $3.64 a share on 1,725,726 no par common shares.

These earnings compare with $5,-323,585, or $3.46 a share, on 1,534,612 shares in 1928. The number of stores in operation at the end of 1929 was 5,575, against 5,260 on Dec. 31, 1928, an increase of 315.

Super Maid Earnings Are $1,218,194, or $8.12 a Share

Net earnings of the Super Maid corporation and subsidiary firms for the year ended Dec. 31 was $1,218,194, equal to $8.12 a share on the 150,000 shares of common stock outstanding. In the previous year income was $1,-221,107, or $8.14 a share. As of Dec. 31 current assets were $2,356,809 against current liabilities of $801,197. At the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday the proposal to increase the capital stock to 200,000 shares was approved. President Roy W. Wilson stated that the additional stock will be used to pay stock dividends besides the cash payments.

Kansas City Reserve Bank Cuts Rediscount Rate to 4%

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—The federal reserve board announced today that the Federal Reserve bank of Kansas City had lowered its rediscount rate from 4½ per cent to 4 per cent on all classes of paper of all maturities, effective tomorrow.

Action of the Kansas City bank makes four federal reserve banks which have established a 4 per cent rediscount rate in the last ten days.

Childs Co. Reports Net Profits of $1,277,138

New York, Feb. 14.— (AP) —The Childs company reports for 1929 a net profit of $1,277,138, equivalent to $2.56 on each of the 362,320 shares outstanding. This compares with $1,002,425 in 1928. For the three months ending Dec. 31, 1929, the company reports a net profit equal to $1.37 a share on the common stock.

TRADE EMERGING FROM PERIOD OF DEPRESSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 14.—It appears that business and industry are working their way out of the trench of depression at last. The week's reviews published by Bradstreet and Dun & Co. strike an optimistic tone in pointing out that trade and industry are showing a general and widening trend toward improvement, although there still exists a certain amount of unevenness in the direction of betterment.

Steel continues as the beacon of recovery in industry, while modification of depression in the two great commodity markets—cotton and wheat—is to be counted among favorable circumstances.

Retail business has been aided by the weather, especially in the south, and wholesale trade, while showing less actual improvement, exhibited a more optimistic note, the report shows.

Notes Recovery.

"Three months after the culmination of last autumn's speculative collapse, considerable recovery has been made in certain channels from the deleterious effects of that severe disturbance," says Dun's review of the week.

"The unevenness of the business improvement, the lack of even approximate uniform gain, gives the general situation a decidedly variable aspect, yet recuperation is clearly under way. A gradual betterment, slowly widening in scope, marks the present trend, and this is more to be desired than a swift advance whose duration might be shortened by its rapidity.

"Adjustments in production and in prices are still to be completed, but the process is causing less unsettlement than had been apprehended in some quarters. The stronger tone of the stock market, well sustained in recent weeks, has contributed to the more cheerful feeling in commercial circles, while the passing of the monetary tension is regarded as being constructive in its bearing on the future of trade. Some of the statistical measurements, although comparing unfavorably with those of a year ago, are giving plainer signs of an upturn from the low point of December, with steel output leading."

Helped by Weather.

Bradstreet's Review says: "Trade and industry showed a steady and general trend toward improvement during the week, although in some instances the gains were very slight.

"Mild weather throughout the south and southwest and in much of the central, north and west furnished a stimulus to retail trade, which appeared to be only slightly below the level of a year ago. Women's clothing sold somewhat more freely whereas men's wear seemed to lag. Department stores in some areas continued to feature 'sales' of winter lines while in other sections spring goods were on display and moving fairly well.

"Wholesale business displayed less actual improvement, but there was a little more optimism in evidence than earlier in the year, the slowly rising level of employment and the partial recovery of prices for cotton and cereals from the low points touched in the preceding week being encouraging factors.

"In this connection its seems possible that the late date of Easter, which has been complained of as tending to retard purchasing by retailers, may prove to be an aid to business, in that wage earners will have more time to recover financially from the low ebb of midwinter and thus be able to buy more freely of spring clothing.

GULF STATES STEEL TO SPEND OVER $17,000,000

Gadsden, Ala., Feb. 14.—(AP)—W. H. Coverdale, president of the Gulf States Steel company, announced here today that between $17,000,000 and $20,000,000 would be spent in erecting new mills and enlarging others at Gadsden.

The announcement said the building program would include a $1,000,000 blooming mill, a plate mill to cost $2,000,000 and a $2,000,000 sheet mill. Other construction projects include additional steel furnaces, coke ovens and a power plant.

Reports 1929 Net Equal to $5.37 a Share

Recession appearing during the final quarter of 1929, due to a period of readjustment in industry and in the stock market, influenced a decline in earnings of the Stewart-Warner corporation. Net for the year was reported yesterday at $6,838,937, a drop of $913,595 from the record figure of $7,752,532 established in 1928.

Profits are equivalent to $5.37 a share on the 1,273,450 shares of common stock outstanding. This contrasts with $12.92 a share in 1928 on the 599,990 shares outstanding a year ago.

Surplus Grows.

Current assets were listed at $4,206,-404 and current liabilities, including reserve for corporation income taxes and stock dividends payable, are $2,771,661. Surplus is $17,933,247, showing a considerable increase over the $10,265,000 reported at the end of 1928. The company now has no outstanding obligations ahead of the common capital stock—no bank loans, preferred stock, or bonds.

"The recession appearing during the last quarter does not constitute a new experience," the annual report asserts. These periods or readjustment have been met at intervals in the past and may recur from time to time in the future. Basic fundamentals appear generally sound and indications of a gradual return to normal conditions are much in evidence."

Diversifies Output.

Originally a manufacturer of automobile accessories, Stewart-Warner has attained a wide diversification of output including radios, die castings, lubricating equipment, and miscellaneous hardware. The management commits itself to a program of increased advertising and sales activities during the present year.

During the year the company completed expension of the parent plant in Chicago and acquired a minority interest in the Alemite Products Company of Canada, Ltd.

Borg-Warner Subsidiary Gets Chicago Rolling Mills

Chicago Rolling Mills, Inc., has been acquired by the Borg-Warner corporation through the latter's subsidiary, the Galesburg Coulter Disc company. Preferred stock of Borg-Warner and a cash consideration were paid for the property, which consists of 17 acres of land, buildings, switch track and sidings, forge shop, and a power plant, located in West Pullman.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 14.—It was nip and tuck between bull and bear trading forces all day long on the stock exchange. There were times when it looked as if that long awaited reaction from the three weeks advance had at last set in. The line seemed to be giving way from one end to the other.

The constructive element always succeeded in rallying enough of their favorites, however, to forestall the rout and so held the main line. More than once they seemed on the verge of turning threatened defeat into a smashing victory.

Honors Are About Even.

The outcome was pretty much of a draw numerically, with gains and losses about evenly divided. To the bulls, however, must go the honors of the day. Certainly most of the larger gains were on their side. United States Steel, long rated as a reliable gauge of the market operations, closed with a gain of 4⅜ points at 189¼. Radio Corporation, Anaconda Copper, Consolidated Gas, New York Central, and various other so-called pivotals were numbered among those gaining from a fraction to more than 3 points. Eastman Kodak showed a gain of 12½. Western Union was up 2⅝ and Brooklyn Union Gas 8¾ points.

On the other hand there were such big tiniers as General Electric, Johns Manville, Chrysler, American and Foreign Power, Kennecott Copper, Columbia Gas, Columbian Carbon, Standard Oil of New Jersey, on the "off" side of the column. Case Threshing Machine, which has been conspicuously

OUTSTANDING FEATURES

1929 DISTRIBUTIONS—Corporate Trust Shares distributed $1.96⅔ in cash in the calendar year 1929, equal to more than 17% on the average price of the shares for the calendar year 1929.

17 YEAR DISTRIBUTION RECORD—Assuming Corporate Trust Shares in existence for period, historical record shows average distributions of $1.52½ per year, from 1913 to 1929 inclusive, equal to 14.7% on the average price of the shares for the period. Based on the January 1st, 1930, price of Corporate Trust Shares, the 17 year average annual distributions were equal to an average return of 17% per year.

RATING—Moody's composite rating "A." All of the underlying stocks are rated "A" or "Aa," except American Radiator & Standard Sanitary Corporation, which is rated "Baa."

RESERVE FUND—A Reserve Fund in cash is deposited with the Trustee to be drawn upon if semi-annual distributions fall below the minimum coupon rate of 35c semi-annually. While this Reserve Fund represents the largest single investment in the Corporate Trust Share portfolio, the investor receives the full benefit of interest earnings on this fund.

NON-SUBSTITUTION—No change may be made in the stock unit deposited with the Trustee, except in case of merger, consolidation, reorganization or sale of the property of any company, or its failure to make distributions.

MINIMUM COUPON RATE—Corporate Trust Shares bear semi-annual coupons, similar to a bond, calling for a minimum distribution of 70c per share per year, together with any extra distributions which may be payable at the time. This minimum coupon rate is amply protected by a cash Reserve Fund, interest on which is paid to holders of Corporate Trust Shares.

EXTRA DISTRIBUTIONS—In addition to the minimum coupon rate of 70c, Corporate Trust Share holders received extra distributions in 1929 amounting to $1.26⅔ per share. These extras were distributed as follows: 81⅓c extra per share on June 30th and 45⅓c extra per share on December 31st. Based on the historical record, these extras would have averaged 82c per share per year for the past 17 years.

OFFERING PRICE—The offering price of Corporate Trust Shares varies from day to day with the cost of the deposited stocks.

SERVICE CHARGE—The service charge on Corporate Trust Shares is 5% of the selling price plus usual brokerage commissions and a charge for issue and deposit. There are no year-after-year deductions from income for Trustee's fees, the initial charge being the only charge.

MARKETABILITY—(1) A national repurchase market is maintained by the sponsors and by a national group of banks and investment houses, and quotations on Corporate Trust Shares are published in the financial columns of leading newspapers throughout the country.

(2) The holder of a full unit of 2000 Corporate Trust Shares may at any time, without prior notice, surrender them to the Trustee and receive in exchange a unit of the deposited stocks, together with the accumulated distributions, the applicable Reserve Fund, and interest on the Reserve Fund to date of exchange.

(3) The holder of any smaller number of Corporate Trust Shares may at any time surrender them to the Trustee without prior notice and receive in exchange a sum in cash equal to the market value of the applicable portion of the deposited stocks, Reserve Fund, accumulated distributions, and interest on Reserve Fund, less a service charge of 50c per Corporate Trust Share.

LOAN VALUE—The above marketability features of Corporate Trust Shares gives them a high collateral loan value at banks.

SOURCE OF DISTRIBUTIONS—Semi-annual distributions on Corporate Trust Shares accrue from the following: (1) Cash dividends received by the Trustee from the underlying stocks, (2) Interest on Reserve Fund, (3) Proceeds of the sale of rights, stock dividends and extra shares received from split-ups.

INVESTOR RECEIVES EARNINGS ON ALL DEPOSITED PROPERTY—All property (both stocks and cash) deposited with the Trustee comprising the underlying portfolio provides an earning power for the holder of Corporate Trust Shares and no deductions of any nature are made from these earnings. Full interest earnings on the Reserve Fund are paid to Corporate Trust Share holders.

Receipts at Chicago today 300 cattle; 16,000 hogs, and 6,000 sheep.

Better grades of hogs sold freely at strong prices yesterday, while others finished top heavy and as much as 10@15c under the high point in midweek after urgent orders had been filled.

The extreme top and general average prices were unchanged at $11.35 and $10.80, respectively, and compare with $11.00 and $10.65 last Saturday. Small packers, city butchers and shippers bought readily during the forenoon, and with the late weakness in medium and heavy hogs bringing larger houses on the market, only 4,000 were left at the close.

Reverses Market Trend.

Yesterday's meager supply of 1,500 cattle changed hands at fully steady prices soon after the opening. Offerings included a fair showing of good steers, which is unusual for Friday. Forty-four yearlings, averaging 1,015 lbs, brought $14.60. Only occasional loads have sold above this mark all week.

Continued light receipts reversed the trend of the market a few days ago, and steers are closing 25@50c above a week ago. Cows and heifers were slow yesterday, but show the full gain compared with a week ago. Calves held steady at the week's 50@75c advance. Stockers and feeders were scarce and firm.

Lamb Market Stronger.

Sheep receipts were smaller yesterday and with top kinds scarce, strength was noted in many of yesterday's transactions. The clearance was earlier than usual, with local packers among the best buyers.

Choice light reached $11.90, while most light and handy weights sold at $11.00@11.75, and, medium and heavy at $9.50@10.50. Aged sheep were scarce and firm. Yearlings sold steadily. Country buyers took feeding lambs readily at fully steady prices.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 16,000 hogs, and 6,000 sheep, against 307 cattle, 10,944 hogs, and 4,888 sheep the previous Saturday, and 285 cattle, 23,405 hogs, and 4,639 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 50,000 to 88,000. J. M. Waters marked 88,000; F. Knutzen, 80,000; G. W. Chandler, 77,000; F. M. Sherwood, W. T. Reneker, R. B. RAILROAD NOTES

Freight Traffic Manager J. H. McCabe of the Santa Fe railway, announces a cut of twenty-four hours in the time of merchandise and car-load freight schedules between Chicago and Dallas, Cleburne, Temple and Fort Worth, Tex. This will give Chicago merchants third morning delivery to all these points and fourth morning delivery to Galveston and Houston.

The Rock Island has placed an order with the Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation for the construction of four steel parlor cars and ten steel coaches, for service out of Chicago, to cost $501,300.

Headquarters of the division superintendent and the chain agent of the Chicago Great Western railway will be transferred from Chicago to Oelwein, Ia., March 1, officers of the company were advised yesterday at Oelwein. No other changes are pending, so far as representatives here know. S. V. Rowland is superintendent and G. N. Riley is claim agent.

Authorization for the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway company to construct a six mile branch line in Washington county, Pa., was given by the interstate commerce commission yesterday. The line will extend from a point on the Pittsburgh and West Virginia's Connellsville extension, near its connection with the Donora Southern railroad near the Monongahela river. Estimated cost is $1,397,030.

The Canadian Pacific has ordered 250 refrigerator cars, 50 sleeping cars, three mail cars, five compartment car frames, two overnight sleeping car frames and fourteen parlor car frames from the Canadian Car and Foundry; 250 freight refrigerator cars, ten baggage cars, eight dining car frames, seven first class passenger car frames, thirteen smoking car frames from National Steel Car.

BEARS ATTACK BUT BATTLE OF STOCKS IS DRAW

Steel Is Under Accumulation, Closing Higher.

active of late, closed showing a loss of nearly 4 points. Peoples Gas was off 4¾. Auburn Auto, 4. Central Railroad of New Jersey 5, Goodrich 2, and Industrial Rayon 3 points.

By groups, the steel, tobacco, and chemical shares made the best showing. Public utility did fairly well. The rails were quiet and irregular, further recessions occurring among several of the higher priced issues. Merchandising issues were heavy and the oils, as usual, lagged with the rear guard.

Steel Is Day's Feature.

Steel was easily the feature of the day, the shares being under continual accumulation. The closing price of 184¾ represented a new high for the year. Many large blocks of the shares were turned over, several for 10,000 and 20,000 shares appearing on the tape. Buying of this kind, it was pointed out, could be coming only from the stronger banking interests. The belief prevailed that the demand foreshadowed an official announcement of more than passing interest to stockholders of the corporation—probably news of another split up.

New York Central also achieved a new top for the year, vieing with steel for market leadership during the afternoon trading. Pennsylvania, C. & O., and New Haven, also attracted a good following. Norfolk & Southern continued to feature the speculative rails, spurting more than 6 points at one time to new high levels, on its run.

United Fruit Is Weak.

Among the weak issues United Fruit agreed to a new 1929-30 low as liquidation of the stock continued following an unfavorable year. U. S. Freight also dragged. Chrysler's 1929 report showing earnings, of only $4.94 a share against $7.02 in 1928 influenced selling in the motor shares.

Merchandise and chain store shares suffered from reports of smaller returns for January as compared with the first month of last year. Woolworth sold off to a new low for the year and Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck touched new lows for the movement, although all three recovered somewhat in the later trading.

Bear operators continued their attacks on both Gillette and Simmons to the accompaniment of reports of declining sales and increased competition for the former and both broke sharply.

Midmonth financial transactions which took some money from the banks and the semi-weekly adjustment of reserves by the member banks were tightening factors in the short time money market, and call rate advanced to 4½ per cent after renewing at 4. No other changes in rates were reported.

FIND SUPPORT IS LACKING IN WHEAT MARKET

Closing Quotations Are 1 3-4@2 3-8c Lower.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in wheat yesterday and, while the local element and commission houses showed a disposition to avoid the selling side on the way down, there was a noticeable lack of aggressive support due to the pronounced weakness at Winnipeg.

Local prices were 1¾@2¾c lower, with March finishing at $1.16½@1.16⅝, and May, $1.21¼@1.21¾. Winnipeg broke 2⅞@3⅜c to within a fraction of the lowest figures of the season, while Liverpool was 1½@1¾d lower, a new low for the crop, with May delivery there only 5c over Chicago to the time it closed. Buenos Aires lost 1⅝@1¾c, and Rosario 1⅞@2c for the day.

At the last Winnipeg May was only 1½c over Chicago, the smallest difference so far, and compared with a premium of around 11c a few weeks ago. Argentine wheat was reported offered abroad at a price about 4c under what was asked for American No. 2 hard winter at the Atlantic seaboard, and in some quarters domestic grain was inclined to be about the highest of any country.

Claim British Buy Manitobas.

A Winnipeg report to the Modern Miller said it was claimed there that the British government had bought 10,000,000 bu Manitobas, and would ship it out in the spring from May 1 to May 10 at the transaction is confirmed, it will probably be the second largest individual trade in history. During the war the United States Grain corporation sold a pool of the British, French and Italian governments 100,000,000 bu in one lot. The report failed to have any influence on futures.

A bearish view of the domestic wheat situation is taken by the department of agriculture on the basis of the seeded area of winter wheat. If average abandonment occurs and there is an average yield per acre the crop would be 570,000,000 bu against 578,000,000 bu harvested last year, and would leave the country with another liberal exportable surplus. The spring wheat crop would also be in excess of domestic needs of 150,000,000 bu if an average yield is secured on the area that promises to be seeded.

Local and commission houses were on the selling side of wheat with stop loss orders uncovered on the way down, with a small rally from the bottom figures on buying against bids. Trade, however, failed to rally. There was no export demand of consequence at the seaboard with sales of 300,000 to 400,000 bu in all positions, mainly Manitobas.

Corn Market Weakens.

An increase in hedging pressure and scattered local and commission house selling carried corn prices off around a cent from yesterday's finish. Buying by several local professionals, presumably covering shorts and by holders of bids caused a reaction from the inside, but the close was ⅝@⅝c lower, with March 87⅝c, and May, 91¼c. While country offerings to arrive, local handlers reported some increase in consignment notices, and the spot basis was steady to 2c lower. Weakness in wheat had some effect on sentiment, which was somewhat less bullish than of late. Buenos Aires finished ⅝@¾c lower.

Oats lacked aggressive support and under pressure of scattered longs caused a decline of ½@1c with March, 44⅝c, and May, 45⅝c, at the last.

Trade in rye was light and the market lower in sympathy with wheat, the finish being 1@1¼c lower with March 82½c, and May, 83@83¼c. There was some buying of rye against sales of other grains by spreaders.

EVANSTON BOOK FIRM TO ERECT 5 STORY ADDITION

Fountain Square Project to Cost $500,000.

BY AL CHASE.

Chandler's, Inc., of Evanston, one of the best known book and stationery establishments on the north shore, have let contracts for the construction of the second unit in their development at the southeast corner of Davis and Sherman streets. This unit will be a five story building, to stand at 630 Davis street. The first unit, at 1573-75 Sherman avenue, was recently completed. It, too, is five stories.

These two units form an L around the corner parcel. The old improvements at the corner are to be razed, possibly within two years, when a building to conform architecturally with the L shaped structure will be erected. It is stated that the first two units will represent an investment of about $500,000. E. O. Blake is the architect.

Will Use All Space.

The stationers will utilize all the space in the L shaped building. In the basement will be found the college room, for the sale of school books and supplies, not only for Northwestern university students but for the public school pupils of Evanston. The first floor will be used for the sale of general books and will have a gift shop, stationery section, etc.

The second floor will be for the sale of athletic goods and Boy Scout equipment; the third floor will house the general office and equipment and top sections, and the fourth floor will house the art department and general offices. Storage space will be provided on the fifth floor.

Founded in 1895.

Chandler's, Inc., was founded in 1895, when Henry E. Chandler bought out the novelty shop of Miss Jennie Simpson. C. H. Chandler, brother of the founder, is the president, and T. F. Airth is the general manager. The establishment is in the heart of Evanston's business center, facing on Fountain square. The Chandler holding fronts 70 feet on Davis street and 112 feet on Sherman. When the corner building is completed it will be rented to outside interests.

The Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank, trustee, has transferred title to the property at the northeast corner of Dearborn and Division streets to Sam Taralin and Samuel M. Robin. The land, 131½x120 feet, is improved with a building containing stores, offices, and apartments.

The eighteen flats at 805 Sunnyside avenue were sold by John J. Ready Jr. to M. Eva Baber for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $60,000. James Fischer of Mr. Ready's north side office was broker.

Printing Company Leases New Calumet Ave. Building

Charles L. Kelly, doing business as the Calumet Printing company at 1461 South Michigan avenue, has leased for ten years the one story brick building erected by Farr & Co. at 2914-18 Calumet avenue. The building has a frontage of 63½ feet, with a depth of seventy-five. The land and building represent a reported total investment of $20,000.

Japanese Steamship Line Leases Space in the Loop

The Nippon Yusen Kaisha Steamship line, of Japan, operating a fleet of ships between Pacific coast ports and the orient, has leased one half of the second floor in the Real Estate Exchange building for five years. R. B. Witwer, of Hall & Ellis, was broker.

HOG PRODUCTS FIRMER

Stocks of lard and hog products generally in cold storage at leading points in this country on Feb. 1 show decreases compared with last year, particularly in lard, but the latter increased nearly 10,000,000 lbs over Jan. 1 and were 92,676,000 lbs, as compared with 140,526,000 lbs a year ago, a five year average of 92,400,000 lbs. The trade yesterday construed these returns as bullish. With hogs at the highest price of the season and there was fair scattered buying, particularly late in the day, with the only selling credited to packers' hedging. Hog values were strong with receipts lighter than a week and a year ago. At the close lard values were 7½@10c higher, and bellies 5@7½c higher.

Lard in Liverpool was unchanged to 3d higher. Exports of lard from the seaboard were 253,000 lbs, and of bacon 17,000 lbs. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Bearish sentiment in wheat is held in check by fears of the wheat stabilization corporation stepping into the market and making large purchases on breaks. This prevents putting out large lines of short wheat and even the moderate sized and small lines are covered whenever they show a small to fair profit. Under these conditions a draggy, irregular market is expected until more is known as to what the coops will do in regard to the large stocks of wheat in store at terminal markets. The corporation's purchases yesterday were two cars of hard winter in Chicago and 35 cars of Minneapolis.

Clearances of domestic wheat are disappointingly small, but stocks are decreasing at a moderate rate. One of the surprising features of the day was the net decline of 3¾c in Winnipeg and a close around the bottom, in the face of a report that the British government has bought 30,000,000 bu of wheat from the Canadian pool.
